ONLY A DAD

Only a dad with a tired face Coming home from the daily race Bringing little of gold or fame To show how well he has played the game But glad in his heart that his own rejoice,
To see you come and to hear his voice.

Only a Dad with a brood of four One of ten million men or more, Plodding along in the daily strife, Beating the whips and the scorns of life With never a whimper 'of pain or hand
For the sake of those who at home await.

Only a Dad, neither rich nor proud, Merely one of the surging crowd, Tolling, striving from day to day, Facing whatever may come his way, Silent whenever the harsh condemn And bearing it all for the sake of them.

Only a Dad, but he gives his all To smooth the way for his children small.
Doing with courage stern and grim, And every day he carries on his This is the line that for him pen, Only a Dad but the best of men.

A rock of strength to lean upon In the time of joy or stress, An understanding loyal soul, A heart of tenderness and love,
A mind all wisdom knowing, How Justice and love to blend, A teacher loving patient, kind,
My father and my friend.

PLEASANT DAYS IN GEORGETOWN

Battle Honors, Affiliated Regiments, Individual Honors—Hammer Tests

Enough of merit has each honoured name To shine untarnished on the rolls of fame,
—And add new lustre to the historic page.

We have already compared these men of 1914 to the Spartans of ancient Greece; and in point of discipline and courage the comparison is an apt one, but in point of courtesy they were not so abstemious as the Greeks. It is also true that no ascetic could find fault with the habits of their resonant hardwood floors which served to amplify the sounds that emanate from a barracks with its narrow soft nurse, waves her magister up the ravelled sleeve of care. The same ascetic would also enquire over the Oliver Equipment as an instrument of self torture, which the soldier carried with the fortitude of a martyr, and a cast of features suggesting those of Sisyphus as he stumbled along with the old man of the sea on his back.

There was plenty to eat, and there was plenty of hospitality in the town in those days; to which the soldier, if he chose, could repair, and down whatever sorrows he might have through the complete submergence of the more mentioned Oliver Equipment.
It seemed to be the objective of some of those hardy warriors.

Then the hospitality of the Town of Georgetown was increased as well as the number of the officers of the unit, finding expression in the many kindnesses, official as well as individual, which were showered upon them. There was to many, in the years to come, like cool water to a thirsty soul, the sure knowledge that the Council wore out many tires in their efforts to administer to the wants of the detachment, and the recollection of C. C. Row and his unflinching attention and solicitude left a deep impression on all the officers and men.

There were many victories, and many excelling officers, and many boys in their late teens, who in a short time would become as heroes, on the path of glory that in many cases led but to the grave.

There were many detachments from the Halton Rifles as the years passed, and all brought great honour to the parent regiment; but it was through the efforts of the officers of the 1914 that the Battle Honours won by the Canadian Expeditionary Force Battalions, came to the attention of some of these detachments. Lost their identity in the Overseas Battalion in which they were incorporated.

In the case of the first detachment there was a difference; for the order which authorized the Battle Honours E.F. definitely named the Militia Regiments comprising it, and the Halton Rifles to be recognized as one of these.
When the war ended it was decided that these original Militia Regiments comprising the 4th Battalion, should be entitled to the Battle Honours on their colours, or on their drums as in the case of the Halton Rifles, which carries no colours.

The connection between the Halton Regiment and the 4th Battalion is a glimmering; and these were canvassed at the meeting that arranged for the commemoration of the Overseas Battalions, and at the same time conferred the honours on the parent regiment.

One of the officers of the Halton Regiment, the writer, had commanded the 4th Battalion and was in command of it when incorporated by the wounds; and apart from the 13th Royal Regiment of Hamilton and the Dufferin Rifles, none of the other comprising units had supplied a Commanding Officer—the other Commanding Officers were all transferred from other formations.

Moreover, the 78th Battalion organized and commanded by the writer, and sent a reinforcement of over five hundred men to the 4th Battalion, not to mention the Regimental Band of the 78th, which was transferred to the 4th Battalion intact. A search of the records of the 4th Battalion will reveal a loyal and devoted service from these 78th men, well attested by the many wounds received, as well as a great many decorations. The reinforcement to the 4th Battalion held high the torch of duty and many of them were from the Halton Rifles.

Of the five original officers who went to the 4th Battalion from the Halton Regiment and the thirteen officers from the reinforcement of the 78th 78th, four were killed and all the rest wounded—not a bad record, when one considers that out of a Battalion of of the original component drafts to the Fourth, served in the Battalion and were transferred to the 4th Battalion, in order to preserve its identity and service. These in their numerical order; the 37th Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Beck, (the 37th was in that village I assure that the colours of the 37th Battalion are deposited. The 78th Battalion commanded by the writer, the colours of which are deposited for safe-keeping in the Union Church in Georgetown.

The 16th Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Domville of Hamilton, and these colours are deposited for safekeeping in St. Jude's Church in Oakville.

From the above it is apparent that the people of Halton should have a peculiar interest in the 4th Battalion, a proprietary interest in fact—and while the memory of the 4th is perpetuated by the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, the honours of the Battalions are common to all the original units comprising the 4th Battalion.
This does not, of course refer to the personal honours, such as decorations and citations, for these are the property of the individual that received them, and there are many of these as well as many wounded, a form of decoration quite as honourable as any, though perhaps not quite so desirable.
So as this first detachment assembled in Georgetown, prior to mobilization which took place at Valcartier, let us make an inspection as they are drawn up in line, and let us see the first of a long line of inspectors.
Many great soldiers and celebrities have passed the ranks since those days, and all were well pleased with what they saw. General Alderson, Hon. Charles Smith—Dorrien, Lord Kitchener and greatest of all His Majesty King George.

Lord Roberts looked us over on Ballour Hill and did us the great honour of waiving a frail old hand in our direction; a hand that in other days had grasped the sword of victory.
That was a very informal inspection, but inspirational, for everyone in the Battalion took it as a personal compliment from Britain's greatest soldier. Within two weeks he had contracted pneumonia and had passed away within a few days of his return thundered their defiance to an enemy against whom, within a year he had system the British Government.
The inspection of Sir Sam Hughes at Valcartier was more than an inspection of the men, and one that stamped the Battalion as a perpetual member of the British Empire.
The Battalion and the Minister of War, Sir Sam Hughes, for to come—but the "Army now," and such little differences do not endure as they do in civil life.

We have referred to the battle honours; we shall now introduce you to a few of the men who in the year to come will wear small discs of bronze or silver on their breasts that attest their valorous deeds. I considered particularly meritorious.

That tall fellow in the Acton section is William Burrows, who has been of Lance Sergeant, and to be awarded the Military Medal. As I remember him having no reference to his habits of either mind or body, but rather attending those of his comrades and of contracting and abstracting the same words that demand too much vocal effort to pronounce.

From the section we see Fred Wright, and his career was a good one for he climbed to the position of actively sergeant in the 4th, and you may be sure the promotion was based on his quality as a good Non Commissioned Officer, and not on the political pull exercised by many who reached higher altitudes in rank.

We must note the two Bradleys, both of whom were in the 4th, and who were misoned rank. Leslie to come out of it a Company Sergeant Major and the other a Sergeant. Both were well known to me, and I am sure they were as the Croix de Guerre awarded by the French.

Sergeant Burrows over there, the short stocky chap, had better luck for he is one of the very few members of the command who were to escape the storm of lead and steel that rained about as the two Christian combinations faced each other across the distance.

We must meet Sergeant Wray, one of the Burlington fellows, as well as the one of the Algeo; but there are many more to whom I shall introduce you later.

Two of these fellows had a physical disqualification, one as a ham toe, or hammer toe, for one is sufficient to reject a candidate as unfit for the duties of a soldier. To those who who are not acquainted with this interesting phenomenon we will say that the little toe on either foot, solicited of a place in the Bun, clinches the its humble niche and places itself securely and permanently on top of its next door neighbour, and refuses to come down. In this position it suggests the hammer of an old iron, and the substance is named.

Both of these fellows went through the war, and though one was wounded he is favourably known in quite a wide district also. No one better qualified to fill this post and look after the affairs of this district, or more deserving of the honour. His friends will join him in congratulations on the honour conferred—Free Press.

ACTON

The curling competitions between Acton and Georgetown for the P. A.
Smith trophy are looked forward to with a lot of pleasurable interest.
Mr. A. G. Charridge was a guest at the banquet given by the Canadian National Exhibition to the prize winners of last year in the main banquet hall of the Royal York Hotel on Wednesday last week.

Mr. E. P. Moore was in Toronto, on Tuesday standing on a committee of the General Council of the United Church which had under consideration the overtures from two other denominations which are considering coming into the United Church.

At the annual Falls Association meeting in Toronto last Thursday and Friday, Mr. R. J. Kerr was chosen as Director for No. 5 District, which includes Halton, Peel, Simcoe and York Counties. Mr. Kerr's interest and abilities in connection with Fall Falls are well known locally and throughout this district, and his choice for this important position is evidence that
district also. No one better qual-
honour conferred—Free Press.

MILTON

The Halton Fish and Game Protective Association has received favorable response from the government re assistance in feeding pheasants throughout the slack season in nature food for these birds.

Wm. G. Martin, a native of Milton, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. Schley, Dearborn, Mich.,
in his 81st year. He was the only surviving brother of William J. Johnstone of Omagh, Trafalgar.

A native daughter of Palermo, Jane Elizabeth Speers, widow of the late David Breckenridge, passed away last Thursday at her home in Toronto in her 77th year. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Speers who lived on a farm on the first concession north of Dundas highway and later in the village, W. H. Speers, Bronte, is a brother.

A successor to the late William Francis, Clerk of the Division Court, Cam-pellville, who died last July as the result of a railway accident, may not be appointed, it has been suggested that the territory of the court, which is the township of Nassagaweya, be cut in two, the north half added to the Milton division, and the south half to the Milton division. Crown Attorney Dick of Milton is in charge in the mainline, and has arranged with William Pantou, Division Court Clerk of Milton, to attend to the business—Reformer.

CHILDREN'S SHELTER, MILTON

During eight months of the incumbrance of C. P. Thompson, superintendent, who was appointed last year on the death of W. H. Stewart, 26 children were cared for in the shelter, and nine found permanent homes.
Maintenance was paid by parents of some children—care for, to the amount of $1,180.50.

There is in the building fund, $1,370.13, and in hands and cash in the bank $1,138.71. For year's receipts amounted to $8,110.05, and expenditures to $5,777.37. Included in the expenditures were: $250 for fuel, groceries, meat and milk, $497.85; fuel, $53.33; dry goods, $289.42; equipment, $21.25; balance in cash, $241.12.

Board of management members are:
President, T. W. Duggan; vice-presidents, C. E. Stuart, Burlington, Mrs.
E. O. Graham, Brantford; secretary, Mrs. T. J. Brown, Milton; treasurer, E.
F. Earl, Milton; auditors, W. B. Clemens, J. Mockridge, Milton.

House committee: Fred representatives, Mrs. E. O. Graham, Mrs. S. Deves, Brampton; Mrs. J. W. Hewell, Brampton; Mrs. F. V. Vardrip, Brampton; Halton representatives, Mrs. T. A. Corham, Mrs. T. J. Brown, Q. R. Church; Halton, J. W. Blair, Milton; T. L. Leslie, Norval. Local executives: Fred N. S. Lindsay, secretary; Judge B. F. Justin, solicitor; A. G.
Davis, president; T. W. Duggan, secretary; Mrs. F. Vardrip, treasurer; W.
Hewellson, Halton—Honorary president; Judge Elliott, solicitor; W. I.
Dick, Milton; Mrs. J. Deves, secretary; Mrs. T. J. Brown, treasurer; E.
F. Earl.

Bad Company

Wife: "How did you get into this state?"
Hubby: "Bad company, m'dear." Wife: "What do you mean by bad company?"
Hubby: "Well, there was five of us to one bottle of whiskey, and the other four were teetotalers."

Frased Finance

Smith: "Are you getting a new car year?"
Jones: "Yes. That is, as soon as I've paid for the one that I had before the one I've got now."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

WEEK by week, the number of divorce applications before the Canadian Parliament is climbing. It is now considerably over the century mark.
Wives, as usual, exceed the husbands in the number seeking divorce, but the latter are coming up. Fifty-nine wives and forty-two husbands seek divorce. Ontario's predominance is again manifested in the fact that 88 of the cases so far inscribed are from this province and 13 from Quebec. In a hundred per cent of the cases the common statutory ground is set up.
The size of the divorce docket, which doubtless will be increased between now and the session, causes it to be an endeavor to have a divorce court in Ontario.

IT IS predicted that the sale of Ontario-made native wine, as the result of an amendment to the Liquor Control Act to be introduced during the present session, will be in the same category as the sale of other alcoholic beverages and regulated under a permit system. There need be no surprise at the change. The sale of native wine without permit or license—such as was incidentally permitted under the Ontario Temperance Act—has undoubtedly been a most important factor in promoting intemperate excessive drinking, and has been able to buy large quantities of the easy conditions of purchase facilitating excessive drinking, and undoubtedly a certain amount of bootlegging, and when it is realized that the alcoholic content of native wine often runs from 24 to 30 proof spirits, it can readily be seen that this beverage figures frequently in breaches of the Liquor Control Act. It was always a mystery why the sale of such a poisonous drink should have been allowed under the old Prohibition Act, and its continuance under the present system, which the abuses it led into have been equally puzzling. A permit system would give the authorities control of the sale, and on the whole the proposed amendment would seem to be thoroughly justified.

ERIN

We are pleased to report that Miss Annie Cetherwood is able to be about the home, following an illness of several weeks.

Skating is becoming a popular sport, there being quite a number in the village trying their skill on this tricky foot-gear. It is a healthy, thrilling sport and the lay of the land hereabouts is ideal.

The recent storms have made the roads throughout the country very heavy and during the week end many who were obliged to travel on the roads experienced more or less difficulty in reaching their destination.

We wish with the citizens in extending our sincere sympathy to Mr. W. A.
L. Burhill, Manager of the Royal Bank, in his sad bereavement, in the death of his mother, at Kemptonville, Mr. Burhill left on Wednesday evening for the funeral.

The annual meeting of All Saints' Anglican Church, Erin, was held in the church on Monday evening. Rev. A. W. Downer will be pastor for 1930 on the unanimous invitation of the members. The following officers were elected: Sec. Treasurer, W. A. L. Burhill; People's Warden, E.
D. Stouffer; Minister's warden, R.
H. Morgan; Misses, Mrs. J. Salton-stoun; Sexton, Wm. Crouch—Advocate.

ACTON

The curling competitions between
Acton and Georgetown for the P. A.
Smith trophy are looked forward to
with a lot of pleasurable interest.
Mr. A. G. Charridge was a guest at
the banquet given by the Canadian National Exhibition to the prize win-
hall of the Royal York Hotel on Wednesday last week.

Mr. E. P. Moore was in Toronto, on
Church which had under considera-
minations which are considering coming into the United Church.

Director for No. 5 District, which includes Halton, Peel, Simcoe and York
abilities in connection with Fall Falls
district also. No one better qual-
honour conferred—Free Press.

The Halton Fish and Game Protective Association has received favorable
sistance in feeding pheasants through-
out the slack season in nature food for
these birds.

Wm. G. Martin, a native of Milton,
passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. Schley, Dearborn, Mich.,
in his 81st year. He was the only surviving brother of William J. Johnstone of Omagh, Trafalgar.

A native daughter of Palermo, Jane
Elizabeth Speers, widow of the late
her 77th year. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Speers
cession north of Dundas highway and
later in the village, W. H. Speers, Bronte, is a brother.

A successor to the late William Francis, Clerk of the Division Court, Cam-
Milton division, and the south half to
the Milton division. Crown Attorney Dick of Milton is in charge in the
mainline, and has arranged with
of Milton, to attend to the business—Reformer.

state?"
Hubby: "Bad company, m'dear."
Wife: "What do you mean by bad
company?"
Hubby: "Well, there was five of us

year?"
Jones: "Yes. That is, as soon as I've paid for the one that I had before the one I've got now."
