"Well, becase of accidents is to get at the cause it takes a lawyer to get a scene of the accident as quickly as divorce, and there are none up possible and make observations, there," replied the client. There seemed to be a general feeling on the part of some of the engine ers that people who meet with K accidents on the highways take it for granted that they can collect damages from the municipalities regardless of who may be at fault. A number of cases were cited along this line, various engineers, giving details where the reckless driver had tried to press a suit, but where he had withdrawn the case as soon as he learned that the municipal officials had really . visited the
