Ontario Officials Join Market Tour

A keen sense of the desirability of obtaining first hand information on the methods of marketing of Canadian products overseas, and the opportunity of extending markets for products, as well as a knowledge of the best known co-operative system in the world, has led Hon. John Martin, Minister of Agriculture of the Ontario Government, to nominate two officials of his Department to accompany the first Canadian Farmers' Marketing Tour to Great Britain and Denmark organized by the Canadian National Railways.

The officials nominated by Hon. Mr. Martin are Messrs. Reg. H. Duncan, (left) Director of Agricultural Representatives of Ontario, and Frank C. Hart, (right) Director of Co-operation and Markets for the Ontario Department of Agriculture. In addition to these official representatives of the Government three of the County Agricultural Representatives have also joined the tour. These are Messrs. H. A. Dornan, County Agricultural Representative at Brantford; C. W. Buchanan, Agricultural Representative at Port Arthur, and A. P. MacVannell, Agricultural Representative at Picton.

The tour, which will include more than fifty agriculturists from all parts of Canada, will leave Halifax on Sunday, January 28th, by the S.S. "Laplant" of the Red Star Line, and will be a month or more in Britain and Denmark, where all the large marketing centres are to be visited, with conferences with marketing authorities, the Empire Marketing Board, etc. and with special investigation of co-operative systems in England and Denmark. The party is to be received by the Prince of Wales on January 25th and will be entertained by the London City Corporation, the Lord Mayor of London, the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, the Lord Mayor of Manchester and the Lord Mayor of Edinburgh.

"A Little Bit of Love"

Do you know the world is dying for a little bit of love?
Everywhere we hear the sighing for a little bit of love.
For the love that rights a wrong, fills the heart with hope and song.
They love waited, oh, so long, for a little bit of love.

From the poor of every city for a little bit of love,
Hands are reaching out in pity for a little bit of love,
Some have journeyed hard to bear, some have sorrow we should share,
Shall they falter and despair for a little bit of love?

Down before their idols falling for a little bit of love,
Many souls in vain are calling for a little bit of love,
If they die in pain and shame, some surely is to blame,
For not giving in His name with a little bit of love.

While the souls of men are dying for a little bit of love,
While the children, too, are crying, for a little bit of love,
Stand no longer idly by, we can help them if we try,
Just by saying "Here am I," with a little bit of love. E. O. Excoff.

Notes and Comments

NOTHING so obviously betrays lack of breeding and refinement of social good manners than to lose one's temper in public. Everyone has at some time witnessed the lamentable sight of some pretty woman, well dressed, apparently well spoken, who has given vent to a display of bad temper in a restaurant, over the bridge, or on the tennis court, or because somebody has offended her. Her social training is so strongly ingrained in the well-bred woman, that, however great the provocation, she retains calm and unruffled in the public gaze. Her tones are still courteous, though her words themselves may be a little tarted and she never raises her voice or indulges in her movements. However angry you may feel, restrain yourself for the moment. Take two or three deep breaths while you recover poise, and whatever you have to speak do so quietly and with forethought.

OCCASIONALLY somebody gets the idea that the reason that the local paper does not report every scandal that comes to public knowledge is because the publisher is afraid. That is not the reason. The reputable newspaper, especially where everyone is a neighbor to everyone else, takes no delight in giving publicity to those things that have brought disgrace to some family or heartache to some wife or mother. It is much more pleasant, and does not leave a bad taste in the mouth to record the good things that happen, to tell of the incidents that tend to make life more endurable and that uplift rather than tear down, that bring joy instead of heartaches. We appreciate any item of local interest unless that item digs into and lays bare those things over which a mother, wife, husband or father may have been racked with sorrow and humiliation.

WHILE farming is apparently the most peaceful of pursuits, in reality the farmer is everlastingly at war. Not with his fellowmen, but with the billions of insects and other animal life which menace his crops on every hand. The boll weevil, the army worm, the corn borer, the gypsy moth, the cabbage butterfly and other hordes of insects and parasites are working day and night to set his best efforts at naught. And each of these enemies presents a distinct problem. Without scientific aid in fighting insects, it is asserted by high authorities that in time human life would become extinct. The insects and parasites would completely overrun the earth. It is some comfort to know, then, that under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, earnest specialists are working diligently to find means of controlling these pests, and are meeting with a fair degree of success. Information of the utmost value to the farmer is available through the County Representative, bulletins from government sources, articles by experts published in the press, and the example of informed neighbors. He owes it to himself to profit by this information and cooperate with these agencies which stand ready to aid him in his warfare against destructive insect pests.

ONE of the strangest phenomena witnessed in most towns and small cities is the apparent eagerness with which many otherwise good citizens contribute to the tendency to commit community suicide. These zealots will often show uncommon zeal in boosting any movement to obtain civic improvements, to promote the location of new industries, to secure better educational facilities, and so on. Yet many of these good boosters will deliberately engage in a practice which nullifies all their otherwise laudable efforts—and then they wonder why their town doesn't go ahead. We refer to the suicide in the direction of local pride and loyalty. A trilling saving here and there, usually made imaginary than real, is sufficient to cause the average citizen to forget his duty to his community and to himself, which if performed would mean more in the direction of local prosperity than all his other boosting efforts put together. Why boost in one direction, while committing community suicide in another?
