Methodist Anniversary

The anniversary services in the Methodist Church last Sunday were attended by large congregations both morning and evening, when Rev. B. A. Kirk, Minister, and Mr. Kirk, Minister of the National Training School, Toronto, preached eloquent and inspiring sermons at both services.
At the morning service, after reading the 15th chapter of Luke from the 11th verse, the speaker chose as his text "The Elder Brother."
"Son thou art ever with me and all I have is thine," said the father's answer to the elder brother when he criticised him for making merry on the prodigal's return. Some people wonder why the elder brother is mentioned in the chapter at all, while some say he is there to give a background or setting to the prodigal son, and appears to be the most abused brother in the Testament. While the prodigal son asked for his share of the father's property and received it, the elder brother was not covetous but remained obedient to his father's wishes. He could have had his son but had respect for his father and would not claim his right as long as his parent lived. The difficult situation in the family to-day is with the one who assumes the attitude of the prodigal; there is no respect with the elder brother. The prodigal is popular with the underworld as long as he has money in this fast age, but give me the elder brother. Whoso money are you spending? Is it what you have earned or your father's? Read the crime lists, much of which could have been eradicated with sane expenditure of money. The lavish use of money by the rich is what causes so much bitterness and strife in the world to-day. The elder brother's attitude and clean life is much safer than that displayed by the prodigal son. Some smile at living and making money, but do not know as they say, but they put a blot on the character that is hard to get away from. The prodigal son could never be the man his elder brother was. The elder brother led a clean honorable life and could look any man in the face. There is a place for the prodigal son, but we should emphasize the advantages of right living and making friends with clean men. We all need God. There is an impatience of morality toward immorality which says, if he can't walk straight let him go. Moral men and women who have tried clean living and understand the fallen. If fathers and mothers were as heartless as some there would be no glad hand shaking when the prodigal returned. There should be more tenderness shown by good people to those who have sinned. When sin enters the home all suffer and all should bear the burden. The church must labor for the sinner and the boys and girls who have made mistakes, but don't sit at the feet of the prodigal with brass bands, fatted calves, etc. The good living man who is always there should be commended. Let us uphold those who have always earned sin. Children need not become prodigals, and it took the church a long time to understand this attitude. It is just as natural for children to be wood into the kingdom of Heaven as for them to be won by the fathers and mothers. The elder brother was justified in criticizing his father. If your boys stay by you why not let them have a little for themselves. There are reasons why children leave the farm. The father said "all I have is thine." Let's not forget all heaven and earth are at the disposal of God's children. If you are not happy to-day you have not reached out to God. Too many to-day are living on fatted calves or complaining because they haven't them when God says all is ours for the asking.
At the evening service the preacher chose as his text the 7, 8, and 9th verses of the 19th Psalm. He pointed out the perfectness of the laws of God and that if it is easy to do right when the life is in harmony with God. The church was not large enough to accommodate all who went to the evening service.
The special music by the choir, male quartet and solos by Miss Josephine Wilson, Mrs. Rennie, Mrs. Black and Mr. Thos. Roberts were greatly appreciated. The organ volunteers by Miss Buck at both services were also much enjoyed.
Rev. R. F. Cameron and Rev. J. H. Moore assisted at the evening service.
The pulpit and chancel were prettily decorated with flowers.

To The General Public

As will readily be observed, the company has a valuable property and the security is ample. But, while a sound policy has been followed in creating a valuable, modern and efficient plant, the directors find that the working capital is too small and therefore this opportunity is now given to the general public to enter this hitherto private company.
To Wool Growers, invitation is particularly given, and to investors of this class a contract will be made to manufacture their wool free for a period of years in sufficient amount to bring the returns on the shares to 10% per annum.
Management
The President and Manager, Mr. H. Cork, is well known as a woolen mill manager and manufacturer of long and varied experience. As former director of the Board he has the able assistance and advice of Mr. E. Y. Barraclough of the Glen Woolen Mills, Glen Williams, Ont.
Payment
Terms may be arranged and any further information obtained on application to the undersigned.

The Ashgrove U.F.W.O. and U.F.W.O. held their annual fowl supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Reid on Tuesday evening, October 31st. The house was decorated with appropriate Halloween decorations. About 80 members partook of the sumptuous repast prepared by the ladies, after which the members listened to a programme of music, recitations and an address by Mrs. Laws, Secretary of the U.F.W.O. At the close of the programme a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Reid and family. Mr. Wilfred Bird, President of the Club, was chairman of the evening.
The Ashgrove U.F.W.O. packed a bale of clothing valued at $400 for the relief of the fire sufferers of Northern Ontario.
—From now on O.T.A. enforcement officers are not to carry firearms. Mixing with drinks as they do occasionally in such a business the recognition might easily be dangerous.
