THE FIGHTER

Your nose may be battered, your jawbone nicked. But always remember you're never licked. While still you can stand and fight; No matter how badly they mess up your map. It won't be beyond repair. And there still is a chance that you'll win the fight as long as you're in the ring. You'll make mistakes and you'll do things wrong. The best of us always do. But as soon as you get to going strong Your grit will see you through. They smashed old Nelson to a fare-you-well. But he didn't observe, "good night." He merely paused in his tracks to yell "That he'd just begun to fight."

Canadian Medical Assoc. FOOD LIKES AND DISLIKES

One of the questions most commonly asked by parents is as to how their child may be taught to like the food which they know he should eat. We all like foods to which we are accustomed. It is for this reason that it is essential to begin in infancy to accustom the child to the light and desirable foods which he will then like throughout life because he is accustomed to them. Cereals are introduced into the diet of the infant before the sixth month; vegetable juices shortly after. Other foods, in small amounts at first, are gradually added. If this is done, by the time the child is two years of age, a good start will have been made. Our likes and dislikes are largely a matter of imitation. We begin to eat olives because we see that others eat them with pleasure, that, indeed, they regard them as a luxury. The attitude of the parents to different foods is largely the attitude their children will have. If parents cannot train themselves to eat and enjoy desirable foods, and so set a good example, they cannot expect to train their children to do so. Children want to drink tea or coffee because they see their parents drink them with some relish. The same desire can be cultivated in the child for any foods, through the example shown by the parents. It should be a fixed rule never to talk about the food dislikes of a child when he is present. Refer to his likes, if something about food must be discussed, but never to his dislikes. Such discussions, or the display of feelings, even without words, fix the dislikes permanently in the mind of the child. When a new food is given, there should be no fuss about it. Serve a small amount and act as if the child would eat it, as if he were now old enough to have this adult food. Food should be served in an attractive manner. Meals should be at regular hours and time taken to enjoy each meal. Give small servings and repeat, rather than one very large helping. A dislike for bland foods, such as milk, frequently means that the child is having too much of some sweet foods, or of foods with a very distinctive flavour. In such cases all sweets and highly flavoured foods should be withdrawn for a few days. Children are not to be scolded or blamed for their food dislikes. The parents are wholly responsible. Their likes and dislikes are the result of the training which he has received from his parents, who, if he did not select them, are children who like simple, wholesome foods. Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

BITS OF HUMOUR

Web Feet Sweet One: "Are you from the far North?" Ole: "No, why do you ask?" S. O.: "You dance as if you had snowshoes on." One for Each Week The vicar had called unexpectedly, and Mrs. Smith had been out. However, little Bobby had been there, and while the vicar was waiting for Mrs. Smith to return did his best to entertain him. "Well, Bobby," "I hope you behaved nicely when the vicar called?" she asked on her return. "Oh, yes, ma. I heard him say he hadn't a card with him, so I slipped a whole pack into his pocket when he wasn't looking." Banking for the Bank A colored man went to cash a check at a bank operated by members of his own race. "Man," said the teller, "you ain't got no money in this here bank." "Yes, ah, in," insisted the other. "Ah, put ten dollars in your six months ago." "Six months ago?" echoed the teller indignantly. "Lawd, sallah man, don't you know de intrust-done et dat up long ago!"

News and Information for the Busy Farmer

Valuable Crops Hay and pasture crops, including grasses, clover, and other forage plants constitute the most important group of plants grown on Ontario farms. Over seven million acres of land, which is about half of the total area in cultivation, are devoted to the production of hay and pasture crops of the province. This hay and clover crop is valued annually at more than $60,000,000. In the past 45 years, and over $80,000,000 annually for the past five years, 1924-8.

Spray Early and Often At the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, it has been found that in some seasons, six or more applications of spray material are required to entirely control the apple scale, but it is well worth the extra labor and cost when one obtains a crop. The first application must be made very soon after growth begins, if not when the scale is first observed. The best plan is to have the spray machinery and materials ready at the earliest possible date and spray as soon as the time comes.

Weekly Crop Report The weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture indicates that farmers throughout the province are experiencing a hard winter. The fact that live stock went into winter quarters in a poor condition. Almonds are an exceptional crop. The hay crop is being brought into Ontario in large quantities. The possibility of a feed shortage is apparent in Ontario. Good prices were obtained by Ontario farmers for their surplus of milk and cream. The price of feed grains, which indicates a renewed interest in good seed. Huron farmers are having a shortage of root and silage feeds. Milk is far below the average in Lennox and Addington, while in other parts of the province, supply. Importation of New Zealand butter has lowered the price of that commodity in Ontario. In Timiskaming, the price of milk is being moved slowly with a light demand. Potatoes, however, are good.

Apple Market in France A recent bulletin issued by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario points out the possibility of France being developed into an attractive market for good quality Ontario red apples. Satisfactory prices can be secured for Ontario apples in France. The demand of the better class trade as the general run of French apples are inferior in quality compared to a large quantity of apples are produced annually in the country. It is predicted that in the next fifteen years good quality apples will have to be imported in increasing quantities owing to the depreciation of the orchards.

Interesting Figures Interesting statistics issued at Ottawa recently show that Canadians drink a pint of milk a day on an average, making an increase of approximately one hundred per cent. since 1921. Canadians are also said to eat more butter per capita than any other people in the world as indicated by a figure of 23.31 pounds per man, woman and child annually. The per capita consumption of milk is 476.8 pounds a year, which is compared with 468 pounds per capita for the United States. The consumption of cheese in the past seven years has also risen from 2.51 pounds to 3.54 lbs. per capita per year.

Canadian Bacon Supreme An interesting fact is the statement recently issued which showed the decrease in the export trade with Great Britain in the last eight years or since hog-raising was established as a general practice. Eight years ago Canada's export of bacon amounted to more than 100,000,000 pounds. In 1929 it had dwindled to less than 20,000,000 pounds. The reason given is that grading has in reality improved the quality of Canadian bacon and that many countries are now producing bacon at home. The reputation of Canadian bacon stands supreme on the American continent and is equal to any bacon offered in Great Britain. The most pressing need at the present time in relation to the Canadian bacon industry is to have production and continuous supply.

Farm Machinery It has been proved that the use of modern machinery can reduce the costs of production on all crops. However, the buying of machinery should be done only after careful consideration, and machinery will not turn a deficit into a profit. Machinery will not take the place of the farmer's own good cultural practices nor will it serve as a substitute for intelligent management. In fact, the more machinery there is on a farm, the greater is the necessity for following the best farm practices because investments costs are higher, risks are greater and losses may be heavier.

See, Correct Seed Farmers should remember the value of sowing good seeds and the value of tested varieties of grain. By so doing one may increase the yield from 30 per cent. to 50 per cent. above the lowest yielding varieties. In oats it has been shown that large plump seed will average 52 bushels per acre while the small seed yields only 46.8 bushels; in barley the ratio is 53.8 and 43.2 bushels. Farmers are advised to get a copy of the analysis of the same before buying seed. Your local agricultural office can furnish desired information on this subject.

Apple Prices Fair The latest bulletin of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association based upon the reports of the overseas representative, indicates a low price for the last lot of Canadian apples received at Liverpool due to poor condition. It is recommended that growers shipping overseas use shredded oil paper for packing as a large part of the last shipment was affected greatly by scald. South African plums, peaches and pears are being offered in large quantities and are quite cheap, affecting somewhat the sales of Canadian apples. The fruit is of excellent quality and well packed, and is being sold ready sale on the British market.

Quality of Cheese Improves There has been a steady improvement of the quality of cheese year by year since grading was undertaken by the government some seven years ago. It was recently substantiated that a new mark was obtained in the past year when 91.1 per cent. graded was found to be of the first grade. This was an increase of 1.1 per cent. over 1928, when grading began. All provinces showed a marked improvement in the quality of their cheese. In Ontario the highest grade in the province were approximately 72 per cent. in operation receiving milk from thousands of farms.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

That the town that fails to encourage the business concerns it now has will fall way behind in the March of Progress. That when business concerns fail to use every effort to increase their business in the home town and its trade territory, they are holding back its progress. That merchants should show the people of their community by NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING that they can supply their every want. That people appreciate the true merit of the home town as a trading centre when the local concerns take interest enough to tell them what they have through the recognized shoppers' guide—THE NEWSPAPERS. That newspaper ads. draw shoppers from other localities. Shopper do not come to town to buy just one article, they usually buy many articles. That out-of-town shoppers, as well as the local shopper, should receive prompt and strict attention. Advertising, Service, Quality and Price are the Big Attractions that Bring Them to Trade
