NO FRIEND LIKE AN OLD FRIEND

For thirty-five years millions have shown preference for Shredded Wheat over all other cereal foodsand it's so easy to understand why. It's the whole wheat in its most digestible form. The crisp, crunchy shreds encourage thorough chewing-and the more you chew it the better you like it. So easy to serve a quick breakfast because it is ready-cooked. Delicious for any meal.

THE GIRL-WHO HELPS HER MOTHER

Beloved of dad and brother. Who, busy as her hours might be. Found time to help her mother-The girl whose voice was soft and

Her cheeks by nature tinted, Who lightly sped on willing feet With ministry unstinted?

She was more often in than out, She loved to do the cooking; She did not think too much about The way that she was looking: Her things around she did not strew. But put them in their places; She really looked for things to do (Oh, Tarest, of young graces!)

Twould seem the rush of modern days Has robbed us of this treasure; Our girls are losing homely ways In which they once took pleasure: While people stand beholding. And mother is a cross old bear, Who is forever scolding.

Oh, give us back the girl who wrous For order, peace and beauty. Who did the lowly tasks she ought Because it was her duty: And home will be a brighter place, This world more like the other For every girl, with gentle grace, many words bales her mother!

our town resolves itself down to a matter of keen competition with many other places in the province. There is no use sitting down and wishing for factories to locate here. Neither is there anything much to be gained by announcing to each other every time the town's welfare is discussed that "we must have more industries." True it is an evidence that we are industrially conscious, but so are most other progressive towns of equal size. Wishing we had more factories, and preaching to each other on the point is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. Our desires must take on more tangible form. Pirst we must "sell" Georgetown to town. An up-to-date farm house

Many progressive firms today are using long distance telephone service to get sales at lower costs. They divide their territories into "Key Towns" from which different groups of customers can be called conveniently and economically.

We assist in this by compiling Sequence Lists of calls and giving each call a Code Number. The salesman then just tells the Long Distance operator: "I want numbers 2, 6 and 9 on my Sequence List'.

The increased facilities for long distance service make Key-town Selling by Code Numbers more efficient than ever. We shall be glad to explain the details and help you organize your lists.
