Obituary
Wilfred McMaster
The many friends of the late Wilfred McMaster have been deeply grieved by his passing. After several months of patient suffering his death on Monday, September 27th, brought his life to a peaceful end, he being at death but a few months past his twenty-seventh birthday. Wilfred had attended Public School at Glenwilliams and High School at Georgetown, he was a member of Georgetown Baptist Church and in all his association his amiable, considerate disposition had never failed to endear others to him. Since leaving school Wilfred had lived for a year or two in Toronto but for over two years previous to his returning home last Christmas with the illness which caused his death he had resided in Detroit. He had been engaged in dry-goods work there in one of the leading drapery concerns of that city. He possessed a rather keen sense of the aesthetic which seemed to fit him for this particular work, and had shortly before illness overtook him been placed in charge of the department he had served. Throughout life he had displayed a manly ambition in the direction of a good and useful life and gentility was an outstanding feature of his character. The fact that his illness and passing have interrupted a romance and prevented his happy culmination add to his death a little more than the usual pathos. The funeral was held from the residence of his father, Mr. Robert McMaster, Glenwilliams, on Wednesday afternoon last at 2:30 o'clock. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Harton of Toronto, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Dyke of Georgetown. Besides the many friends and acquaintances of local residence there were present others from Toronto, London, Port Perry, Detroit and Hamilton. The many beautiful floral tributes were a witness of the esteem in which deceased was held. His father and mother, three brothers, Sam and Robert of Toronto and Edward at home; and three sisters, Ethel of Toronto, Elsie of London, and Ivy at home, survive to mourn his loss. Interment took place at Glenwilliams Cemetery.

Addresses and Presentation
On Friday evening last at the close of preparatory services in Knox Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Jessie Henderson and Miss McLeod were made the recipients of handsome presents by the members of the congregation prior to their removal from town.
The following addresses were read by the pastor Rev. Mr. McLean, while Major Grant presented Mrs. Henderson with a beautiful clock and Miss McLeod with a valiant writing desk.
Dear Mrs. Henderson:
Recently the members and other out of this congregation have learned of your intention to move from among us. We believe this is not easy for you to do, and we are quite sure that it is a great disappointment to us. It is how you were born, here you grew up and here you lived until a voice from the west calls you to a new home. Few homes are so attractive and comfortable as yours, the spacious grounds, the green of the lawn, the patriarchal elms and maples, the undulating back yard together constitute the ideal location for wholesome home life. You leave behind you not only a location of ideal beauty but a palatial residence erected to your own home, a home whose walls will echo back to you the gentle voices of childhood, the ring of cheerful voices, the harmony of voice and instrument. You leave behind you a town whose people are your friends. The streets of no other town can be so beautiful, so full of meaning and suggestion as the activities of past days as the streets of Georgetown. You leave behind a church which you have all ways attended, which gave you largely your conception of duty, nobility, and all things divine, a church which stretches out her branches to greet you and to minister to you wherever in Canada you choose to reside.
You leave behind an instrument an organ which for many years has responded unflinchingly to your touch. To you it yields its harmonies to few others, for by long association you and this organ have become one in the service of praise, giving accuracy in time and pitch to all those who in this place sing the songs of Zion.
The services you have thus rendered to this congregation we cannot soon forget, and lest you may forget the old places and the old faces and the old days we ask you to accept this gift whose chief value lies in what it may recall to your mind in Georgetown. It is the earnest wish of this congregation that you may be happy in the great new city to which you are about to go, and if there abide in your heart a lingering suspicion that we do not wish you full happiness in Winnipeg, it is because of our desire that you might again return to us to live and finally die among those who love you and whom you have served so faithfully.
