Noah Rudolph, William Cordick and Charles Brinkman, all of whom were fined for digging out a fox, were arrested for this offence.
They were particularly busy at this time of the year when they are usually at work in the fields.
The fox was caught with the assistance of a dog or a gun but it also states that no person must interfere with a fox while it is in its den.
The three charged men were taken to the police station and proceeded to dig it out of the ground with shovels.
As the result of the charges which were laid by Police Magistrate Spreeman in police court on Owen Sound and charged with this breach of the game laws. All three pleaded guilty and were fined $10 and costs, each. This may mean a warning to others who may be inclined to capture foxes in their own legal manner.—Durham Chronicle.
