FAITH

I talk my faith—a noble word—
As from my tongue it trips
And frequently 'neath my hand
From other smiling lips.
Faith! the strong armor of the soul!
Faith! the reliance of the weak
Faith! we shall reach though tempests roll,
The happy port we seek.
And yet when comes the cruel test
Along the path of men,
When blinded by self-interest,
Does faith sustain one then?
I wonder have I faith enough
To stand beneath the rod,
To bear life's bitterest rebuff
And leave it all to God?
Have I that faith of which I boast
When life is at the sweet,
To take the love I treasure most
And lay it all to rest?
And yet I know should such a grief
As that be mine to bear,
Without the spark of my belief
I should be helpless there.
Nor word of man nor love of friend
Comfort or peace could bring,
Faith must sustain me to the end
Or I'm a broken thing.

The Sunny South

Following is another interesting letter descriptive of the South from Mr. Frank J. Barber.
Passing back over another bridge to Daytona City we looked up the Tourist Camp where we found a great many other campers. All camp grounds in Florida are licensed and inspected by state officials and it is forbidden to camp anywhere but in a proper camp. The state found it necessary to do this in order to be able to control the thousands of auto tourists who visit the state every winter. This helps to guard against trouble from a health and cleanliness standpoint and also against fires. Some of the camps are exceedingly well equipped, with lavatories, running water, cook houses and pavilions. The soil everywhere is sand and is therefore dry except during rain, and is clean always. When we landed in we were met by the owner who collected fifty cents and assigned us our space. We soon had our tent up and our beds made. Then we cooked and had supper. The camp was lighted by electricity so we visited round a bit and then retired. This was the first night we all slept outdoors but it was quite warm so we had nothing to fear on that score. Kathleen, Harold and Roaf took the tent. Mrs. Barber slept in the back seat of the car and found it quite comfortable. My bed, as I described before, was made of galvanized pipe with a canvas cover, the pipe resting on the top of front and back seats. This I had made so that I could take it down for carrying. It was alright except that I made it too narrow and was unable to get in and out easily getting up on the side irons. Everybody was astir early next morning. Getting breakfast over we packed up and got away about nine o'clock.
We leave the Atlantic coast here and pass inland through Deland, Sanford, to Orlando. At Sanford we had some ticklish driving. The bridge over the St. Johns river had been washed out by recent heavy rains. The spilling had been driven for a new bridge and cross in passing inland through Deland, our road was on two planks for each wheel laid lengthwise of the bridge. There was a hundred yards of it which had to be taken very carefully. I don't know now how I got over without pitching into the river. However, we made it and soon arrived in Orlando.
This is where Mrs. Aberdeen lives, who used to be Dr. Bailey up Toronto. We did not see her however as we wanted to get along to Lakeland. Orlando is a very thriving city and the centre of large citrus fruit and truck gardening industries. It is the gateway for very heavy automobile traffic both north and south and across state from the Atlantic to the Gulf of Mexico. A recent count showed over one thousand cars a day passing through Orlando. One of the finest Tourist Camps in the South is to be found here.
Passing on through Kissimmee and Haines City we arrive in Lakeland for supper. Distance 188 miles from Daytona. Stopping at a service station at the outskirts of Lakeland we made enquiries as to boarding houses. The young man we talked to had come to Florida from Toronto about two years ago. The place where he boarded had more accommodation so he directed us there and we soon arranged for rooms and board for all of us and also for Gordon and Mrs. King whom we wired to come on over by train. We were very comfortable here for nearly two weeks while we looked around.
Before we left Toronto we had heard a great deal about Lakeland and the surrounding country, mainly I suppose, because we happened to meet people who had been there. At any rate this was where we were headed for on our journey South. Arrived here we were disappointed, probably because we had expected too much. The city is advertised as having 7 lakes in its boundaries. So it has, but some are only ponds while all are shallow with dirty shore lines and very little sand beach. Compared

Notes and Comments

WHEN WHAT DROPPED eight cents a bushel in so many minutes in the Winnipeg grain pit two speculators found had to be removed in an ambulance. Bread may be the staff of life, but this gambling on its basic product is a killing game.

THE MODERN HOME is heavily handicapped. The prevailing craving for diversion is one that robs the quiet of the home of its charm and restfulness. The question of every day is, "Where shall we go to-night?" Too often, the home is entirely forsaken. Members of the family return at all hours and retire without meeting each other. Breakfast is eaten, if at all, as each is ready for it. In many homes there is no family meal full evening, if then. Home life and influence, in such, is practically hopeless. If we are to get back to some of the old-time honesty, parents will have to get together in a movement to re-establish the old-time home.

EVERYWHERE people are coming to realize more and more how inter-dependent we are upon each other. The only individual who is self-sufficient is a hermit. The keynote—the foundation of civilization—is the family. We all concede that. And we're rapidly coming to realize that our own home town is a home town family—simply the family unit a little bit extended through neighborhood cordiality, friendship and pleasant social intercourse. Common good will and recognition of our human obligation is a deeper currency than any money system ever invented. But it is also to our advantage on the material side of life—it rebounds in better practice, living conditions, more generous impulses. It makes this town a better place to live in. Let's make our home town unit closer knit. Let's be generous with our good will—realizing that the prosperity of the individual is directly reflected in an added prosperity to our community.

St. Alban's Church

At the annual meeting of St. Alban's church, excellent reports were presented and showed a very successful year's service and financial resources of occupants or owners of property adjacent to snow or ice-covered walks. Municipal councils, in view of this, are faced with a situation that places the responsibility for accidents caused by slippery pavements squarely upon them. They will be compelled either to have the ice and snow removed at the general expense or take advantage of the Municipal Act and compel householders and owners of property to make the sidewalks safe for pedestrians.

Construction, Not Destruction

Georgetown and Esqueping Public School teachers please take notice. Scientific Temperance essays and posters are to be sent to Mrs. Denyes by April 16th. We hope all the schools will take part in this splendid contest. Liberal prizes are offered by the Scientific Temperance Department.

Just a word re the nature of Posters desired this year. When attending the S. T. Conference of the American National Children's Union held in Chicago in November, Miss Frances Stoddard, of S. T. Federation, Boston, declared, "No more Skull and Crossbones!" We want no more destructive posters. We want constructive posters.

Let me illustrate by a few on exhibit there—

1. "Broadest the Good News—Prohibition is here to stay." (A radio with loud speaker).
2. "Give the Babies their Birthright—Health without Alcohol." (A laughing Babe, rosy with health).
3. "Safety First." (As related to Transportation in various ways)
4. "Grown for Health—Not to Make Alcohol." (Grains prepared into foods, bread, etc., and not thrown into vats to manufacture liquor).

You get the idea, don't you? Tell your teachers of it.

Tea Supply Inadequate—Prices Higher

Tea prices are going up mainly because tea is being demanded by millions more people. Tea is the cheapest and certainly one of the most palatable and satisfying beverages known. But the tea-growers have been unable to meet the tremendous demand. It takes three years for a tea bush to mature to the plucking stage.
