Facts About Optometry

By Dr. C. C. Floyd, Optometrist Georgetown. Phone 276

NO. 16 OF THE SERIES
 A short sighted person's distant vision is reduced. The result of correcting near sight is to extend the distant vision. The extent to which this can be done depends upon the degree to which the person is short-sighted.
 Near sighted persons are, in many cases, with their corrections enabled to enjoy the benefits of nature for the first time, and their pleasure in life is in every case greatly increased.
