The Georgetown Herald

Wednesday, August 21st, 1918.

THERE IS NOT so much daylight to save now, and we will soon be wanting to switch back to the old time. As the shadows lengthen the light bills strengthen. The experiment, however, seems to have been eminently successful.

CANADIANS HAVE listed 152,000 casualties, with a death total to July 1st, of 27,040. This is a sacrifice not too heavy to pay for freedom from the sort of slavery that the Hun would impose if he got the chance. History will record the fact that Canada played a noble part in the world's salvation from a rule by brute force.

Chautauqua Opened!

Large Gatherings, Morning, Afternoon and Evening. Delighted with Splendid Program.

The first gun in Chautauqua was fired on Tuesday and from what we have heard and seen apparently hit the mark. Those who anticipated a plesant event were not disappointed with the first days proceedings, which were opened by ex-Warden Fleck, in a few timely remarks, after which he introduced Miss Beatty, the Superintendent of Chautauqua.

Miss Beatty spoke words of welcome to the large gathering and after outlining the program, introduced the talent. She has a pleasing stage appearance and the happy knack of making everybody feel at home.

The Welsh Glee Club put on a splendid varied program, every number of which seemed to delight the audience.

The illustrated lecture by Dr. T. W. Davidson was exceedingly interesting and instructive. There was not a dull moment during his entire talk, and the many beautiful pictures of the land of the Shamrock made more than one Irishman in the audience feel at home once more.

Dr. Davidson spoke of the sunny side of his home and created much interest by recounting "bulls" made by his countrymen. He said that there was a very great mix-up in Ireland at the present time. An Irishman was never happy unless he had something to grumble about and was a curious blend of patriotism and piety. In reference to the Sinn Feiners, he said that they by no means represented the whole of Ireland. The Ulster people in particular were very loyal to England but the demands of some fanatics were such that no government could grant. Dr. Davidson also spoke of the gayety and brightness of Irish humor and gave numerous examples of it.

Come to Chautauqua to-night, rain or shine, as a large waterproof tent will protect you and you will be as comfortable as in your own home.

Terra Cotta

The ten Toronto young ladies from T. Eaton Co. who have been camping here returned home last week, after a most enjoyable sojourn among us. They were a jolly bunch and on several occasions were taken for farmerettes as their garb was generally bloomers and middies, set off with big straw hats. They appreciated the hospitality of those in the village who did everything possible to make their holiday enjoyable. We hope to see them again next year. Those in the party were:—Misses Lindsey, Misses Sargent, Misses Ham, Misses Suttie, Miss Ness and Miss Miller.

A Visit to the Estate of Sir Henry Pellatt

About a mile and a quarter north of King City, between the 4th and 6th concessions of Vaughan township in a rolling country of beautiful lakes and woodland, intermingled with fields of golden grain, lies the estate of Sir Henry Pellatt, one of Toronto's wealthiest and most popular citizens.

On Saturday and Sunday, August 10th and 11th, along with Messrs S. Kirk and D. McIntyre, of the Georgetown Floral Co., it was our privilege as the guests of Superintendent McVittey, (by the way a typical Irishman with the energy and ability to accomplish whatever he undertakes) to spend a couple of days on this large estate which consists of 1400 acres. Owing to our stay being short we did not see everything, but possibly a few of the things observed may interest some of our readers.

Arriving there by auto shortly after one o'clock we were met by Supt. McVittey and taken for a drive with a team of Sir Henry's high steppers over the entire estate, and believe us it's some farm. There are over 700 acres in grain to say nothing of the fields of corn, clover, roots, vegetables, etc. Six binders were busy in the fields and when all is harvested and threshed Sir Henry's estate will contribute something in the neighborhood of 40,000 bushels of grain alone to help feed the Allies and win the war.

The stock at present on the estate consist of 60 horses, heavy draughts, high steppers and saddle horses; large herds of Shorthorn, Belted Dutch and Ayrshire cattle; some four hundred sheep; wild and tame geese and ducks, and fowl of almost every description; over 700 chickens were raised this season.

The buildings are all the most modern and equipped with every convenience, including electric light and a splended waterworks system. Sir Henry's fine large bungalow overlooks a beautiful lake of 50 acres where bass and perch abound, and a splendid herd of Elk, some 20 or 30 in number, may be seen scampering along the edge of the water or taking a plunge in the crystal lake. This is one spot where we lingered, and possibly for a moment envied the owner of such a paradise. But we must pass on from the lake if we are to complete our rounds. There are several barns on the estate but the main one which cost in the neighborhood of $65000 is our ideal when we start in farming. It is built of brick, Ronan stone and cement and is practically fire proof. The main stable will accommodate over 200 cattle, hundreds of tons of hay, and it takes the crop of corn off 75 acres to fill the two silos. There are large root cellars also in connection and a granary with a capacity of over 100000 bushels.

The dairy building and creamery is built of beautiful cut stone and quite in keeping with Sir Henry's ideal of stability and beauty combined. It is equipped with all modern appliances.

The chicken house is over 300 feet long (it looked longer but "Mac" measured it, possibly with ideas of erecting a similar one for himself) and is built of brick with cement floors. It is divided into numerous sections with large runways for each of the many different breed of fowl and is heated in winter by a hot water system.

The afternoon was passing and after admiring the splendid geese, large Pekin ducks, wild geese and ducks, both old and young on a pond at the rear of the chicken house, we proceeded to the Superintendent's residence where we were entertained to dinner by Mr McVittey and his good wife, who certainly made us feel right at home.

In the evening a stroll through the deer park consisting of 150 acres of lake and woodland was followed by a game of progressive euchre in which the other fellows progressed the most.

A peaceful sleep, (the just always sleep peaceful) and the dawn of a beautiful morning saw all astir on the big farm. After being entertained to breakfast by Mr and Mrs Hooper who seemed like old friends although we had never met before, we were again on the go, (having been joined by Mr Jack Shields of Toronto, a good natured witty Yorkshire man) and took in the horse stables. Here we met "Aleck", a splendid scout from the land of the heather, who told us the history of each animal in turn, and what he didn't know about them Jack did. They were a splendid bunch of light and heavy horses. On the wall of the stable were several cases filled with ribbons won by Sir Henry's horses at many exhibitions.

A saw mill, plaining mill and complete threshing outfit are all maintained and operated on the farm. A private electric railway connecting with the Metropolitan on Yonge St., now runs to the farm and will cross the entire estate when completed.

Time flies and the hour of our departure was at hand all too soon. From the estate of one who lives in luxury we must return to our humble abode and daily toil, but not without having derived both pleasure and benefit from our sojourn among the surroundings of a man who believes in living and let live. Sir Henry is a big generous-hearted gentleman who makes money and believes in spending it. He gives employment to many, is a large producer, and the beauty spots he is building will long remain as monuments to a great man with a great heart in a great Canada.

We thank Superintendent and Mrs McVittey and Mr and Mrs Hooper for their very kind hospitality and the pleasureable entertainment provided during our stay among the lakes and hills of our native township, Vaughan. J.M.M.

JOHN KERR BROWN

Died suddenly, at his late home in the Township of Esquesing, on the morning of Saturday, August 17th, in his seventy-third year.

Although Mr Brown's health had not been good for the past few years, his sudden decease was totally unexpected by his family. Mr Brown was born August 19th, 1845, on the farm and in the same house in which he died, the fourth son of the late James and Mary Brown, who died in 1874 and 1887, respectively. Brown of the 5th line Esquesing and Mrs Mary Devereaux also of Esquesing. Mr Brown is survived by his widow, Mrs Margaret Brown, and two sons, Harry R. at home, and Fred J. a member of the C.E.F., whose unit arrived overseas on the day of his father's death.

Deceased was buried in the family plot at the Presbyterian Church burial ground, Limehouse, on Tuesday August 20th. The service at the house and church was conducted by Rev. Mr Cameron, of whose church deceased had been a member for many years. Beautiful offerings of flowers were sent by sorrowing relatives and friends, also by the members of the different church organizations. The funeral was largely attended, many relatives and friends coming from a distance.

The pall-bearers were, L. Chisholm, R. Doughty, C. J. Russell, J. S. McColl, J. R. Lindsay, N. F. Lindsay and G. Henderson.
