Prospects for Good Fruit Crop Leading fruit growers of the Niagara fruit belt agree that the orchards are in first-class shape. Trees are looking their best and give promise of an abundance of bloom. This applies to every variety of tender fruits. Of course, it is pointed out, a heavy rain or a late frost could do considerable damage, but under normal conditions there should be a full crop of fruit in the Niagara district this year. As for grapes, it is too early yet to give an opinion as to crop, except that the vines have wintered well. The Niagara fruit belt is situated between Toronto and Niagara Falls and is one of the most productive areas in North America for apples, plums, pears, peaches, cherries, strawberries, grapes, etc.
