How's Business?

Advertising, backed up by the right spirit, the right goods and the right service, can rescue a sinking business and will make a prosperous business more successful in its own community.
When John Wannamaker, the Prince of Merchants, began business, he resolved to force matters. He was not content to WAIT to be found out—he DECIDED TO BE found out. In short, he advertised. He threw on his business, small as it was, the light of publicity, and the public of Philadelphia entered the shop on which the light shone.
In this community the public is entering those shops on which the light of advertising is falling.

Less Pot-washing

SMP Enamelled Ware has the smooth surface and polish of fine crockery—without the breakage. And it is so very easy to clean—just like china, and therefore makes light work of pot washing.
Try this test. Take an SMP Enamelled Ware sauce pan and an all-metal sauce pan of equal size. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Put on the fire at the same time. The SMP sauce pan will be boiling merrily when the water in the other is just beginning to simmer.

Georgetown Boys' Guests of City

Five Heaviest Sons of Georgetown Give up World Conquest
The Stratford Beacon of last week contains the following:—
"There came from the effete east, yes, as far east as George, Iowa, five adventurous young Argonauts, out to see the world and 'con' gather the Golden Fleece that since time immemorial has been the goal of mankind. Alas and alack, the only fleece that lined their blankets was of a purity of color, white as the driven snow, which it was.
Reflecting that there was nothing to be gained, except pneumonia, from such beds, these bold adventurers consulted together and—bought themselves of the residential quarters maintained at the expense of the citizens in the City Hall where comfortable beds of steel gratings are supplied, guaranteed free from vermin because the bugs cannot live on them. On lining up before Sergeant 'Bill' Carl they said: 'Prize this fair, we would occupy the luxurious beds in your cell room.' There upon did Sergt. Bill consider, and finding that they appeared clean, neat and respectable, all dressed alike in khaki overalls, suitable for world touring, he thought that it might be all right. First, however, did he consult by means of the magic Bellaphone with Inspector 'Charlie' Gagen who said: 'Lock 'em up and we'll see in the morning if they are all right.'
It was done and upon due investigation it was found that the young travellers from the Town of George—were all to the mustard and indeed worthy sons of respectable sires. Three of them announced that they would remain steadfast in their faith and still seek Border City, Windsor, there to win the Golden Fleece. The other two being faint of heart, partook of the Feast provided by the city guards, and decided that there was no place like home and went on their way rejoicing more or less.
Thinking that the Chapter was closed, the city-guardians of the peace closed the incident. Yes and behold early this morning there dribbled into the precincts of the guard room, three bedraggled wayfarers who, when suitably dusted off, proved no other than the noble followers of Ulysses, who when last seen were heading for the border. They confessed their failure in weakened tones and—bought some food to stay their fast. This was provided and this afternoon the iron horse speeded them to their home, there to ponder over the advisability of this noble squire and the difficulties of winter travel in the environs of the Classic-City."

Acton

Councillor M. Near of Georgetown, was here on Saturday attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late Wm. Cooper.
Mrs. Coyne and Miss Coyne of Brampton were guests during the week at the home of Mr. N. F. Lindsay.
Mr. John Clarke Jr., of Port Credit was in town on Thursday.
Mr. Wilfrid McDonald was here from Detroit for a few days last week, visiting his father, Mr. Wm. McDonald, who has been seriously ill.
Mrs. Thomas Statham returned home from "Guelph on Monday evening after spending about a week there with her daughter, Mrs. E. Stannor.
St. Paul's Church congregation voted by a large majority in favor of a new role on the question of Union. It is stated that those in favor of Union generally refrained from voting.
At the congregational meeting of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, they elected as minister, Rev. W. M. Kinnear, B.D., one of Acton's sons, was in creased from $8,000 to $8,800—Free Press.
Was Out in Business?
The recount held in connection with the municipal election at St. Forest resulted in Councilor Flett, who was given a majority of one vote over J. Lutton on election day, being re-elected. Mr. Lutton was declared elected following the recount by a majority of one. Judge Klein of Walkerton presided at the recount.
Little Girl Saves Family
The family of Frank Prook, of Hanover, had a very narrow escape from death by asphyxiation as the result of escaping gas from a coal furnace. Had it not been for the courage of a little seven-year-old girl of the family who at daybreak staggered to the next door neighbor's house for assistance, the entire family would have perished.
One hundred and fifty farmers sat down to a dinner at Imber, Ohio, and the meal cost them just $4—each. Nearly everything on the table was the product of the farm, and the cost per plate was computed at the price which the farmer received for the products, plus the labor cost of preparing the food. The same menu was then computed at a neighborly "restaurant's" price, and amounted to $1.55 a plate.

Novral

The February meeting of the Women's Institute of Novral was held at the home of Miss McPherson, Inverhorne, on Thursday, February 7th, with a large attendance of members and friends. At the opening of the meeting a few items of business were discussed, one being the disposal of the money collected for the Armenian children, there still being a balance on hand of $42.72 after $35.50 had been spent for caps and mitts.
Nine young ladies from the Brampton Junior Women's Institute gave a very entertaining programme, the first number being a piano solo by Miss Dolson which was followed with vocal solos by Miss Fuller, recitations by Miss Uphall and instrumental duets by Misses Strangway.
A very inspiring and instructive address was given by Mrs. Will McClure on "The Home," emphasizing that "Mother" has the most important part to fill in every influence affecting the home.
A pleasant afternoon was brought to a close by an expression of thanks to the Brampton ladies, moved by Mrs. Noble, seconded by Mrs. Kyle and heartily responded to by all present for the excellent programme.
A sumptuous luncheon was served by the Institute Committee. A union meeting in the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening of this week. Mrs. Parker and Brown of Toronto are stated as the speakers.
The program at the Young Peoples on Monday evening was nice. The solo, Miss Tocantini, missed the Radial at Runnymede Road, but Miss Fiddler met the situation with an splendid array of talent and gave a most edifying and enjoyable program. Next Monday is young men's night.
Song service in the Methodist church next Sabbath.
The oyster supper in the Methodist church has been withdrawn on account of another meeting to same night. A congregational at home has been arranged instead for next Tuesday evening.
Mr. Evans is convalescing splendidly and so is Mrs. Cantelon.

Milton

By a unanimous vote of the Presbytery of Toronto at its monthly meeting on Tuesday the call from Knox Chapel, Milton, to Rev. W. D. McIntosh, of Brantford, was sustained. The call was fully signed and provides for a stipend of $2,000 a year, with manse and four weeks vacation.
Last Friday evening the Halton Agricultural Society honored two of its veteran directors, W. N. Scott and R. J. Campbell, both of Milton, by presenting them with a gold-headed cane each. Mr. Scott has given 34 years' service and Mr. Campbell 25 years' service on the board of directors.
The amount expended in Halton by the Department of Public Works on provincial highways in 1923 was $708,942.63 for construction and $1,752.13 for maintenance. Halton is called on to pay 20% of this—$149,988.52, and W. I. Dick, County Solicitor, has instructions to prepare a debenture by-law for that amount. This must be the last big issue of road debentures in Halton for some years to come, as, with the proposed expenditure for this year, $23,000, it will just about reach the county's borrowing limit, to say nothing about the pining of the taxpayers.—Champion.

Notes and Comments

A GREAT MANY PEOPLE forget what a library is. It is not merely a collection of books. It is not a museum. It is a place where are contained the best material of the age—collected and handed down the centuries, embracing all sides and shades of human nature. Rightly directed by the experience of the librarian, the searcher after knowledge can be led in the right avenue to the city of truth, where he may banquet at his leisure, and ascertain how far he has progressed since the time of his fathers, who knew not what a public library was.
A GALT LADY has been badly burned by attempting to move an electric heater while taking a bath. A few weeks ago a similar accident in London resulted in the death of the victim. Care is necessary in using all electrical appliances, but the combination of a heater with the water in a bath is particularly dangerous and it might be well to give every purchaser of a heater a warning against this peril. The most careful person is liable, in a moment of inadvertence, to make the connection which may be followed by a fatal or painful result, and the safe plan is not to use the heater in a bathroom at all.—The danger is all the greater because the bathroom door is usually locked while in use, shutting off the inmate from prompt assistance.

LOOK WELL TO THE HEARTHSTONE, therein all hope of Canada lies is a true saying that should be impressed on the fathers and mothers throughout this Dominion. Look well to the hearthstone," do we hear the prophet truth? In general the Canadian household is daily becoming more and more neglected of its duties and opportunities; and had example, especially when it abounds on every hand, is contagious. In former times every child received much the larger part of his education in the home. There he got his moral and religious instruction, his views of life and standards of conduct, his habits of work and often much of his adjustment for earning a livelihood. The modern parent is too ready to shift to other shoulders all the responsibility of bringing his child up properly. He depends on the Sunday School teacher to give the child his religion, on the Scout master to give him proper moral standards, on the teachers of the school to teach him not only the three R's but how to work, how to play, how to use his head and eyes and brain; on the school nurse or members of the public-health department to teach him how to look out for his health. The excuse is that those persons are all experts, better fitted than the parent to give the child what he needs. But they are all likely to give it in an impersonal and mechanical way. None of them will give a boy or a girl the same amount of affectionate, personal attention that the right sort of father or mother will give him. None of them have the necessary time or patience to give him the needed attention or to be bound to him by the close and intimate ties of parental love. Children are notoriously more and more drifting away from the hearthstone for their good times as well as for their serious education. Parents look on helplessly and too often resignedly. Perhaps they are indolent and do not want to take the trouble with their children that their own parents took with them; perhaps they are timid and do not know how to oppose the prevailing fashion among their acquaintance; perhaps they are bitten with the modern "socialistic" idea that persons who are paid by the state are necessarily the only persons competent to train or to educate a child. Whatever the causes are, the home seems to us to take a smaller and smaller share in the bringing up of each succeeding generation. Parents are so much occupied in "developing their own individuality," or seeking their own entertainment or culture, that they neglect the most serious and God-given of their responsibilities. By loading these responsibilities on every other agency they can find they little by little lose the respect and affection of their own children; and they weigh down the school system with duties that it cannot properly perform, and that interfere with the work-invest and schooling. "Look well to the hearthstone," therein all hope for Canada lies.
