THE GEORGETOWN HERALD
WEDNESDAY EVENG, MAR 27th, 1918

WE ARE the people that are growing gradually and sure. We have a good town to live in. We are in excellent shape to-day and have been steadily making progress since the war. There are no more soldiers any other town of its size in the province. There are no flies in our town and though we all start and grumble now and then, we have just about the best, the most prosperous town in this grand old commonwealth. Now, own up—haven't we?

THE ONLY opposition that will arise to the increased tax on dogs will come from dog owners, who will now have to pay $2 and $4 according to the sex of their canines. There has been a demand for some tax that will perhaps lead to the lessening of worthless dogs running at large, and whether the new tax will result in this desirable reduction or not it will at least be productive of an increased revenue in accordance with the higher cost of living ratio.

At the Board of Trade Meeting on Monday evening it was decided to recommend to the Council that a loan of $10,000 be made to Mr. H. Corke to assist him in re-establishing his woollen mills recently destroyed by fire. We believe this recommendation will meet with the hearty approval of every ratepayer and that the Council are justified in submitting a By-law to the above amount. Mr. Corke has built up a large business since coming to Georgetown and has proved himself a thorough business man worthy of the confidence of our citizens.

THE REGULATION of profits by legislation, owing to a rightly inflamed public opinion, now seems desirable. Were it not so, and were the sentiment not universal, the proposition would never have appeared in the speech from the throne. War has made necessary a re-consideration of what is and what is not a reasonable profit on invested capital, and the accumulation of millions of profits will revert to the government in the shape of taxation, or limitation of profits will be effected in some other manner. The profiteering in foodstuffs has probably given impetus to this legislation as it was felt that the poor were suffering unreasonably by high prices while others added millions to their accounts that averaged too much like the price of bread.

IT IS ADMITTED now by the government that women may be classed with human beings and accorded the chief privilege of humanity, to vote at the polls that shall help to redress the grievances of the country, and that have weighed heavily on women for many generations. For this result the women alone are entitled to credit. They have fought in season and out of season for the right to help shape their destinies, through the laws that govern them and by which they were too often despoiled of their liberties by the enforcement of medieval legislation. Women will perhaps not at once adapt themselves to the new conditions, but they will sooner or later take an active part in the science of law making as the most ardent suffragette would desire. And when they do, man will have to reason why, for he'll have to do or die, politically speaking of course.

Military News

Lieut. Lindsay Sutherland who is recovering from wounds received in France spent Saturday with Georgetown friends. Pte Hugh Graham of the Forestry Bn., returned home from England on Tuesday.

Among Canadian soldiers reported this week as decorated with the military medal for gallantry are Pte. H. Joly, 164 Bn., and Gunner David Anderson, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Anderson, Burlington.

Lieut. J. R. Peacock of the 164th Bn., alias, got home to Milton on Tuesday morning, having been granted a two month furlough on account of the death of his father. Captain "Bobby" Kerr, of his corps travelled with him, having been under similarly sad circumstances, both of his parents having died in the war. Mr. Peacock left the 164th at Wilby, expecting to go to France soon.

The King's regulations provide that when any soldier becomes ill he or his friends must notify the officer in command of his unit. That officer will have his case investigated, and will ascertain if he is securing proper medical attention, either from his family doctor or from a medical officer. It is probable that the majority of soldiers and their friends are not aware of the existence of this regulation. It is a public duty that the majority of soldiers and their friends are not aware of the existence of this regulation. It is a reasonable rule, and certainly ought to be made clear to all military practitioners.

Interviewed

Reeve Alex Joe of Exeter has received the following letter from the Deputy Minister of Agriculture re a recent interview by Council regarding Sheep and Dog Act.

Dear Sir,— Following the interview a few days ago in which "MEMBERS" of YOUR Council and yourself were good enough to discuss the Sheep and Dog Act with me, I submitted your views to the Minister, Sir William Hearst, and thought you might be interested in subsequent consideration given to the subject. The two points which I understood you to emphasize most were that the damage should be paid by County Councils instead of the owners of dogs and village dogs which often do the most harm would share the cost of sheep protection, and second, that any land which does not contribute in taxes to the Township should not have sheep claims recognized. The Minister pointed to give both these recommendations careful attention. On Friday morning a meeting of the Agricultural Council was held and was presided over by the Minister, Sir William Hearst, M.P. for Exeter, was present and was very helpful. He pointed out that the damage done by dogs in towns and villages, and if the Act were changed so that sheep losses would be paid by the County, it would be assessed back against these municipalities instead of being carried entirely by the Township.

In reply to these recommendations, Sir William Hearst said that he had already made the point raised in your letter a considerable consideration. He recognized that the Township to which reference had been made might be under some considerable hardship and thought there was much justice in the point which Dr. Nixon raised. At the same time he pointed out that the purpose of the Act under discussion was to encourage the keeping of sheep, and he feared the following out of the recommendation would not serve this purpose. He intimated that the two points involved might well be considered separately, namely, the question of exemption, and the question of sheep protection and damage.

He announced that Special Committee was to sit during the recess and they were to consider the full question of tax exemption in connection with sheep raising against the County as a whole, he expressed himself as personally favorable to the matter in that respect, but was not yet sufficiently discussed by all parties who would be affected by it in its effects. Under these circumstances he felt that it would be well to leave this matter over for another year at least in order to allow full consideration, but he had no doubt that it would be brought up later on, and unless objections are raised in the interim we raised it might be very reasonably adopted. It seemed to me that you would be interested in the consideration above set out, and I have pleasure in advising you accordingly.

Yours very truly,
W. Bert Rodhouse,
Deputy Minister.
