PROVIDENCE

What is that light, which points the way for mortal eyes not light can see? What is that light, on which all light depends, And with creative power through space descends? What writes of "love" on youth's humbled page And "life eternal" on the brow of age? What is that light, that fond and cherished hope Without which all the world would darkly grope? That light is God.

What is that voice I hear within, through life, That echoes through our ranks of common strife? A father's voice in wisdom to appraise, A mother's voice to comfort all the race. What voice alone attuned perfection sings, When all our world of song discordant rings? Turn in the day the darkness of the throng, And agonies of death to hopeful song? That voice is God.

What mighty hand maintained protection cold Upon this reel, through direst winter cold? And found my life dormant Wind-tossed and And planted it, supplying every need? The hand whose torch must touch the sun with light, Whose shadow means calamity and night? The hand whose law has written its control Upon each lily and eternal soul? That hand is God.

Action

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Brooks of Georgetown spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinnear on the farm of Fred Doony, 2nd line, on Sunday. It had a fresh hole and re-appeared on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Nicholas Forbes sustained painful bruises by a fall on the icy pavement on Frederick Street on Saturday evening. She was confined to bed for several days.

On Saturday morning Municipal Officer Macpherson met with an accident which might have been attended with serious results. He was fixing one of the windows in the auditorium of the town hall, and was using a hatchet. He descended his high step ladder, leaving the hatchet on the top. When he took the ladder to move it to another point the hatchet slid off, and in falling struck him on the top of the head. The sharp point cut through his heavy cloth cap and inflicted a bad cut in the scalp.—Free Press.

Crowding The Schools

William B. Prendergast, principal of the London Normal School, pointed out clearly one of the greatest mistakes of the Ontario Adolescent School Act when he said: "A boy who does not want a high school education should be allowed to go to work. There are many under the adolescent attend school who are simply marking time at school and are wasting what little effort they are putting into their studies. They are simply waiting for the time when they will reach the prescribed age when they will no longer be subject to the provisions of the law and can leave school."

There is no doubt that the Adolescent School Act and the conducting of kindergarten classes are largely responsible for the country is now enduring. In this former case many pupils are forced to occupy a seat and engage a teacher's time in a school when they would much rather be at work. In many cases they actually should be at work to support themselves, if not to help their families. There are many occupations that do not need the extra school years now forced upon young men and women. The fact has proven that.

In the case of kindergarten classes there is a world of truth in the statement of a young matron who claimed that the kindergarten was a wonderful thing—they relieved her of the necessity of looking after her kiddies and gave her more time to herself. What the kiddies learn in the way of education is negligible.

If the public wants and demands these two institutions—the kindergarten and the Adolescent Act—then it's time to quit chewing the fat about the school accommodation and to speed and erect more schools to supply their needs. But they cannot expect to add pupils at both ends—the bottom and the top—and expect the same buildings to house them. It can't be done.

Required implement parts should be ordered now and attached before the machine is needed. There is nothing more exasperating than to be waiting for a broken part when the soil is abounding in grey spots in the spring that make a man anxious to get on the land.

Interesting Address

On Tuesday evening, January 16th, an interested audience met in the Public Library Hall to hear an address on "Better Methods of Teaching English," by Miss Ronald Archibald, M.A., of Acadia College, Nova Scotia.

Miss Archibald proved a very interesting speaker. She congratulated Georgetown in having first place in the Better English Campaign in Ontario. Having worked out a scheme whereby pupils might be brought to speak English correctly, she felt it her duty to let all Canada know of her methods. She impressed on her hearers what the teaching world has ever known that it is only by drill, constant drill, in correct forms of speech, that ease in speaking correctly can be arrived at. The way to speak English correctly is to speak correct English.

The English language is a wonderful heritage and it is only right that the coming generations be not cheated out of their birthright. The King's English, in coming down to us through the ages has been enriched from many lands, the Greek giving it beauty, the Latin strength and the French flexibility.

The reason that incorrectness of speech continues in spite of the schools is not the fault of the teachers but of the methods used. Miss Archibald is an enthusiastic believer that Canada supplies a portion of the brains of the world, but that many great Canadians are hampered by inability to speak correctly. The methods advanced by the speaker came to her as an inspiration in a dark moment. She has worked on it till now, and has in book form a short cut to correct speech, not to supplant rhetoric and grammar but to be an aid only to correct speaking. A short demonstration of the method with a 4th grade class was given.

The meeting was then addressed by Mr. Bengough, who, in his enthusiasm, had come from Toronto to hear Miss Archibald speak. He spoke in praise of Miss Archibald's method of teaching English; urged that no grammar text book be used by pupils and finally advocated phonetic spelling which would be in, direct opposition to the line of talk put forward by Miss Archibald.

Mayor Dale addressed the meeting and highly approved of any method whereby our English may be improved.

The keynote of the lecture was given on correct forms and although not altogether a new idea, the audience was enthusiastic in its desire that a Better English Campaign be encouraged.

Milton

Dr. Joseph Telfer is recovering from his illness, but slowly. He is up for a short time every day. G. H. McArthur of Kildare received word yesterday that his brother, William, of Innisfail, Alta., had died there.

Judge Elliot had more cases to try at Oakville than he could dispose of in one day and adjourned the sitting, as he did those at Georgetown, for the same reason.

At a meeting held on Monday evening, 14th inst., it was decided to arrange for an "Old Home Week" celebration, the dates to be June 28th to July 1st.—W. F. Dewar was appointed as its manager.

Mr. Hoops of Hoops Ltd., Toronto, paint manufacturers, is here to-day. He proposes to go ahead with the removal of the company's plant from Toronto to the Textile building here. There will be a new organization, the Milton Paint and Varnish Co., Ltd.

Sportsmen have killed a good many jack rabbits in the Milton neighborhood within the past few months, a good thing for the orchards.—Champion.

Young Man Missing
Much anxiety is felt by relatives and friends of Russell Joyce, aged 25 years, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joyce of Brant, who has not been seen or heard from since he left Brant on December 24, to go to Toronto, where he expected to spend Christmas at the home of his aunt. The family has begun a search for the missing young man. Occasionally Mr. Joyce has gone away for a few days, so that at first no doubts were entertained regarding his safety. It is over three weeks since the missing man left home.

Interesting Cattle Case
Much interest was taken at last Friday's sittings of Division Court at Milton in the case George Emmett vs. James Turner and Wm. Near. According to the evidence the plaintiff bought two heifers from the defendant Near and sold them to the defendant Turner. In neither case was there a guarantee given, but the heifer killed in Mr. Turner's slaughter house. Their lungs proved to be in an extremely bad state, tuberculosis. They were buried after notice to the plaintiff and payment was refused. The plaintiff sued Mr. Turner and afterwards set an order to add Mr. Near as defendant. After hearing the evidence Judge Elliot said that all the parties appeared to have acted in good faith and the liability of either of them was "matter of law, and of evidence." He reserved judgment.—Champion.

Notes and Comments

IT IS REPORTED that retail merchants of Ontario have organized themselves against the outside encroachments on their business, and will apply to the Legislature for amendments to the Transient Traders' Act and the Hawkers' and Peddlers' Act, under which door-to-door agents, and those who represent concerns outside the city and village retail from room in holiday will be required to take out a license.

DURING THE WAR period there was a "Let 'er go Gallagher" style adopted and with many it continues to this day, irrespective of class or position. There is a pleasure many programmes on the go that costs a heap of money and often interferes with the practical activities that must be maintained if accounts are to be squared up by the end of the year. The only way to get back to normal conditions, is for every one to commence with themselves and as personal success is attained, broaden the work to take in the family and the community. With living expenses so high and the maintenance of public affairs on the rise, the spendthrift manner of living can have only one exit—that is down and out. This is no pessimistic photograph, but a real picture of conditions with many.—Hussey Post.

MANY MUNICIPALITIES throughout the province are making protest against being compelled to prepare the voters' lists for provincial elections, and they are justified, as there is no good reason why the province should not foot its own bills and show up in its own accounts the full cost of government. In those days of expensive road making and the high cost of everything, the municipalities find financing strenuous enough, without adding to their budget expenses that belong to the province, which is not under the necessity of making direct levy on the ratepayers. The Assessment Commissioner of Toronto stated the other day that it cost the city over $15,000 for the purpose of making up these lists. All over the province the expense has been proportionate to the size of the municipality. Every list should stand on its own bottom, and it is not fair that the province of Ontario, with its many resources, should make up a million dollars of its expenses on the backs of the municipal council.

IN SPEAKING ABOUT bands and town bands in particular, we sometimes hear people carelessly say, "What good is a band in a town, anyway?" Well, first take inventory of the fellow who makes the remark. You may have reason to allow the silly question to go unanswered. But regarding the remark more seriously, let us say that a good band is one of the most useful things a town has, and that it can possess. It is one of the best advertisements a town can have. Emerson says something about the world making a beset path. Well, a good band will make all the roads leading to the town, be they paths, even though the town's other attractions be not enormous, every merchant is benefitted by a good band. Many people come to town to attend the entertainments and they combine shopping with this pleasure. The promoters of the business and musical enterprises always have the satisfaction of knowing that their civic demonstrations from time to time will be successful, because they have a band to lead the parade and attract the crowd. A band composed of local players is a tower of strength to any town or section of country. It cultivates the public ear for music, and does it right at your door, too. Every enterprising citizen will boost the band wherever he goes.

IT IS EVIDENT that the manufacturers of oleomargarine are preparing to have the question reopened during the next session of Parliament and are leaving no stone unturned to have the embargo that prevents the manufacture and sale of "Oleo" in Canada, removed. Circulars are being printed and distributed which extol "Oleo" and astutely twist statements of Government officials about-in an attempt to show what a terribly inferior product Canadian butter is. Anyone acquainted with the situation is quickly impressed with the absurdity of the deductions and pronouncements contained in these leaflets; but unfortunates they are likely to create impressions amongst the consuming public that will be inimical to the cause of agriculture and public welfare. Arcadianmen and dairy organizations going to sit tightly by and twiddle their thumbs while this thing is going on? Will they allow their cause to go by default as they did in 1923? Will dairy-men the Members of the House of Commons, to be misinformed by oily "oleo" literature and make no effort to place the facts before parliament and the public? Many a good cause has been lost at Ottawa because those whose cause it was did not support it. We hope dairymen will be alive to their duty and carry on an energetic, honest campaign in the interests of agriculture and the state.—Farmer's Advocate.
