HALTON RIFLES

Plans for the coming year's work of the officers of the Halton Rifles Regiment held at Burlington last Friday night. It was announced that the training would take on a new form, in accordance with instructions received from district headquarters. In future training will take place at local company armories, as in the case of the city regiments. The whole training program will not, as in former years, be entirely focused upon a summer training camp. Camps will still be held, probably at Long Branch ranges at some other place in the county that can be easily reached, but they will normally be of only a few days duration and will be restricted to soldiers who have received training. It is now recognized that two weeks summer camp preparation days is impracticable for the majority of young men in steady positions, and that more training will be accomplished by establishing local centres in the various towns of the county, which will be meeting-places for the members of the regiment during the whole year.

Major H. M. Kennedy, who recently succeeded Major Mahon, of Cambridge, in command of the regiment, called upon the officers to devote their best efforts in establishing the new centres. A provisional school for training officers and non-commissioned officers, with instructor in attendance from the Permanent Force, is being arranged for, to commence next month at Burlington and Georgetown. There will also be a school in signalling, probably in Milton, and the regiment will send candidates to the Weapon Training School at Toronto, and also to the Militia Staff Course. In addition, a program of rifle competitions is being arranged to be held at the militia ranges, some of which there are now three in the county.

The Halton Rifles are now brigaded with the Peel York and Ontario Regiments in the 25th Infantry Brigade. A competitive tactical exercise, in which the Halton officers will match their skill against the Peels, is to take place about the end of the month. The scheme being played out on two evenings, one in the Peel area and the other in the Halton area. The annual Brigade Staff Rifle, which at present is held at the militia ranges, is planned for the month of October, and will be this year in the neighbourhood of Brampton. The exercise took place near Georgetown last year, and at Uxbridge in 1923. These Staff Rifle games are held in some neutral area. It looks like a busy winter for the Halton.

The company officers have been instructed to see that the sergeants' messes are set up in the company armories, and that everything possible is done to make the training efficient and interesting. Drills are to be of minimum length, and the bulk of the instruction will be technical in nature, dealing with army organization and maintenance, and the care and use of the most modern weapons, and up-to-date tactical methods.

ERIN

Erin Fall Fair—October 8 and 9. Mr. and Mrs. John Leslie are visiting with friends at Parry Sound. The Directors are sparing no effort to make this year's fair a bigger success than ever. Mr. Tom Salmon and Mr. Leonard Rogers have left for Ontario where they are attending the Normal School. Mr. W. J. Young purchased the farm known as the Leslie farm, on the 9th Line, from the estate of the late Samuel Turner, at Auction, on Saturday. We understand the price was $4,400. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Marshall, 7th Line, entertained a number of young people on Friday evening last, to a corn roast, when all enjoyed the delicacy of the season and a very pleasant evening.—Advocate.

Broadening Out

The United Farmers' Co-operative organization has bought the old La Salle Institute, Ontario, Duke and George Streets, Toronto, into which all but the Live Stock Commission Department will be moved. The Ontario Creamery, at present located at the foot of Church Street, will be moved in and the Church Street property sold. The United Farmers' Co-operative Company, the headquarters of the United Farmers of Ontario, and The Farmers' Union, will move from their rented offices at 109, George Street as soon as the Duke Street building is in shape for occupancy. Cold storage facilities will be provided, so that space in the Municipal Abattoir will no longer be needed for dairy and poultry products.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary E. Wilds
The Georgetown Herald of last Friday contains the following obituary notice: Mrs. Mary E. Wilds, wife of James Wilds, died last night about 11:30, at her home, 49 Union Street, after an illness of two years. She was born in Georgetown, Ontario, Canada, and had lived in this city about 39 years. She was a member of the Fremont Street Methodist Church and of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Church, also of the Women's Benefit Association of the Marabees. She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Miss Ada Wilds, of Georgetown, and Mrs. Roy Waddy, of Portland, Oregon; four sons, Albert and Harley, of Geoverville, Free W., of Vancouver, and Julian, of Toronto, Canada; one daughter, Julian DePicao, of New York, and one brother, George E. Wilds, of Toronto. The funeral will be held at the late home, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The Rev. David W. Reil, of the Fremont Street Methodist Church will officiate and burial will be in Fern Dale Cemetery.

J. E. Featherston's Funeral

From the old homestead on which he was born, now the residence of his brother, the funeral of the late Joseph E. Featherston, Commissioner of Immigration for Canada at Hong Kong, who died there on Aug. 12 last, took place Thursday afternoon, Sept. 17th, to the family plot in Streetville cemetery. The funeral was very largely attended. Rev. W. A. McKay and Rev. J. T. Fortner, of the United Church of Canada, officiated.

Tail Coat

A tall coat contest is being conducted at the south-east corner of the Globe. The tallest reported up to Tuesday morning was 16 feet 4 inches. In Tuesday morning's issue the Ontario College of Education, James H. ### Notes and Comments

THE HABIT of passing another car without honking is becoming altogether too common. It is most exceedingly dangerous. The forward car "blows" away in front, and an accident would be unavoidable. Just why motorists take these chances is difficult to understand. It is in many cases, contrary to the rules of the road, dangerous, and those who do so should be reported and fined.

ALL MEN ARE GLAD to have pleasant memories, but not all are equally glad to have them. If you would look back by and bye to something that you will be glad you said or did, now is the time to do or say something which will give you food for gladness. God, what a world—if men in street felt that same kinship of the human which make them, in the face of the "James and Fred," Rise to the meaning of true brotherhood.

THERE ARE fancier towns than our little town, there are towns that are bigger than this, and the people who live in the smaller towns don't know what excitement they miss. There are things you see in the fancier towns that you can't in a town that's small and yet, up and down, there is no other town like our little town after all. It may be the streets aren't long, they're not wide nor maybe straight, but the neighbors you know in your little town, all welcome a fellow—it's great. In the glittering town with its palace and pavement and thrills, in the midst of the throng you will frequently long for your own little town after all. If you live and you work in your own little town, in spite of the fact that it's small, you'll find it a fact that our little town is the best town after all.

WHEN WOMEN were first given the franchise it was predicted that Parliament would soon be filled with lady members and that the Commons would be dominated by the fair sex. There were pictures painted of a female Speaker in the chair and even of a lady prime minister. However, there are no signs in Canada, or elsewhere, of a stampede of the women for parliamentary honors. They are casting their ballots and taking their share of interest in the political campaigns, but they are leaving the real parliamentary fighting to the stronger sex. In the Canadian Parliament just dissolved there was but one woman, Agnes McPhail, and so far Agnes is the only woman in the field for this next Parliament. In Ontario not a woman has presented herself yet for honors in the Provincial Legislature. Even the West, with all its advanced views, has not more than half a dozen women sitting in the four provincial legislatures. Terrible disasters were prognosticated by the opponents of female suffrage, if the women got the vote, but the world seems to run along very much in the same channels and politics does not seem to be much better or much worse as a result of the entrance of the ladies into this sphere of mundane activity.

BY AN OTTAWA proclamation the week, Sunday, Oct. 4th to Saturday, Oct. 10th, has been decreed fire protection week throughout Canada and it is recommended that during the week all dwellings and surroundings be inspected by their occupants and all possible causes of the spread of fires removed, that all public buildings, stores, warehouses and theatres, also be inspected and cleared of rubbish to reduce fire hazard and maintain in health and safety, and that theatres, asylums, hospitals, and other institutional buildings also receive attention and provision be made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants from danger in the event of fire. It is asked that fire drills be held at the children in all schools for the inmates of all institutions and for the employees in all large stores and factories and that special attention on fire prevention be given by teachers and municipal officers, appropriate literature to be distributed. Boy Scout leaders are asked to give similar instruction. The advisability of the above will be realized since it is shown by authoritative statistics that the amount of the average annual loss of insurable property in Canada exceeds $45,000,000 and, in addition, if more than 550 persons annually lose their lives through fires.

NEARLY SIX THOUSAND years ago the question rang out from the great unseen "Cain, where is Abel thy brother?" Murder had been committed, and the murderer shrunk from the accusing question. The answer he gave to his God then has been the same ring down thro' the ages. Listen to it, "I know not, am I my brother's keeper?" There is no question more vital at the present time than the above, which is very similar to one asked of Cain, "Mother where is thy daughter?"

Locomotion and pleasure seeking this life is not amiss. Go where you will, in the young girl, nearly every age is on the front rank of pleasure seekers. Particularly is this so at nearly all dancing pavilions. Too many mothers, it is to be regretted, show extreme indifference to this condition of affairs. They are only having innocent fun in their own minds, if they happen to be spoken to about it. Yes, Mother, when that young girl in her early or even later teens should be at home receiving mother's wise counsel and advice, she is trying the light fantastic in a very promiscuous crowd. Mother, why thy daughter safe? Might be more to the point than the previous question. The end is not yet. Cain was branded as murderer and sent forth with an ever haunting conscience. Mother, what will your punishment be compared to Cain's, if you should be eternally haunted by the consciousness that you might have restrained and led that lovely girl of yours along the road of better and higher ideals, but you did not. By a mother's kindly help and timely advice you might have rained her for a life of usefulness, but you did not. Instead, you have simply let her slide along the pathway of least resistance, resisting herself with pleasure, with no thought whatever of the better things of life. Will your daughter some day in the anguish of her soul send forth the plaintive cry, if my mother had only advised me differently, I might have been a different person. Disguise yourself some night mother, and frequent some of those places, walk amongst the various groups, smell the perfume of the young men, and sometimes even your sense of smell. What if your girl should happen to be among others hanging around the entrances with eyes on their young faces which seem to say with pleading expectancy, take me. Then perhaps, your mother had better be awakened to a sense of anxiety and with a sore heart you will cry, where is my daughter?
