We love to see well-cared-for tires. We enjoy making the small repair in a cut tread, a bruised sidewall, knowing full well that such repairs add thou-sands of miles to the life of tires.

That's why we recommend a weekly outside examination of tires-and a periodic overhauling inside and our several times a year.

This enables us to find all injuries at their beginning-to make the "stitch

Boer War, and at the same time the disgust of the discharged soldier, who had seen all this grandeur, with the cramped and colourless civil life he was forced to live ou leaving the service and returning home.

In many respects the Boer War was unique; and one of these was the vast area which the operations covered; and another, the unusual political situation, which made the command and administration of the Millitary forces one of extreme delicacy.

It was a war of long marches, of "six thousand raw miles on the hoof"—a war in which the greatest accurge was interio fever, and where the death rate from the source and discounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence the valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilence that valued in day accounted for many casualties, but the pestilen

All the troops in Christendom—and Bociology it seems that most of the troops are in Philology All the troops in Christendom—and it seems that most of the troops are in Christendom—could not have establianed a defensive line that was long enough, and strong enough to prevent the turning movements so impossible in the Great War in France; where one flank rested securely against a Neutral country, and the other against the North Sea. And it was this factor in France that turned the war into the standard equipment in war, no matter where it may take place. Again I say that the physical geography will always determine the character of the weapons, and I make this statement not in any spint of controversy, but in a spirit of enligntenment.

It was a war of ambush, of attacks on isolated posts; of cutting lines of communications, and was being called down by the teacher. "Never mind, sonny," said the visiting school board chairman, consolingly. "It's foolish to bother about commas. They don't amount to much anyway."
