Curling Club
Georgetown Curling Club is away for another prosperous season. The play opened on New Year's Day with the games between the President and Vice-President. The President's team was outclassed, but as they all were a bunch of good sports they enjoyed the day fully as much as the winning team.

The rink for the Inter-Rink competition has been drawn up and play started on Monday night. Very short notice was given between the drawing of the rinks and the date of play, so that all the players did not show up. However, substitutes were played and the games came off as scheduled.

There are a lot of new curlers on the ice this year, but within a couple of weeks they will be able to call themselves "old" curlers, judging by the way they are setting on to the game.

The report that the Secretary is refusing to accept dues has been branded as false. The Secretary has assured the writer personally that he will accept, without argument, the dues from any and all members at any time. If you don't believe the writer, just offer your dues to the Secretary and see if he will accept them.

Workmen's Compensation

The workmen's Compensation Board for the Province of Ontario has just issued a statement showing that the Board awarded $5,566,448.50 in benefits during 1925. This figure is noticeably lower than the total for 1924 which was $6,122,890.81. While compensation awarded has been less, the total number of accidents reported has been greater, amounting in 1925 to 60,012 as compared with 58,075 during 1924. One notable feature of the accident statistics, however, is the decrease in fatalities, the total number of fatalities in 1925 being 845 which is considerably less than the figures for 1924 which were set at 102. This alone is a most important item to the Province.

It is evident from the figures issued by the Board that while minor accidents show an increase, probably due in part to better reporting, the serious and more costly types of accidents are on the down grade. In this connection, Mr. V. A. Sinclair, K. C., Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, giving out the figures for 1925, states:

"There has been a great deal of attraction paid during the present year to accident prevention work, which no doubt has been in some measure at least responsible for the lessened cost of compensation, and the safety organizations are expected to carry on a much more intensive campaign during the coming year and they are in hopes thereby to reduce the frequency, severity, and cost of accidents in all classes." During the year the Workmen's Compensation Board handled an enormous amount of mail, this averaging each day between 5,000 and 6,000 letters going in and out. The average number of claims per day was slightly over 200 and the average amount paid out each day was $18,500.
