THE OTHER MAN

Perhaps he sometimes slipped a bit—Well, so have you. Perhaps some things he ought to quit well so, should you. Perhaps he may have faltered—why, why all men do, and so have I. You must admit, unless you lie, that so have you.

Perhaps if we would stop and think, both I and you. When painting someone black as ink, as some folks do. Perhaps, if we would recollect, perfection we would not expect. But just a man half-way correct. Like me and you.

I'm just a man who's fairly good. I'm just like you; I've done some things I never should, perhaps like you. But, thank the Lord, I've sense to see the rest of men with charity; They're good enough, if good as me—say, men like you.

TUBERCULOSIS DIAGNOSTIC CLINIC

A consideration of the problems growing out of tuberculosis is definitely encouraging and should be stimulant stimulus for greater effort. Encouragement comes from the fact that while this disease continues to take a heavy toll of human lives—7,500 in Canada in 1928—it has been conquered to a considerable extent, and year by year its ravages are being lessened. A resolve to persevere and determination to make a greater effort have come as the result of seeing that past and present efforts have been and are effective, and that the only limit to their effectiveness has been the extent to which the work done has been limited. While it is true that many factors have indirectly contributed to the reduction which has occurred in tuberculosis, it is equally true that the greatest reductions have taken place, one might almost say, in direct proportion to the extent of the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

More and more attention is being focused on the need for early diagnosis in order to ensure a fair chance for recovery treatment must be started in the early stages of the disease. In order to control and prevent the spread of tuberculosis, it is necessary that cases be recognized early and that patients be educated and trained so that they will not pass on the infection to others. To attain these two desirable aims, it is necessary that early diagnosis be made. This fact has been recognized, and scattered across Canada, are centres where examinations are made and the disease detected in its early stages. This is desirable not only for the case, but for the public, because it means control of the spread of the disease and public protection. These diagnostic clinics are maintained by some Provincial Governments and by the tuberculosis sanatoria. Like everything else of that type, the clinics cost money to equip and maintain. A reasonable opportunity to assist the sanatoria in this work is provided through the Christmas Seal sale, which is commended to our readers. Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

HOME-MADE CANDIES FOR XMAS

(By Betty Barclay)

Christmas Fruit Cake

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup candied orange peel
1/2 cup candied lemon peel
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Whites of 3 eggs

Cream butter, add sugar and cream again. Add orange juice alternately with 2 cups flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Add remaining cup of flour with finely-chopped fruits and nuts. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites (make in last part in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for one hour.

Hawberry Luncheon Patties

2 cups granulated sugar
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
Hawberry jam

Dissolve sugar in water on back of range. Place thermometer in syrup and bring to boiling point, stirring well. When the boiling begins cease all stirring but wipe down sides of saucepan with moist brush or bit of dampened cheesecloth. Add cream of tartar. Boil for a moment, then boil quickly until mixture will form a soft ball when dropped in water from spoon. Pour the jam through a strainer, cool until syrup can be handled, then fold rapidly back and forth until cooling is so rapid to smooth, compact, but soft mass.

The strawberry jam should be added to the proportion of two tablespoons to each cup of the mixture. Melt the mixture to a semi-liquid state, then stir in the jam rubbed through a sieve. Stir well while the final mixture is stiffening. Drop the patties from the end of a spoon, or make into balls between the palms of the hand and flatten by pressing gently.

A flash or two of humor and a smile for evermore.
A lot of hear-with-people's faults mixed up with laughter, fun.
The glow of kindly patience in life's little bits and frays.
With brightness of unselfishness along the common ways.
The pluck that comes from healthy minds, not looking out for gloom.
The hearts which are so full of love for him they haven't met.
Go, mix this happy medley up, and you'll be well repaid.
For living is so full of cheer as sunshine that's home made!

An Army of Cordon Bleu Chefs

An army, said Napoleon, marches on its stomach, but a hotel prepares as much as anything on its food. These are the cases at the Royal York Hotel who are responsible for the good cheer at that famous hostelry which was opened last week by the Governor-General with a distinguished company of prominent Canadians including the president and directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the premier of Ontario and many others. These chefs command an army of 175 culinary experts and indirectly another army of 800 waiters. They are from left to right: E. Argente, party chef; R. Albert, assistant chef; J. Charrier, head chef; J. Aubry, assistant chef; W. Thomfield, banquet chef; and P. Raaberg, grill chef.

A Hotel in Diamonds

Like a story from the Arabian Nights is the description of the miniature model of the Royal York Hotel shown at the Toronto Exhibition this fall. The model is valued at over $100,000 and in its construction there were utilized more than 15,000 Mills faultless quality diamonds. They were mounted on a framework composed of satin wood covered with the finest wax. The miniature was drawn true to scale and measured 15 inches high by 12 inches broad. Reflected from thousands of facets, the brilliant display of light spectrum, made this exhibit one of the most valued and most talked of at the big Fall Fair.

Ahoy For a Merry Christmas on the Bounding Main!

"At Christmas play and make good cheer. For Christmas comes but once a year."
—Thomas Tusser, 16th Century.
Many and varied are the circumstances under which we moderns must spend the joyous Yuletide season, with its holly mistletoe and gifts. Time was when Christmas Eve signified happy family gatherings at some big country house or the old city mansion, but times change, and now most of us must alter our customs accordingly. The modern city apartment and small country cottage preclude large gatherings, but it is still possible for big families to be together at Christmas time, for the Canadian Pacific Steamships has detailed the 20,000-ton B. S. Duchess of Bedford to make a 10-days' Christmas-New Year's cruise to the West Indies, leaving New York December 23, 1929. Thus families can not only be together when the Christmas bells ring out but they will find themselves en route to a warmer climate—the storied Caribbean Sea—famed for its tales of pirates and plunder in days of yore.
Incidentally, none of the hallowed traditions connected with the holiday season are forgotten, once the ship gets under way. Her public halls and rooms are tastefully decorated with greens; poinsettias and other appropriate plants, everywhere, and the ship's company seems imbued with the spirit of "Peace on earth—good-will to men." Masquerade parties, big open fireplaces and Christmas trees complete the picture. Holiday voyagers aboard the "Duchess" will visit Havana, Cuba, the Parais of the New World; Kingston, Jamaica, one time headquarters of notorious buccaners; Cebu, Philippines, formerly on the highway of Spanish treasure fleets, and the site of the greatest upset in the world, and enchanting Nassau, in the Bahamas, returning to New York January 6, 1930.
