SUPPLEMENT

November 26th, 1919.

The man who has purchased a Victory Loan, got the furnace going nicely and put on the storm windows can now settle down in peace and comfort to watch the approach of Santa Claus.

For stealing a $800 overcoat and pointing a revolver at a police man a Toronto thief got off with thirty days. If he had by chance secreted a bottle of whiskey in his overcoat pocket it might have gone hard with him.

Long Felt Want Filled

Mr. H. Morrison has placed on the market an Automatic Door Draft Stopper, that is attached to the door with screws. When the door closes it pushes down a slide with rubber attached that stops all draft from under the door. When the door opens, it automatically goes up out of the way. It is of special value where sills are worn, set one and save coal. He will call on you and put them on for you. —It

Black Quarter

An outbreak of "black quarter" in cattle is reported from Huron Tp. The disease is said to be very fatal, affected animals dying in a few hours after the first symptoms appear. Although "black quarter" has been long known as one of the worst diseases that attack cattle, it is entirely new to this part of the country. With cattle at present prices, so deadly a disease will in a very short time cause heavy loss to the owners of an affected herd. Of course, the most vigorous steps will be taken to stamp out the disease.—Luck now Sentinel.

He Forgot

A Fergus paper is responsible for this one: A farmer residing some miles from Fergus came to town Sunday afternoon. He met a merchant and remarked upon the scarcity of children on the streets. He was told they were probably at Sunday School. He then remarked about the quietness of the town and asked why the merchants were closing on Saturday afternoon, and if the merchant would accommodate him by taking his eggs. He was again told more forcibly that this was Sunday not Saturday, when he suddenly realized his mistake and said: "Good Heavens! And I hauled in turnips all forenoon."

Attempted Holdup

Last Saturday evening Dennis Hunter, of Nelson, was driving home from Hamilton market in a one-horse wagon, with $70 in his pocket. On one of the hills near Waterdown, when he was travelling slowly, he saw a man behind the fence on the roadside. The man crossed the fence, yelled "whoa," and the horse stopped. He then pointed a revolver at Mr. Hunter and demanded his money. Mr. Hunter had his whip in his right hand. He removed his glove from his left hand as if to handle his money, for which the man held out his left hand, at the same time lowering his gun. Mr. Hunter slashed his horse across the face, whipped up his horse and drove away at a fast clip. A little further on a second man stepped into the road and presented a pistol. Mr. Hunter dashed past him and got away safely.—Champion

A multitude of men are likely to get all "lit" up before the W.C. T.U. is through with the tobacco question.

Oakville horses captured all the ribbons in the thoroughbred classes at New York Horse Show last week.

The Tables Turned

An Irish witness was being examined as to his knowledge of a shooting affair. "Did you see the shot fired?" the magistrate asked. "No, sorr. I only heard it," was the evasive reply. "That evidence is not satisfactory," replied the magistrate, sternly. "Stand down!" The witness turned around to leave the box, and directly his back was turned he laughed derisively. The magistrate, indignant at this contempt of court, called him back, and asked him how he dared to laugh in court. "Did you see me laugh, your honor?" queried the offender. "No, sir, but I heard you," was the irate reply. "That evidence is not satisfactory," said Pat. And this time everybody laughed except the magistrate.

A stranger in Chicago had his pockets picked while in church. In Chicago, evidently, it is necessary to watch as well as pray.

A lot of men we know would start their Christmas buying real early—if they only knew where to purchase a bottle or two.
