PEOPLE WILL TALK

You may get through the world, But 'twill be very slow.

If you listen to all that is said as you go,

For people will talk.

You'll be worried and fretted and kept in a stew,

For meddlesome tongues must have something to do,

And people will talk.

If you're modest and quiet you'll find it precious

That your humble position is only assumed.

For people will talk.

You're a wolf in sheep's clothing or else you're a fool,

But don't get excited, keep perfectly cool.

For people will talk.

And then 'twill show 'twill least business of heart,

Or a slight inclination to take your own part.

People will talk.

They'll call you an unquiet, conceited and vain;

But keep straight ahead, don't stop to explain.

For people will talk.

If you're a man of your own mind or old-fashioned your hat,

Someone will surely take notice of that.

And people will talk.

They will hint rather strongly you can't pay your way.

For people must talk.

Now the best way to do is to do as your please,

And your mind, if you have one, will still be at ease.

And let people talk.

Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse,

But don't try to stop them, it's not any use.

For people will talk.

A Little Holiday

But all holidays come to an end and after spending several days amid those delightful surroundings with no one to say a cross word of any of us, we packed up our luggage and returned to our arduous duties, looking forward to the time when we shall again return to the lakes and tall timbers of the north.—J.M.M.

Here from my window I can see a place of pine and streams, where silence and peace I see a place where I would be again.

And so do you!

Beyond the smoky skyline far it lies, Where the dull pageant of the world is hid in shadows of the night.

And the full actors in it, all are wise, Restless and busy.

These many busy months my eyes I've bent, Upon my desk, or on the passing show.

They interest me no more—give me a rest!

And let me go.

Let me a while run clear of place of men, Of casuistry and such idle things.

Give me the mystery that, beyond men's ken, From Nature springs.

Up on a shore where big pines tower and the water is so blue, One laughs at things that must be understood.

He only feels—a big world and clean— And knows it good.

That's why the woods in summer call us so.

To friends full many reasons we outline.

For leaving town; but there is one we can't define.

We can't define.

One says his goes to fish, one to canoe.

One for his family's sake, or change of air.

Proteuses all! I want, and so do you.

Just to be there.

Presentation to Miss A. L. Beesey

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 27th, after the regular quarterly business meeting, the friends of the Baptist church joined in saying good-bye to Miss A. L. Beesey who is leaving town to reside in the city of Toronto. The choir leader, Mr. H. H. Hays, delivered the following address during which Mrs. (Dr.) Watson, on behalf of the church, presented Miss Beesey with a beautiful rosette.

"A few weeks ago we heard of your leaving us with much regret. Our first thought was to write you of the time and money you have given to the church and community. Frankly, we remind you of the time and money you have given to the church work. In your service in the other parts of the church were equally as good and faithful. We also esteem you most highly for the life duties which have at times been in all you have walked in the footsteps of your Lord and Master.

Now Miss Beesey on behalf of the church and as a token of our appreciation of your services we present you with this lamp, and as you enjoy from time to time the light may remind you of the people of Toronto for your Lord and Master who is the light of the world."

Erin

Mr. H. Beesey, Georgetown; and S. Mills, Orangeville, and Mr. Harvey Matthews, Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Matthews, Fair day.

Mr. Bobb, Beesey, of Erin, has sold his farm to Mr. J. W. Walters, Koorfeld.

The engagement is announced of Miss Margaret Beesey and Mr. Bert Inwood, both of Springwater, Sask; the marriage to take place Nov. 17th. Bert is a grandson of Mr. Matthew Tarswell, of Hillsburg, and a veteran of the great war.—Advocate.

Limehouse

Mr. H. Gartley of Georgetown, who has been drilling on the member "Erin" Mr. H. Tarswell for the past few weeks, has at last been successful in striking the water vein.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Meredith and babe and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Noble and babe visited friends in Georgetown on Sunday.

Mr. W. Brownridge and Mr. M. C. Coulton visited at the home of Mr. Wm. Scott last week.

About fifty young people spent a very enjoyable evening at the home of Mr. Richard Marshall on Friday last in a first year taking of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Marshall.
