Here and There

Victim—Twenty head of grade Oxford ewes, two years old, from Mayne Island, have been sold to Japanese buyers. This makes a new departure in the sheep industry of the Island, being the first of the home production to be sent to Japan.

It is estimated that southern British Columbia will produce 3,217,000 boxes of apples this season, this is about 700,000 boxes more than last year's production. Arrangements are being made for a heavy export business to Great Britain, as well as to the Prairies and Eastern Canada.

A regular aerial mail service has been established between Osaka in Japan and Darin in South Manchuria, two Japanese built "Kawanishi" planes being used. This service is daily, and is being sponsored by the "Osaka Mainichi" one of the largest newspapers in Japan whose aviators recently flew to Berlin.

Moose Jaw—One thousand head of Western Canadian light horses purchased for the Soviet government were assembled here. The horses, which are all light, are being bought for the Russian government with Russian funds placed in Canadian banks for that purpose. A similar purchase was made last year and the repeating of the order indicates satisfaction with the Canadian stock.

The increase in the net profits of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the first eight months of the year ending August 31st is $6,814,895.76, according to a financial statement issued at the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific at Montreal. This is the increase in profits as compared with the profits for the same period in 1925. The increase in the gross earnings over the same period in 1925 is stated at $12,691,384.67.

"Hell-Roaring Canyon," the scene of a dramatic incident in John Murray Gibbon's new novel "Eyes of a Gypsy" is the actual name of a remote valley in the Canadian Pacific Rockies as known to the guides and hunters, although the Geographic Board of the Canadian Government has just changed it to a less romantic name—"Nuna Creek." The reason for the change in name—that there is another Hell-Roaring Canyon in the Rockies which claims a prior right to the name.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, one of the oldest military organizations in the United States, being founded as an offshoot of the famous Artillery Company of London, in 1630, held their 289th annual field day and march past at Montreal, arriving at the Canadian Pacific Place, Viger Station on October 2nd. About 250 members of this organization, representing the oldest families in the State of Massachusetts, took part in this event.

"Dean Inge has a very imperfect appreciation of the feeling of India towards England, when he prophesies that India's attitude to the Mother Country in the event of a future crisis, is doubtful," declared Diwan Bahadur Sir T. Vijayarajavacharya, Indian potentate who sailed for England on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France recently after a lengthy tour of the Dominion. The Diwan discounted the gloomy prophecies contained in Dean Inge's new book entitled "England."

For the third consecutive year the first aid team of the Canadian Pacific Police Constabulary at the Windsor Street Station, Montreal, carried off the "Quintus Cup" trophy of the highest marks obtained in the Quebec District C.P.R. first aid competition. The examinations were conducted at the Place Viger Hotel in Montreal, September 29th by Dr. Deatty, chief surgeon of the Canadian Pacific. Four other teams were in the field including two from the Angus Shops in Montreal, and one from Ottawa and Quebec.

Australian National Band Visits Canada

For the first time in history, the people of Australia have sent on tour for the past few months. The Canadian tour opened September 25th at Quebec, where the Australian National Band arrived over the Canadian Pacific steamship lines. The reception given to the band at the Ancient Capital was excellent. Compositions of the band under the name of "The Australian National Band," giving concerts at the principal cities along the way. They came to Canada directly from England, where they competed in the famous English Band Contest at Manchester. This completed a lengthy engagement in England. Previous to this the band spent six weeks in South Africa and in all, the same day the band played for the club engagements in Australia, New Zealand, and New Zealand, the band has been on tour for the past few months.

DO YOU KNOW ANTHRAX?

DESCRIPTION OF SYMPTOMS AND CONTROL.

Mouldy sweet clover hay may be "Poisonous"—An Understanding of Process May Avert Loss.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Each season a number of animals are lost through anthrax. Such losses are not ordinary losses as there is always the hidden danger lurking in the pasture, waiting the coming of the unsuspecting victim. Anthrax is always a menace, the spores are there on the grass or in the water.

Infection by way of the digestive tract through taking food and water, has been considered the most common means of the organism reaching its host. Horse flies, horn flies and the mosquito have been credited with being common carriers. A small skin wound may prove a source of infection.

The Nature of Anthrax.

Anthrax is caused by bacillus anthracis. It is an acute febrile disease affecting particularly cattle, horses, and sheep-dogs and chickens seem to be immune. The disease is characterized by hemorrhagic infiltrations of subcutaneous tissue and engorgement of the spleen.

The worst forms are met with in cattle and sheep. In these the attacks are severe and sudden. There is a loss of appetite, breathing is rapid and difficult, usually a discharge from the mouth and nose. Affected animals tremble violently, stagger and fall in convulsions, gasping out in a few hours. In the few severe types swellings appear on the surface of the body, these are oedematous at first but become doughy in features before becoming dangerous. With horses the symptoms are often quite obscure and are manifest only by severe attacks of colic, and dropsical swellings about the chest or throat.

Post-mortem.

Be careful, more than one human being has lost his life dressing with an anthrax carcass. Let the veterinarian do the post mortem, he understands the dangers and protects himself against infection.

Control.

Treatment is not successful, owing to the rapid fatal course of the disease. In anthrax localities, as soon as a case of anthrax is suspected, all remaining animals should be vaccinated to another pasture or stable and vaccinated or treated with anthrax serum. These animals should be kept in a separate enclosure and should be handled by modern trained veterinarians, they are "infective" and give a good measure of immunity at small cost.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

Poisoning of Cattle by Sweet Clover Hay.

All sweet clover hay does not have poisonous properties, as many farmers have fed it to stock for years without loss. The question naturally arises, Why is some sweet clover hay poisonous? There is much evidence that the most dangerous form of this poisonous principle, which may grow on or within the sweet clover stalk are responsible for the formation of this poisonous principle, which apparently delays the clotting time of the blood, destroys blood cells, injures the red surfaces of the body to such an extent that hemorrhages result.

Feeding Experiments.

Feeding trials with sweet clover hay that was credited with poisonous properties have been conducted to determine the course of the disease. These trials indicate that a period of 31 days is the usual time that lapses between the commencement of feeding and the death of the animal. The animals remain apparently normal, showing no symptoms whatever until about the 28th day after commencement of feeding. Once symptoms are shown the course is rapid and the victim usually passes out in from one to three days.

Symptoms.

Animal becomes stiff and later very lame if urged to move. Large swellings may develop oedematous in character on any part of the body. Blood frequently passed in discharges from the body. No appetite—viable mucous membranes pale. Blood does not clot, and difficulty experienced in arresting hemorrhage if spinal vessel is severed. Temperature remains normal.

Post Mortem.

Generally shows extensive hemorrhages in the subcutaneous tissues—thoracic and abdominal cavities. Blood is pale in color and does not clot readily. Muscles dark colored and infiltrated with blood. Hemorrhages are invariably present on the epicardium and pleura in all cases. Prevention.

Do not use mouldy sweet clover hay. If symptoms appear following the consumption of mouldy sweet clover hay, then change feed at once and keep cattle quiet, and call the veterinarian to administer the blood serum treatment. Use only the green growth of sweet clover for hay and handle it in such a way that moulds cannot develop. Keep it dry—moulds must have moisture for growth.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.
