INFLUENCE

You have seen a little pebble in the water lightly thrown, And it vanished, oh, how quickly it was out of sight and gone!

But the ripples from it widened, stretching outward more and more, Never ceasing in their motion till they reached the other shore.

Fellows, you are casting pebbles in life's ocean day by day, Words and thoughts and actions vanish like the pebble in the water, But, as ripples from them widen, each one bears another soul, Bither nearer God or farther from Life's eternal goal.

True, when words and actions vanish they are gone beyond recall,
But they leave in silent motion waves of sweetness or of gall.

Tis a solemn thought, oh, weigh it, none can live to self alone; Lives of others are made brighter or made darker by our own.

Even the thought we fully cherish, hidden deep within our hearts By a power unseen some good or evil debt impart.

Then guard with care the influence you are leaving day by day, For 'twill aid in moulding other lives—when yours is passed away.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

Feeling held June 2nd, 1864, Georgetown Company

Following are the names of the volunteers in Georgetown Company who took part in the Fenian raid:

Captain, James Young; Lieut., W. W. Roe; Ensign, John R. Barber; Drill Sergeant, Robert Harwood, of the Prince Consort's Rifles.

Corp. Nicholas Armour, Robt. Bailey, Ben Barker, Joseph Barber, Wm. Carson, John Cook, Wm. Donaldson, Hiram Grandon, Jas. Goodwillie, Thomas H. Godfrey and Sergt.
William H. Godfrey, (brothers), Sergt. Wm. Gano, Henry Harris, William Hardy, Thomas Harris, Byron Hill, John Hardacre, Charles Kennedy, Jacob Kennedy, Albert Kennedy, Andrew Love, J. Livingston, James Mitchell, Sergt. Major Walter McKay, Corp. Daniel McKenzie, Robert McGaw, Robert McIlroy, William McIlroy, Henry Norriss,
Chas. O'Meara, Robt. Pierson, Stephen Stull, Brock Stull, D. S. Travis, Daniel Watson, Thos. J. Wheeler, Henry Willis, John F. Taylor, Isaac Taylor, Joseph Wedworth.

In 1900 when the nation called for volunteers of the 20th Battalion offered and went to South Africa. One of the number, Sergt.
"Stanley" Moore, (a brother of our Editor) paid the price and was killed in Africa. We did not forget him as a fine monument was erected by his friends and comrades in the Cemetery in Acton.
Another event in this case was the return of one of our distinguished soldiers in the person of Lt. Col. James Ballantine. There, was, I think, the greatest reception ever given to a returned man in this town. This along with his distinguished services in the late war justly places him in a very high and important position which he now occupies in the U.S.A.
As to the boys who played such an important part in the late war, the whole is too fresh in the memories of all to recount them here. They did their part and did it well and it is gratifying to see such a monument erected by the town to commemorate an important part in the late war, over three. One hundred and fifty four signed up, twenty-six lost their lives. The officers who took part were—Lt. Col. G. O.
Brown, Major M. Kennedy, Capt.
John Kennedy, Lt. Ed. Leavitt (killed in action), Major Murray McKinley, Lt. Grover Brock, Major R. L. Barber, Flight Lieut.
Cyril Barber, Cavanagh Somerville and Jas. Clark.

In calling on Mr. Thomas Mc-Nally, who is confined to his home, he informed me that I had made a mistake in a recent letter regarding Mr. Scumling being the paper-maker for the Barbers; it was John Harvey.

Woolen Manufacturers Protest Against Tariff

Woolens and knit goods manufacturers from all over Canada, together with representatives from substantive industries which depend for their business on the millinnet at Toronto last week at the sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Woolen Manufacturers' Association.

In his annual address, George A. Dobbin, of Galt, President, said:
"Instead of being able to report progress and prosperity in the woolen and knit goods industry, the launching of new enterprises and the extension of those in existence, the past year's net results have been disappointing to the majority of the mills."

"Canadian trade figures for the calendar year 1923," he said, "show imports of woolen and knit goods of $40,700,908, or $1.75 worth per head of population. Contrast this with imports into the United States of $65,287,149, or only 47 cents per head of population.
Had Canada imported only at the same rate, we would have given full-time employment to between forty and forty-five thousand operatives, instead of employing about half that number."

At the afternoon business session the following resolution was passed deploring the results which have followed reductions in the tariff and the failure to pass legislation against dumping and depreciated currencies, which, in part, read:

Whereas the result of forsaking the National Policy and reducing the tariff five times since the war is apparent in the depression which has lasted for several years, the erosion of thousands of skilled workers to the United States, the closing down or partial operation of many plants, the distress of thousands of farmers whose domestic markets have been restricted, and the general decrease in business activities:

Therefore, be it resolved that the Canadian Woolen Manufacturers' Association, in annual meetings assembled, strongly protest against this ruinous policy which has been followed since the war, and determine to do everything in its power to bring about the restoration of the old National Policy of protection, and with it tariff rates that will encourage the development of production in Canada.

"And a resolution on the British preference as follows:

Whereas Canada adopted the principle of preferential tariffs within the British Empire in 1871, extended a preference to the United Kingdom in 1884 and has increased this preference materially since that time; and

Whereas the United Kingdom has not extended a reciprocal preference to Canada with the exception of those provided under the McKenna duties now repealed; and

Whereas the principal competition with Canadian manufacturers under this preference has been borne by the manufacturers of woolen and knitted goods in Canada; and Whereas this competition has been increased to very serious proportions by the depressed tariff rates of the United Kingdom and lower rates of the United Kingdom; and Whereas the result has been that in the calendar year 1923, the imports of British and knit goods from Great Britain were 52 per cent. of the production in Canada, and 48 per cent. and in 1922 amounted to the great total of $23,111,778;

Therefore, be it resolved that the
sociation, in annual meetings assembled at Toronto on May 29, 1924, submit that, owing to the conditions set forth in the preamble of this resolution, the tariff preference now extended to the United Kingdom largely at the expense of the manufacturers of woolen and knitted goods in Canada, should be discontinued, as it bears so heavily on this indigenous and necessary Canadian industry.
