NOTES AND COMMENTS

OUR correspondents and reporters staff are always busy gathering news to interest you. It is impossible to hear of every happening in this busy community. Was there something missing in this paper which you know about and would like to have read? That particular item might have interested several of our readers. If you know of such things, will you be good enough to write or phone this office, and let us know about it. If you give us the facts, we will be pleased to write it or if you can't tell us of the event, we can gather the required information. Your co-operation has been splendid and we appreciate it.

TIMES are not nearly so bad in the Georgetown district as the general trend of conversation would seem to indicate, but they are made worse than they otherwise might be by the large measure of restricting, juggling that has swept over the world. This has been influenced by the propaganda of depression, and many are feeling it is not right to be free in their buying. The right way to feel about buying in these times is that this is the most necessary time in which buying should be done within the limits of our resources. There are numerous business places in Georgetown who are offering business opportunities which have never been advertised before; and all those who can afford to buy at all are both practicing economy and exercising a helpful influence on the community in doing so. In this issue the Herald certain good dependable places of merchandise are offered, their goods for sale at prices that are most enticing. If they have gone to the trouble of placing their goods before the public in an attractive way, and have taken the trouble to solicit trade by advertising for it, it is only home paper they should be credited up to the limit.

THERE is a life that is worth living now as it was worth living in the former days, and that is the honest life, the useful life, the unselfish life, cleansed by devotion to an ideal. There is a battle that is worth fighting now as it was worth fighting then, and that is the battle for justice and equality, to make our city and our state free in fact as well as in name; to break the rings that strangle real liberty and to keep them broken; to cleanse, so far as in our power lies, the foundations of our national life from political, commercial and social corruption; to teach our sons and daughters, by precept and example, the honor of serving such a country as ours; that is worth fighting for, and that is the battle for justice and equality. The well-born are those who are born to do that work; the well-bred are those who are bred to be proud of that work; the well-educated are those who see deep into the meaning and the necessity of that work. Nor shall their labor be for naught, nor the reward of their sacrifice fall them; for high in the firmament of human destiny are set the stars of faith in mankind, and unselfish courage and loyalty to the ideal.—Exchange.

GERMEXIN OR EAR WAX
It is commonly said that, if our special senses, hearing comes second only to sight. These two senses are necessary for the full enjoyment of life that it is impossible to say which of them is more precious. For high in one will agree that to lose one or the other is a calamity and that it is well worth while to take whatever steps are necessary to preserve both.

W.M.S. of the United Church
The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, Georgetown, was held in the School Room of the Church on Tuesday, January 6th at 3 p.m. with Mrs. Roney, lat vice president, in the chair. There was a good attendance and the annual reports of the different committees were read. Mrs. Ruth Ingham, her acceptance of the office of president for 1931. Mrs. Rumley consented to assist Mrs. O'Neill as pianist for the coming year. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Deans and an interesting leaflet on Japan by Mrs. Godfrey. Mrs. F. Alast favored the choir with solo. During the year $54.00 was raised by the society and $93.00 by the Mission Band for missionary purposes.

Show Them A Mountain And They'll Do The Rest

Edward Peck (left) holds that "the climbing urge" is a heritage of all white races, be the objective high furniture for an infant, a tree-top for a schoolboy, or the pinnacle of success or the summit of a mountain for an adult. He sought to know, for he makes his living as a mountain guide in the country. His brother Ernest (right) is also an experienced guide and mountaineer. Both are natives of Interpation, Switzerland, and have winter-homes in the little Swiss guide village of Edelweiss, in the Columbia Valley. They are shown scanning the peaks adjoining the Banff Springs Hotel.

Possibility of Grandi having reached the south of his power, India was voiced by Lt. Gen. Sir George Gory, former deputy chief of the Indian Staff, India, who sailed aboard S. S. Duchesse de Richmond for Liverpool recently. "Time will very likely cure India, but what she has done before," was Sir George's view.
The hunting grounds of eastern Canada abound with big game and with wild fowl of every description as a result of wise game laws and conservation measures of the various provinces, according to A. O. Cameron, general manager of Canadian Pacific Railway, who announced that opportunities for hunters are plentiful in the Maritime Provinces were better than in the present season.
