

W. H. WILLSON
LEADING FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER
Hannover & Co., Proprietors
Open Day and Night
GEORGETOWN, ONT. PHONE 64

THE GEORGETOWN HERALD

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20, 1912

If you want to see a newspaper in English just look at our daily. If it is a good school we closed for the summer, but the reason of closing is not known, but the reason of closing is not known.

Yester evening carried the Canada Telegrams. As by a majority, and 21 others, 6 shop licensees will be set up. This point in this measure is that it does not touch the cities, and Stratford remains a big "wet" centre so that it will be able to operate to spell a large degree the effectiveness of the measure.

At the rate some automobiles and motor cycles are run through town you would imagine there was no speed limit. It is high time that a stop was put to this practice before some child or grown-up is killed or maimed for life. It is up to the authorities to make motorist understand that our speed limit signs are not put up for ornament, but for the safety of all, and they must be observed.

Are you doing your duty to the Empire in this time of crisis? We can not go to war but there are things so old or so ignoble that we cannot do something, and if we cannot do anything we can pay for one or other of us to do it. Cross Funds. Every man, woman and child should do his bit in this crisis in the history of our country and empire, and all who fail to do so add the enemy by their failure to defeat.

"No patriotic can below automatically upon an extreme democratic political system with approximate to the extent of executive omnipotence."

"It is my desire that the Globe reporter who wrote the report of the interview of the six Austrians at Acton, to town for a day or so to get acquainted with their relatives, should be given the trouble to explain that 'Acton' is between Guelph and Georgetown." The general public knows Acton's location as well as that of either of the other places named.—Acton Free Press."

Probably the Globe reporter thought Action a suburb of either of the two larger places mentioned. It is not a fact that we are bound to our town by living in the neighboring municipality, and if the reporter couldn't find the same on the map he should have looked in the newspaper directory.

Georgetown should be proud of her manufacturers. While otherwise down in importance during the past year, in Georgetown can hardly understand what it means. Not one of our numerous industries (and we have more than any other town of like size in the province) have been closed down for lack of orders for their staple lines of products; in fact a number of them have been and are still working overtime. It is a fact that we are bound to our town by living in the neighboring municipality, and if the reporter couldn't find the same on the map he should have looked in the newspaper directory.

A meeting of the Toronto conference of Methodist churches a resolution was passed against the practice of smoking tobacco in the front. At a subsequent meeting an effort was made to rescind the resolution. Dr. German, speaking on this, said:

"We do not agree with the resolution of many of us. I do not smoke myself, and except in these particular circumstances would not be opposed to this resolution. However, there is nothing in the Discipline to prevent smoking. We overruled the motion, and said it did not fit with our plan or ideas and reads the war news, but by our resolution we don't want boys in the trenches as fighting our battles, to smoke. If men have not enough courage to forget a little thing like that for the comfort of the soldiers, they are not worthy of the country."

It is not always safe for the stay-at-home to be really what the men at the front shall do, and what they shall not do. There are plenty of men in the army who do not smoke. There are many who do. If the sending of tobacco to them is going to in any measure make their lot at the front any more comfortable, why by all means send it along."

—Man of solitary habit and Royal Ordnance the ideal bachelor, and a being of the most natural. Gold only by L. V. Morris. The Retail Store Inc. 56 & 60 George Street.

FRUIT BULLETIN
Mrs. Horatio was your grocer for three years. White Oakheart Cherrys arriving daily. The Red Ripe Cherry for pine are now ready. Her new fruit is coming along next week. All Niagara Peaches grown. See your grocer to-day.

To Our Patrons

Harry Francis Killed
Another Georgetown Boy Gives His Life for the Empire.

With this issue the Herald completes the 100th year of its existence. A half a century has passed, during which time it has been the aim of those in charge to give the public a good citizen paper. As is now generally known, that effort has not been wholly successful, but the name of the paper has been kept alive by the efforts of those who have followed in the footsteps of their past leaders. We trust all for their past leaders. It shall continue to be our plan to publish a weekly issue, a letter of interest to our many readers.

School Report

May Command New Battalion
Major Bellabona was called to Ottawa on Saturday last by Capt. Sam Hopkins, Minister of Militia, to consent to military matters.

It is since reported that Major Bellabona is to lead a battalion in the 4th contingent.

Obituary

Katherine M. Ryan
Katherine M. Ryan, beloved wife of John J. Hunt, died Saturday morning at her home in Georgetown. Mrs. Hunt's funeral service was held on Wednesday, June 23rd. Deceased was born and grew up in Georgetown, about sixteen months ago she was married to Mr. Hunt, Superintendent of Mt. Forest waterworks and electric light plants, and had resided in that town for the past year. Always of a bright and cheerful disposition, she deserved much credit for the way in which she conducted herself during and after the birth of her son, and showed sympathy to the mother, her husband and family in their bereavement.

The remaining brothers and sisters of deceased are—Mrs. V. M. Mohan, Mrs. N. E. Dwyer, Mrs. J. J. Curran, Mrs. A. H. Bucklands, all of Detroit; John Ryan of Montreal and Wm. Ryan of Georgetown.

An interment took place on Friday morning at Holy Cross Church, thence to Greenwood Cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Father Trenor. Many beautiful floral tributes adorned the casket.

The pall-bearers were—Rev. Pleck, Thos. Tresor, E. McNaught, James Henry, L. V. Hougen and J. J. Gibbons.

Mrs. Josie A. Harrington
Lena Dotland (Harrington) passed away at the family residence, Grosvenor Street, Windlesham, last Sunday. Mrs. Harrington was a widow, having lost her husband in 1908. She bore all her pain with cheerfulness and was always hopeful. She was a daughter of the late Amos Dotland, who died in 1908. Her husband, Mr. Harrington, was an accomplished teacher and was engaged on Acton staff in 1888. He died in 1908. Mrs. Harrington, a member of the church, has a brother now occupying high positions in city, town and country. About twenty years ago she was married to David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action friends about a year ago when she was ill. She died at the home of David Henderson, M. V. They resided in Acton for sixteen years, then removed to Guelph where they remained until they went to Winnipeg. Her sorrowing husband and two children, Elsie Jane, 16, and Harry, 14, and a son, Stanley, 12, and Clarence survive. Mrs. Harrington visited her Action