Masonic Grand Lodge

Between 500 and 600 Masons from all over Ontario are expected in London for the meeting of the Grand Lodge for Ontario on July 10 and 11. The complete arrangements for the programme of the meeting, the board of general purposes will meet on July 17 and 18. Eighty-two W. U. A. members will be elected to the office of grand master after the arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors. W. U. A. is also secretary of the committee. The latter is expected to be the office of grand master of the province with W. U. A. J. D. McMillan a close second. District delegates will also have to be selected. London and Middlesex County will probably be made the district this year and St. Thomas and Elgin County another. At present this is all one district. A grand master will not be selected. A grand officer will be selected for two years.

AUDIENCES ARE PICKLE

1) Deane's Yoke Must Be Spelt a Fine Book or a Speech.

One of my favorite fancies is of an audience composed of the elect of the age, with Socrates, Homer, Sophocles, Demosthenes, Praxiteles, Cicero, Horace, Dante, Moliere, Milton, Goethe, Washington Irving, Ben Jonson, Coleridge, Tuckermay and Bernard Shaw in the front row and back of them an assemblage of penmen of the day, ranging from the William Shakespeares to the current "The Knave of Hants".

I can imagine him holding that crowd with a fascinated interest, working up through increasingly palpitating stages to a volcanic climax. And then in the midst of it I can fancy a tongue that will cut glowing furrows in the front row and back of them as she steers every eye and intelligence in that crowd away from the speaker, stealing the attention of Homer, who detects from the rattle that something is happening and who knows himself suddenly possessed with a demoniac desire to get away from the speech.

No audience can resist a cat, a dog, a hat, a hat or any stupid diversion. The more conspicuous the interruption the more splendidly the audience concentrates upon it.—Victor Marsden in Collier's Weekly.

Passing of the Musk Ox

The musk ox is fast following the buffalo to commercial extinction, and the fur will be in a few years as hard to find as a first class hat in the city today. The animal is found on the shores of the Arctic ocean in the Mackenzie district, the fur being much better than the fur of the musk ox, which is very coarse and woolly (taken). The musk ox is a native of the tundra and is found in the fur trading posts of the Canadian west. Owing to the distance of the musk ox habitat from civilization, very few are taken. #### A Continuous Performance

Once upon a time there was a poor and friendless young man who one day received from an older man a short letter of encouragement and confidence. The young man, not knowing how to express himself, did not answer the letter, but at a critical moment it had such an influence upon him that he took courage and eventually made a remarkable success. Years later he met the older man and said, "If it had not been for the letter you once wrote me I would not now be where I am, but it has always troubled me to think that I never acknowledged it."

"But you have been acknowledging it every day since," said the older man.

Sanitment and Grouch

Upson—There is no sadder monument to a mother's life than that which is putting a patch on her boy's pants. She needs must think that the day will come when some other woman will be doing the job.

Downs—Yes, and the other woman will also be filled with a sense of grief to think that she never wrote "Sun-Richmond Times-Dispatch."

Good Advice

"Now, gentlemen," said the dean of the law college, "let each of you make a resolve not to descend to petting, flattery or to put himself upon a level with the criminal classes."

Here he looked around the classroom. "In other words, be a legal light, not a legal dark lantern."

Wisdom of Willie

Mother (angrily)—Why didn't you come when I called you the first time? Willie—Cause I didn't hear you till you called the third time. Mother—Now, how could you know it was the third call unless you heard the other two? Willie—Easy enough, ma. I knew it was the third time 'cause you sounded so used.

Color Harmony

The key to all color harmony is simply this—that kindred or related colors harmonize, as well together, while un-related colors are antagonistic to each other. Those colors are kindred which are side by side on the spectrum band or the color circuit. Red is kindred to orange because orange is an admixture of red and yellow; orange is kindred to yellow because of the yellow in the orange; yellow is kindred to green because green is an admixture of yellow and blue.

Overland

Six $1600

Production and Price

Do the great variety of Sixes and the fluctuating prices seem confusing and perplexing? Let's reason it out.

What controls price? Production.

As a manufacturer's production increases, his production cost, per car, decreases.

Therefore the plant with the largest production is in a position to give more of everything and charge less for it.

We are the world's largest producers of Six and Four Cylinder Automobiles.

Consequently you get in the Overland Six a larger and more powerful motor—a longer wheel-base—the convenience of electric control buttons on the steering column and an almost endless list of other comforts and refinements.

—yet what is the price?
Not $1700 or $1850 but $1600.

And when it comes to a Six Cylinder performance, remember the Overland Six is the star of them all.

One ride will convince you.

BURMA'S COLOSSAL BUDDHA

This statue is said to be the Largest in the World.

The largest monument of the human form existing in the world today, if not in the world, is the great reclining statue of Buddha near Pagan, in Burma, around which the government erected a building with lattice steel pillars to protect it from the elements. This colossal figure of the Buddha that runs northward from Pagan to Mandalay.

While the monument was being banked up to protect the figure from occasional floods, the engineer in charge required for the purpose of his work a ladder, taller than the steepest descent over which the figure was banking could be built. It was found that a ladder of wood was not feasible, and a ladder of iron was not strong enough to support the weight of the figure. It was, therefore, decided to build a ladder of steel. The ladder was built of steel and was 100 feet high at the top and 25 feet high at the bottom. The ladder was built of steel and was 100 feet high at the top and 25 feet high at the bottom. The ladder was built of steel and was 100 feet high at the top and 25 feet high at the bottom.

One Way Out

Despite his military reputation, Bolt has gathered quite a following from his whiteboarding and tabulating trade. Recently during the course of some business with a nursery the latter produced a document, saying:

"Sign your name here, Moss."

"Look here," said Moss with offended dignity, "I don't sign my name, sure. I'm a business man, sure, but I have no time for this kind of thing. I always dictate my name, sure."

Equally,

"No such thing as a free lunch," said Bolt, "but I have a free lunch for you, if you will sign your name here. I have a free lunch for you, if you will sign your name here. I have a free lunch for you, if you will sign your name here."

Lines

Railroads, poems, plays, drawings, thoughtful brows, palms of hands and geometry are made up of lines.

Lines sometimes have a president and a board of directors, and presidents and boards of directors usually have lines. The cars of lines produce lines of cars.

Planes and sentimental young ladies are frequently caught with lines.

Poets formerly were much given to including certain lines in young ladies, but the modern only use the word "line" in their poetry to a woman.

A man who gets a line on other people is either a politician or a detective or a tattoo artist.
