To The Public

Having sold my insurance business to Walter T. Evans, Georgetown's leading Insurance Broker, I wish to thank those who have trusted their insurance with me in the past and trust they will renew the same with my successor, who will give you the same careful and courteous attention, which has characterized his own large and ever increasing business.—Chas. Biddy.

Laid to Rest in Greenwood

The funeral of the late Rev. R. F. Cameron which took place to Greenwood Cemetery last Friday afternoon was very largely attended, many people from out of town being present. The church of the church was appropriately draped in black and purple while the pulpit was banked with the many beautiful floral tributes from various church organizations, the High School Board, church members and friends. The tolling of the church bell marked the time of the funeral procession through the town where all business was suspended for the time being. At a memorial service held in Knox Church on Sunday evening Rev. W. M. McKay preached a very impressive sermon from the text, Phil. 1st Chapter and 21st verse:—"For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain."
Thompson—Watson
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Knox Church, Georgetown, on Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Jean S. Watson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson was united in matrimony to Mr. F. LaVerne Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Thompson, Glen Williams. Rev. Mackay officiated. The bride wore a gown of dove grey in French brocade crepe with hat to match. She carried opelia roses and lilies of the valley. During the signing of the register Mrs. Lewis Pulling, Kansas, sister of the groom sang "O Promise Me, Miss Gladys Anderson, Winnipeg, presided at the organ. After the ceremony a reception and luncheon was held at the home of the bride's parents, later Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left amid showers of confetti and the good wishes of many friends to spend the honeymoon in Muskoka. The bride's going away gown was of Belgian blue with grey wrap and hat to match.

Norval

The late Joseph B. Waite who died on Friday last was born at Eden, Toronto Township in 1845, son of Isaac and Ann Waite the oldest of eleven children, 3 sons and 6 daughters of which one brother and 2 sisters survive. He was married in 1871 to Catherine Keator of Trafalgar Township, a most devoted christian woman. He was converted to God in early life and connected with the Eden Methodist church for 38 years where he was a very active worker as Sunday school Supr., Bible class teacher, steward and trustee. He sold his farm and moved to Brampton in 1913, where his wife died six years later. Since that time he has lived in Norval with his two daughters until his death. His family, Geo. of Sask. Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, Mrs. Frank Hunter, Norval, all of whom were present at the funeral have the memory of a precious heritage. The funeral, which was largely attended took place from the home of his son-in-law Frank Hunter and was conducted by their pastor Rev. W. H. Douglas assisted by Rev. Liggett of Stayner, a former pastor and friend of the family. The community and a wide circle of friends extend their deepest sympathy. Among the many former friends present at the funeral were Dr. and Mrs. Speer of Burlington and Mr. J. S. Deacon of Toronto.

Obituary

REV. ROBERT FLEMING CAMERON
When the news rapidly spread early on Wednesday morning last that the Rev. R. F. Cameron had passed away it was felt that the people of his congregation had lost their beloved pastor and friend, and the community a public spirited and valuable citizen.

Deceased was born in the Township of Hamford in the County of Oxford, and was the son of John and Elizabeth McComb Cameron. He was one of a family of seven brothers and a sister. These all survive him and are James Cameron of Brussels, John, William, Matthew, Allen and Thomas, all of Grey Township, County of Huron, and Mrs. Margaret Steinhilf of Pasqua, Sask. Robert passed through the Public School and afterwards attended the Collegiate Institute of Kincardine, also the Collegiate at Stratford. He entered Knox College, Toronto, in 1886, and graduated in 1890. In the fall of that year he was ordained by the Presbytery of Stratford and inducted pastor of the church of St. Andrew's, Toronto, in 1891. He remained there for about eight years. He received a call to the Georgetown and Limehouse congregations which he accepted, and was inducted on May 3, 1901. He was a Christian man of scholarly attainments, a forcible preacher, a kind and sympathetic pastor and possessed executive ability. His sermons always showed study and careful preparation. He spoke the truth in love and at the same time was faithful in reproof where Christian principle was at stake, or there was any practice that he considered wrong and detrimental to the individual and general welfare. He was modest and void of all pretense, dignified, of a social and genial disposition, with a sense of humor and not afraid to laugh. He had good judgment and tact in dealing with difficulties, and where there was a little friction in the machinery the lubrication of good common sense and a Christian spirit generally removed it. As a result he had a united people who co-operated with him in his work and they lived in peace.

He called upon the families of his congregations once a year at least and promptly and frequently where sickness or trouble existed, and his coming brought good cheer and comfort. He responded to many calls outside his churches and was in demand to preach anniversary sermons. He enjoyed good health and was strong and rugged looking and of great powers of endurance. He conducted an adult Bible class on the Sabbath morning, conducted the church service, preached at Limehouse in the afternoon, walking over a year ago and during that day's work with another service in the evening. The writer of this sketch has received a call from him at night after this day of work and asked if he was not tired. He said "Oh no." His churches grew under his hand and their contributions to the Missionary Boards and other worthy objects increased.

In November last his health broke, but it seemed to himself as well as to others that he would soon recover and resume his work. The pitcher, however, had gone too often to the well. His illness was of a very serious nature from the first. While remaining hopeful until some weeks ago he was gradually sinking, and finally he realized that the end was coming nearer, and could say: "Not my will, but Thine, O God, be done." During his illness he appreciated highly the loyalty and affection of his people and said, "They have been very good to me." To all his friends it is a comfort and reason for thanksgiving now to remember his Christian life, the services he rendered and the esteem in which he was held.

He was chairman of the Board of Georgetown High School, a member of the Senate of Knox College for two terms, moderator of Toronto Presbytery and had represented it as commissioner in the General Assembly.

On Friday afternoon a private service was held in the home conducted by Rev. W. M. Mackay and Rev. W. Patterson. At the service in the church the Rev. Dr. W. G. Wallace, a pastor of the congregation many years ago, the Venerable Rev. Dr. B. P. McKay and the Rev. Malcolm McArthur, moderator of Presbytery occupied the pulpit. Dr. Wallace, who knew Mr. Cameron in his student days and had been a close friend ever since, spoke from intimate knowledge of him and in the highest terms. He was followed by Dr. B. P. McKay who endorsed all Dr. Wallace said and added some appropriate lessons founded on Romans 17. The Rev. W. M. Mackay read the scripture and Dr. McArthur led in prayer. The audience room of the church was filled with people and among them was a large representation of the ministers and elders of the Presbytery of Toronto.

In addition to those already mentioned there were the Rev. R. McDermont, Dr. J. M. Duncan, Dr. Richard Davidson, Rev. Hugh Matheson, Rev. Thos. H. Rogers, Rev. J. H. Paulin, Rev. James Malcom, Dr. Ross, Rev. A. J. Mann, Rev. W. J. Robertson, Rev. J. A. Miller, W. J. McDonald, Robert Stewart, Mr. Alexander, G. M. Dallas, W. O. Mock, John T. Moore and C. S. McDonald.

The sympathy of all the people of the congregations served by Mr. Cameron and all friends, with his wife, Mrs. Cameron, and their son, Ross.

The elders of the church acted as pall bearers, and the interment took place in Greenwood Cemetery, Georgetown.—Con.

It's Important to Cut Silage at the Right Time

If silage is cut too green—or after the frost has taken hold of it—it won't make nearly as good or profitable feeding as if cut at just the right time.

That's where one of my "Toronto" Ensilage Cutters proves its worth. Makes you independent of a hired outfit—enables you to cut at the right time.

Enables you to refill after shrinkage, too—a feature which helps pay for the Cutter in a short while. And it will cut your straw in the winter.

A small gasoline engine will operate this efficient Cutter. Let me demonstrate its quality features to you or ask me for free literature.
