A GOOD BET - A Hundred-to-One Shot
Do you know that never in the past hundred years have the opportunities offered, wage earners been so entirely in their favor as do you today know that it may be another hundred years before similar conditions prevail?

A hundred years is a long time to wait, so the wise man or woman will take advantage of the favorable chances within their reach to make the present bet. The only way to do this is by putting money in the Savings Bank a small portion of today's good luck. Remember this cannot last for ever.

A good chance is in the present. Those who depend upon future chances are betting against themselves and this is generally a very bad bet.

THE BLIND SOLDIER'S SOLILOQUY.

No more bright sunshine will I see,
No more trees in springtime green;
The merry smile on childhood's face
By me no more is seen;

My feet must halt upon the way,
When some one counts my pain,
I cannot see the falling rain,
But feel its gentle fall;

The light of fields of golden grain
Whose color saw I miss,
But God has been most wondrous kind
Who gives me take away.

A thousand blessings of the mind
He showers on me each day,
He shows me the kindness of a hand
I never could know before.

One person gives me help, and I
Can see the world as it is,
I thank thee, God, my Father, for
The things that thou hast done for me.

My memory's faint pictures paint
The things that thou hast done for me,
I thank thee, God, my Father, for
The things that thou hast done for me.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided.

Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,
Thou madest me unaided,

LONG ARM OF THE LAW

MOUNTED POLICE THROUGHT THE MURDERERS FROM ARCTIC
The Eskimos, Murdered Priests and the Mounted Police thought the murderers were from the Arctic.

The record of the Royal North-West Mounted Police shows no more wonderful story than that which is told in this issue of the "Herald" from the other side of the world.

Two Eskimos, Spillik and Uliak, murdered two Catholic priests, Father Lacombe and Father Gagnon, on the Copper River, far in the Arctic Circle, in 1913. After a pursuit that lasted for more than three years, and extended over 5,000 miles, the murderers were brought to Edmonton by Sergeant "Denny" Wright and Constables Wright and Withers. They were convicted, indeed, they freely confessed their crime and were sentenced to death, but on the strong advice of the jury and the Judge it was decided that it would be a crime to execute men who understood so little the nature of their offence and who at the time it was committed were in the Arctic.

Like bloodhounds the squads went first to the wash below the high arched culvert which carried off the most threatening of the big mountain's rushing rivulets in their rages. Here lay his tools, but of himself or the way he had gone there was no sign.

"Blipped," said her father disdainfully, "I found a stray," the first man to play the infernal fool, for it was a long addition to his term when he's caught. And he'll be caught. Now we'll spend the night here.

But here the girl looked through and stood just over the long crack in the slanting rock. She leaned forward a bit, as if she wished her ringing young voice to carry down the mountain side.

"You're wrong, dad," she cried strongly. "I tell you you're wrong! You've been a hunter—a fisher."

Now he stretched cautiously and looked at the girl. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

When the midnight stars stood overhead, the girl's voice, a tiny, whispering sound at the culvert, and a man came crawling cautiously out of it, having merely raised the mat of dripping furs and the blanket.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.

He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man. He was a big man, a big man, a big man, a big man.
