A Few Points

Tombstones, Taximeters and Clothing Advertisements are said to tell the biggest lies. Not simply as a matter of "Common Honesty," but as a matter of good business policy as well, we never "draw the long bow" or overstate a value.

We want your "all time" confidence, not your "one time" purchase. We don't go to any length to get business, but we do keep it when we get it.

THE LESSON

You will discover by and by. When you have grown as old as I. Then, certain men at whom you sneer, With habits strange and customs queer And sometimes very coarse and crude And in their conduct very rude, Grow rich, while men of finer grain In humble poverty remain.

And no doubt, too, as it may be, You'll notice this and wonder why Why should the barren intellect The treasure of the world collect, While polished minds from day to day Must struggle for a meager pay? If ignorance to wealth can rise, Why be a gentleman and wise?

Yet, when these thoughts shall come to you, Consider this, so rich to be, Count up your friends and his right then— Would you give up the kindly man Who stand by you and take his place? Almost an outcast from his race? Would you be laughed at, as is he, The richest man on earth to be? And for mere gold so highly prized Would you be piloted or despised? Learn from such men that here on earth Money is not the proof of worth, And power is not the show of wealth is laid In nothing but a pile of gold.—Edgar A. Guest.

Look Out for These Sharks

New Idea, a Toronto financial publication, calls the attention of the public to the fact that Ontario investors both large and small are being "taken into camp" by the operation of a time-worn but still profitable stock peddling scheme. It says that complaints and reports of the operations of this "gang" are coming in from all over the Province. The scheme is apparently a new variation of the "option" money-collected by the operators of the scheme, presumably has reached a large sum.

Securing contracts for the reorganization of established and thoroughly reputable industrial concerns and using the "option" and "release" trick, they are peddling the stock among the stockholders of the concerns. They are making a systematic canvass of the people interested in securing dividend payments on established Canadian concerns. The New Idea then proceeds to show how the "clean-up" is effected. Moral: Have accurate records of the strangers offering to sell you stock in industrial concerns. You'll be sorry if you do. We are informed the gang were around Halton last week.

An Enormous Toll

The forest fires in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia this year have been in the great majority of cases humanly set. Few were caused by malevolence, but the effect on the public purse is not made easier to see because of that. Of the thousands of dollars of public money expended by three provinces for fire fighting, the millions of dollars in timber and other property, not to speak of the sacrifice of several lives, the greater part would have been wholly unnecessary if fishermen, campers and settlers choose to observe common sense precautions with fire in wooded districts. The Canadian Forestry Association points out that of the series of huge conflagrations in the forests of Eastern Canada this year, practically all commenced without faulting anyone, in direct defiance to the fire laws and the interests of the public. Lightning has caused a number of this year's forest fires, but ninety per cent. of the loss is attributable to such causes as settlers, hunters and campers. The camp fire which the user fails to extinguish is a formidable enemy, and the cigarette and match thrown down on the inflammable floor of the forest takes an enormous annual toll.

Milton

On Monday Police Magistrate Dico ordered the confiscation of a case of whiskey which came to the G. T. R. station by Canadian Express, addressed to a man who when notified, called and said he had not ordered it. The seizure was made last week by License Inspector Harvey.

Judge Elliott left last Saturday on a motor trip to the northern part of the county of Peterboro'. He left his headquarters in Milton Monday for the first time since he was struck five weeks ago and pneumonia followed. He is doing well now, has a good appetite and hopes to regain his health and strength quickly.

At a meeting held on Tuesday evening it was decided to hold the annual Veterans' Reunion in Milton on Aug. 18th, 14th and 15th, under the auspices of the U. W. V. A. and citizens. There will be baseball, athletic sports, etc., with a garden party in the evening, followed by a dance.—Champion.

Erin

We are sorry to note that Mr. C. F. McMillan is confined to his home. He had been helping his son in the harvest field and evidently the heat has affected him. We trust he will be around again in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. A. McCarty, of Bootlegger's Bank, have been visiting with friends here.

Mr. P. Lovel, who was confined to the Orangeville Hospital with blood poisoning in the knee, is now able to be about.

Mrs. E. A. Kennedy, of Hornby, is visiting her cousin, Miss Mand McMillan.

Miss W. Sawyers, of Toronto, was a week-end visitor with friends in town.

Miss Mary McLean, of Toronto, is spending her vacation with her mother here.—Advocate.

Girl's Statement Will Help Georgetown

Many women will profit by the following statement of one of their sex: "I was afraid to eat, on account of stomach trouble. Even rice did not agree. After taking Adler's Kidney and Liver Pills, my appetite returned, my stomach was relieved, and I was able to eat again. I had not been able to eat for several days. I feel so much better now."—L. V. Hourigan.

Notes and Comments

THERE are now 699 newspapers and periodicals of all classes published in the Province of Ontario, as against 944 before the war. This means that there has been a decrease of 245 papers in the last half dozen years. The publishers have been hard hit by the high cost of paper, by increases in labor or ink, metal, type, machinery and everything else entering into the cost of publication. The result is the mortality among papers as shown by the above figures. It is not likely that the vacant places will be filled in many cases as it costs too much, now, always to start and establish a newspaper, as it also does to operate them.

EXTENSIVE prosecutions all over the country are about to be instituted by the taxation branch of the Finance Department against those who have failed to make returns of income as provided by the Income Tax Act. While the number of returns this year is very much greater than before, and with much less suspicion of fraud and concealment, there are thousands who have not complied with the act at all, and evidently plan to escape the taxation which applies to all with income in excess of the statutory exemption. The department, having returned from employers, have a good idea of those who are assessable, and it is not a difficult proposition to check up and see if they have made returns.

IT WILL BE GRATIFYING news generally that the Chinese famine is over, after many months of suffering, in which millions of families were in danger of starvation and were only saved from actual death by the relief which poured in from other parts of the world. Britain and America were generous contributors to the relief of the Chinese, enormous sums being raised for that purpose, and a most encouraging piece of news in connection with this affair is the announcement that no such famine is likely to occur again. The American Red Cross and the Presbyterian-Canadian Mission have been employing 15,000 laborers, constructing a 500 mile road to Shanghai. With an adequate system of railroads and wagon roads there is said to be little danger of the great diversified agricultural nation ever suffering seriously from famine.

WHILE THERE IS EVERYWHERE an indication that church-going is not as general a custom as it used to be, figures supplied through the United States census clearly reveal that religion is still a powerful force in that country. According to the statistics just revealed nearly 45,000,000 people out of a total population of 105,000,000, have recorded themselves as members of some religious denomination or other. In addition to this there were 22,000,000 pupils in the Sunday Schools of the United States, many of whom were not included in the church membership above referred to.

Not a bad total, considering the cosmopolitan population of the country.

How many of these are dead-wood is quite another matter; the poor attendance at the churches these days is a highly significant point, and another indication of a decline in religious fervor, so far as Christianity in the United States is concerned. At any rate, it is to be found in the statement that 10,000 church pulpits vacant in that country at the present time. Several causes are cited for this, chief among them the small stipends paid to the clergy.—This undoubtedly plays a big part, but the neglect of the church as a profession is symptomatic of the sentiment of the times. As the Montreal Gazette remarks: "The old beliefs no longer occupy the position of authority they did some years ago. In not a few of the theological colleges in the United States orders have to be revised to receive the subscription of the students, who are now required to go forth and preach the gospel—minus the dogmas which in our fathers' day, were deemed to be all-essential. Lay opinion everywhere demands service rather than dogma."

There is a good deal in what our contemporary says, but the chief reason for the existing situation is that too many are refusing to take religious matters seriously. Some propose to get out of thinking about them till death comes, and then they appear to take the view that they will get along somehow. The fact of the matter is that the worship of the golden calf has become as prevalent in these days as it ever did in the journeyings of the children of Israel, with the result that the attractions of the world, the flesh, and the devil are greater and more enticing than ever. Christianity is just as real today to many people as it was, but with all the world's distractions it requires great courage to proclaim its message, and great courage still to attempt to live up to it. If Christianity were really in danger, however, we imagine its professing followers would rally nobly; the trouble with a lot of them is that they have become lazy and indifferent through not having to be put to the test.
