

DEATHS

"I have been half in love with early death."—Kipling.

I have seen houses lone and desolate; Regret seemed still to linger at the door;

Windows were eyes; all ash-strewn, pale; While trackless ghosts met on the dusty floor.

But I have seen faces that Death left smooth;

From wrinkles dug by Care Where did he find The twenty years Time lost somewhere since youth;

So that forgotten features came to mind!

And I have thought—if this the body fare,

Death to the soul of man a good might bet;

All stains removed—what beauty must it wear;

What shadowless peace enjoy, when it is free!

And at a door where Doubt stood with a chill,

I found Death left a smile upon the sill.

Alexander Louis Fraser.

COMBATING THE CORN BORER

There are many ways in which the farmer can assist in the fight against the corn borer. Not the least of these is the selection and storage of the seed for next year's planting.

It is the practice of farmers interested in the production of good corn to go into the corn field in the fall and select their seed ears from the best type of plants. These ears are then stored in a cool, dry, well-ventilated cellar or other suitable place, so that the drying out of the corn is completed under favorable conditions.

In following this practice the farmers are helping in the fight against the corn borer. Their seed will germinate high and produce strong, vigorous seedlings. These will finally produce plants that are strong and sturdy in the stem and able, on this account, to withstand a moderately heavy infestation of the borer and still produce a good crop of corn.

Experiments have demonstrated that other things being equal the small weak stemmed corn plants are the first to break down under the attacks of the borer, while the strong, vigorous plants with good, sturdy stems will continue to stand and produce reasonably good ears, even though the infestation is a fairly heavy one.

Good seed also results in a good stand which is essential for high production. Poor seed results in a high proportion of poor plants, missing hills, and plants missing from the hills. Add to this the corn borer and the farmer's chance for a crop of corn are exceedingly poor.—F. Dismock, Forage Crop Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

Culph merchants have declared war on shoplifters and co-operative action toward apprehending the thieves will likely result as conditions have become a positive menace. During the last few weeks there has been a decided increase in the number of articles pilfered from stores.

Sen. Rodolphe Monty, K.C., Solicitor-General in the re-organized Meighen Cabinet of 1921, died at 82, 1544 St. George Street, Toronto, on Nov. 30th and succumbed at 9 o'clock the next morning.

When John Wild was driving home on the rear of the rig owned by Chas. Foster, of Brantford, he was struck into the buggy, knocking the lad off the rig and bruising him somewhat. He suffered no serious injury, and was able to proceed home little the worse for his shaking up. At the time the boy was supposed to be using a flashlight as a rear light.

HEALTH HINTS FOR WINTER

Each year, with the coming of cold weather, we find that certain diseases return in force as if they were never as if refreshed by their summer vacation. They vigorously attack mankind. Many of these diseases disappear completely during the summer season. Common Colds, Pneumonia and Bronchitis are present all year, but in winter the numbers that they seem, comparatively speaking, to disappear in the winter weather.

It would seem reasonable to suppose that if we could maintain our bodies in the condition in which they are in warm weather, they would be better able to combat these diseases the year round. There is not as much sunshine in winter, therefore, all the more reason for us to make the most of the sunshine that there is.

In summer, we are either outside in the fresh air, or inside with windows open. We live and move and are in motion to some extent. In winter, we should remember that a most important factor to work and sleep in an atmosphere which has a certain amount of motion. According to the health authorities, windows should be opened sufficiently to allow of a gentle circulation of air through the house and the office or work-place.

Many who exercise regularly in summer, by playing games, swimming, walking, etc., give it all up in the cold weather. The reason is that they suffer from a loss of physical tone. We need exercise and play all through the year.

Living and working in over-heated rooms are responsible, we believe, for persons who increase in cold, pneumonia and bronchitis in the winter. The best temperature to maintain in the home and office is 68 Degrees Fahrenheit. We would recommend keeping a thermometer where it may be read in order to maintain a check upon the temperature.

If people would exercise in the winter, the windows and doors should be opened to allow of a gentle circulation of air through the house and the office or work-place. Dress according to the temperature. The weather is not so cold as it seems. Colds, bronchitis and pneumonia that prey upon us in winter.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.
