Many things have happened since that day.

They report road conditions in the South very poor, but in Indiana and Ohio they are excellent. On reaching Buffalo and crossing into Canada they were greatly surprised at our good roads. Methodist Choir Plans
Members and friends of the Georgetown Methodist Choir to the number of about 40 motored to Oakville on Monday morning and spent the day there. The set, provided by the young ladies of the choir, with the drinks and ice cream provided by the men, proved a great combination judged by the havoc wrought at the lunch table, which was spread "a la gipsy." A feature of the afternoon's fun was the ladies' nail driving competition which was won by Mrs. Fred Cook and Mrs. Vanzander who evidently had built more chicken-houses in their day than the rest. The weather was ideal and every moment of the time was thoroughly enjoyed including the drive down and home again. The choir are particularly grateful to those gentlemen who kindly loaned their cars for the occasion, namely:—Messrs. Koster, Cook, H. Gartley, Roberts, Beck.

Georgetown Chautauqua

The celebrated Metropolitan Orchestra launched the program on Saturday afternoon last with a popular concert. On Saturday night they also gave a short musical concert and then John B. Batto presented his Impersonation Revue. Mr. Batto is one of the world's greatest impersonators, and he presented impersonations of some of the great men who have recently helped to shape the policies of the world. Mr. Batto also gave impersonations of some of the great composers of music such as Verdi, Bizet, Wagner, Rossini, etc., and the Metropolitan Orchestra rendered some of the more popular selections that these great composers gave the world. Mr. Batto's Impersonation Revue is rather unique and many people pronounce it as being one of the best numbers given on a Chautauqua platform.
On Monday morning the children's program was provided by Kelly, Ventriloquist, with his talking dolls and greatly delighted the large number of children who were present. In the afternoon the Glen Wells Company presented, "Atone-ment," which was specially written for them by the well known English playwright, Herbert T. Thomas. In addition to the presentation of the play they also delighted the audience with miscellaneous readings and instrumental and vocal selections. In the evening the program was opened by a few selections by the Glen Wells Company after which Judge E. D. Alden gave a lecture on "The Needs of the Hour." This lecture was greatly enjoyed by those present and many expressed the opinion that it was altogether too short.
Tuesday morning the children were entertained by Misses Miller and Aderton in "Characters from Story Books," which made a great hit with the young folks. In the evening a splendid New York cast presented the popular comedy "Cappy Ricks" and although the program was somewhat marred by the rain everyone present thoroughly enjoyed the play. This morning Duval, the magician, applied the program for the children and this afternoon Leonard Brass Choir gave a grand concert and they will also appear again this evening. Frank Preston-Johnston will deliver an address on "The Basis of Liberty."
