The Georgetown Herald A Worthy Call

THE BIG DRIVE for $8500 with which to purchase watches for our returned soldier heroes, and thereby show in a small tangible manner our appreciation of their services in defending home and country, will take place on Friday, June 4th, commencing at 10 a.m. Town bells will ring and whistles blow to announce the opening of the campaign to raise the above amount, which the Committee hope to accomplish in the one day. Although the patriotic spirit may have waned somewhat from the war days of the past few years, we believe every citizen still appreciates the noble effort made by our boys and will contribute his or her share towards honoring those to whom honor is due. The people of Georgetown will quite equal to the occasion. They have accomplished anything they have yet undertaken, and in this they will not fail. Kindly have your contribution ready when the canvassers call on you Friday, June 4th.

"WE ARE becoming a nation of liars," said the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Old Plymouth Church in Brooklyn. We would not presume to question the statement of the eloquent and eminent divine.

HERBERT HOOVER is about as good an authority on the world's food conditions as any man alive, and Mr. Hoover declares that the "sugar shortage" throughout the world will last two or three years. It might pay to get the sweet tooth extracted.

AN OTTAWA despatch says: "In answer to a question the government today stated that it would put into circulation the new one-cent coin as soon as the coins are ready prepared. These coins are now in course of preparation, and it is expected that the new coins will be in circulation before the end of 1920. The same designation will be used on the coins as has been in use since confederation."

WHAT OF THE FUTURE? There are rumblings and rumors of what is going to happen to high prices and business generally before the year is out, and while one naturally wishes that the only natural peak had been reached, it is to be hoped that whatever realignment is to take place, it will come gradually and will not involve a crash that will throw us back many years in prosperity. One thing, however, appears tolerably certain and that is there is very little relief in sight for a lessoning of the prices of food products. The "peace and plenty" that we were in the habit of combining, appears to have become sadly separated during the present, after a period, owing to various causes, such as Russia, one of the big producers of food, being still the scene of strife and turmoil, and the farmers of this continent apparently being compelled to raise after the big efforts of the past two or three years and the shortage of help; there is the possibility of no so large a crop being raised this year as last. These conditions combine to keep the prices of wheat at a high level, and so long as wheat remains high, bread will do the same, and all the other grains continue high in proportion. Unfortunately, it does not stop at this; for other commodities will of necessity rise in price and continue high until wheat, which appears to be the barometer of most other prices, takes a tumble. With farmers looking towards receiving $3.50 to $5 per bushel for wheat there is no cheap food in sight.

Action

Mr. Thomas T. Moore and Miss Mae removed to Toronto on Thursday. The disposal of the horse and the removal of this estimable family resident here, seems to be a gradual and will not involve a crash that will throw us back many years in prosperity.

One thing, however, appears tolerably certain and that is there is very little relief in sight for a lessoning of the prices of food products.

An Aberdeen Angus Breeder

What J. W. Burt says of the Daddies One of the oldest most successful and most enthusiastic breeders of Aberdeen Angus cattle in this country is J. W. Burt of Hillsburg, Ont. Mr. Burt himself is of good Canadian Pioneer Stock. His father was a nephew of Admiral Wilson of the British Navy. He came to this country about one hundred years ago, first landing at Burlington and later to Georgetown, where he married Mary Kennedy whose ancestors came to Canada about 1760. He spent a number of years there, engaged in lumbering and surveying and eventually settled on a farm near Hillsburg, Ont.

He was a public spirited man and in many ways proved himself a very useful citizen. He was Reeve of the Township of Erin for twelve years in succession having been elected to this position without opposition. He acted as Secretary of Agricultural Society of the Township of Erin for thirty-five years in succession, and was instrumental in building up one of the best Agricultural shows in the province.

His son J. W. Burt, who now lives on the Old Homestead has specialized in Aberdeen Angus cattle. He was the first Secretary of the Canadian Aberdeen Angus Association, and is a life member of the American Aberdeen Angus Association.

The writer recently had the privilege of visiting his stables. You have a large herd of cattle here? We have fifty head of Registered cattle here. Have you any special methods of feeding? I have no particular fads about feeding for I find that Aberdeen cattle if given a fair chance will do well without any pampering. We are evidently an enthusiast for the breed. Could you state in a few words your reasons for preferring this particular breed?

"Each breed has its friends, and, doubtless, has its good qualities, but I prefer the Aberdeen Angus for the following reasons: First, it matures early, being the only breed that has produced a champion at the fat stock shows in Britain at the age of one year. For the production of baby beef the breed has no peer.

"Second, it is claimed, and I think correctly, that the Angus will put on more beef per hundred pounds of feed than any other breed. In the Angus you have an animal that will produce a thousand pounds of beef in the least possible time, and on the least amount of feed."

"Third, the quality of the beef is unequalled, being juicy and mild, and in special favor with the butchers.

"Fourth, the percentage of beef per carcass of the live animal runs very high. In the carcass competition at the Smithfield show, the breed has won the championship five times as often as all other breeds combined.

"Fifth, the Angus, when crossed with other cattle, will make a uniform herd quicker than any other breed. No other breed shows greater propensity in imparting its offspring the characteristics of hardness, vigor, early maturity, and meat-producing excellencies.

"Sixth, I like them because they can be handled in large quantities and fed close together, without fighting, as noted animals do. This may be one reason why the Angus fatten easily and quickly. The best way and most humane way to dehorn cattle is to use an Angus sire. You notice that these babies of mine that are running loose feed together like a bunch of sheep."

"The value of these cattle as beef producers is expressed in the results of the great fat stock shows, where they have come out competitors with the best of other breeds. The Angus have won more championships than all other breeds, or cross breeds, combined. See sale ads in this issue."
