BURGLARS' TOOLS.

Most of These Made by Supp Respectable Mechanics Every little while, said a detective recently, the police arrest a man with a set of burgiar's tools in his possession, and one naturally wonders where they all come from. It is easy to buy a gun of any description, and the most repulable person would not be ashamed to be seen purchasing the most wicked looking knife ever made. But who would know where to get a "jimmy" or a device for drilling into a safe or any of the thany tools used by the professional burgiar in the pursuit of his calling? There are places in the large cities where these things are made and sold to the users, but such places are excoodingly scarce. It may seem a little strange to learn that most of the teols used in burgiaries are made by mechanics who are looked upon as respectable men to the community. When a burgler wants ony particular tool made be goed to a nierhante who can do the job and pays him perhaps five times what it is uclimity worth for making the tool and keeping quiet about it. kinny detertives est recall cases of this kind that have
