ONE THIMBLEFUL - A DAY'S FEED FOR ONE CHICK!

THINK OF IT! One 'tym thimbleful... all the feed a chick can put in its little crop in one day. On this tiny bit it must live... grow... build bones... build muscles... start feathers. Think of the job feed has to do!

They must depend on feed for so many things! They get them all in Purina Chick Starters (mash) or Purina All-Mash Starters Chow... 12 different ingredients in every thimbleful. Cod-liver oil... dried buttermilk... alfalfa flour... granulated meat... these and eight others are there!

These 12 ingredients... think how carefully they must be mixed to make every thimbleful alike. Purina Starters and All-Mash Starters Chow are mixed over and over again... 340 times just to be thorough! You will find the same care taken with Baby Chick Chow (scrub)... to be fed with Starters until your chicks are six weeks old... and with Purina Growers (mash) and Purina Intermediate Hen Chow (scrub)... to be fed from then on until the pullets are laying at 16 weeks.

How little feed a chick eats... just one thimbleful a day... yet how important it is... how much depends on it... the chick's very life... its growth... what the pullets will do for you next fall and winter when eggs are sure to be worth good money. You can afford to feed only the best... Purina Chick Chow.

STARTENA is much cheaper $3.50 and $3.95 per Bag

COURAGE

I pictured courage once as crimson-clad, Bearing the thrill of bugles in his name, Burning toward victory as some swift falcon.

I pictured courage as a slender lad Daring a dragon, or a martyr glad Upon his way to torture and to shame I pictured courage courting hurt and blame.

To prove the high conviction that he had, that he was right, and that there And though despised turning still to jest.

Above the wound he covered in his breast.

But when I think of courage now, I see A beaver woman who has thrown away
The joys that make life beautiful to stay
A servant in the house of leprosy; Oh, well, when courage leaps to bugles, the most admirable, and the Must very quietly long-day and day Face the white death no human hand may stay Serve the long anguish that she may not free.

This was the courage of the Man who chose
The path to Calvary—nor feared its close.
—By Theodosia Garrison.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

March 30th, 1931.

Declaring the Ontario Hydro Power Commission is following the principle laid down by Sir Eon W. Massey, Minister of Finance, in his report on the Hydro Power Commission, that the Government should not be a shareholder in the Hydro Power Commission, but should be a landlord.

The Hon. J. R. Cooke, Minister of Power in the Hon. G. H. Ferguson's Government made a spirited reply to the Hon. J. R. Cooke, Minister of Power in the Hon. G. H. Ferguson's Government, in a vote on the Hydro Power Commission, that the Government should not be a shareholder in the Hydro Power Commission, but should be a landlord.

The Hon. J. R. Cooke, Minister of Power in the Hon. G. H. Ferguson's Government, in a vote on the Hydro Power Commission, that the Government should not be a shareholder in the Hydro Power Commission, but should be a landlord.

BRITAIN'S PRINCES ARE KEPT BUSY

LIKE THE PRINCE OF WALES, HIS BROTHERS ALSO HAVE A HOST OF FORMAL DUTIES TO KEEP THEM WELL EMPLOYED.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to South America in company with his young wife, Princess George, calls attention to the fact that there are four brothers in the royal family, commonly known as the "Princes." The Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George, are in the ordinary position of all younger sons of royalty, but nevertheless they bring distinct and clear-cut duties that devolve upon them.

The Duke of York, who is now 35, is the only married man among them and the most serious of them all. The Duke of Gloucester, who is 30, is the youngest of the four, and the one who has the most serious duties. He is a good dancer, he likes the hunt, and he is a good sportsman. He is a good shot, and he is a good horseman. He is a good swimmer, and he is a good cricketer. He is a good all-round sportsman.

AN EXPRESSION OF THOUGHT TO YOU

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered And nobody looked at me, If each every minute looked after himself, And good things all went to the strong;
If nobody cared just a little for you And nobody thought about me, And we all stood alone in the battle of life,
What a dreary old world it would be.

Life is sweet just because of the friends we have made And the things which in common we share.
We want to live on, not because of ourselves,
But because the people who care for us
On that all life's splendor depends, And the joy of this world, when you've summed it all up, Is found in the making of friends.
—C. A. Ward.

EASTER DAY

"And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." To the keenly logical mind of St. Paul, the validity of Christian doctrine depended upon the Resurrection, of which Easter Day is the universal commemoration.

Jesus had shown to those who heard of His life, and His words had had sunk deep in their hearts. But if He had died like other men, and had left to His disciples only a spectacle, He might not be today even one of many teachers, for the spirit which animated His biographers would have been lacking. Nor would St. Paul himself, who never saw Him in the flesh, have become the greatest single human influence in the founding of His Church.

Easter Day is thus the greatest festival of the Christian Year, for which that other great festival, Christmas, is only a preparation. In the early Church every Sunday recalled the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, but later, as the number of Christians increased, it was found necessary to reserve Easter Day for the special celebration of this event. The consequence demanded a special anniversary, and the season was fixed mainly on the authority of St. Peter.
There are no real difficulties in its celebration as a movable feast—certainly no implication that it is of historic significance. Questions of this sort are of little value, in view of the practice of the Church, which is the very beginning. That is a witness to the reality of the Resurrection which could not be impeded though the Gospels had never been written.

The hope of immortality persisted in mankind long before the Christian era. To think of a hereafter, the deeper of human instincts.
But only the fact that Jesus rose from the dead could make a great impression on the human mind. Many have sought to dispute the reality of this fact, but the testimony is too plain to be disregarded. There is no other explanation for the persistence of the faith in a world hostile to it—no other theory that can account for the growth of the Church through the ages. Easter Day ever been secularized, Christmas has long been a heathen festival, and the human consciences which make even the unbeliever believe.

BUSINESS SUMMARY

The following business summary was handed out by the Bank of Montreal under number 2374—

ONTARIO

Retail trade at country points has been further slowed up by bad roads and a general depression. The farmers who feel keenly the continued recession in prices of livestock. Depression in the larger cities. The country continues to feature a cutting sales, to the disadvantage of the smaller merchants. Wholesale retail trade is slow. The market is operating approximately 6% under the level of last year, due in part to the newly adopted policy of spreading production through the year.
Manufacturers of furniture are fairly well engaged with orders and business coming in.
Next, I shall attempt to explain to you my reasons for this choice. Judging from my ability in subjects, apart from languages, I feel that I could not make a success of myself otherwise. Latin and French are my favorite subjects though I could still improve in them. Though I have a great love for English, particularly English literature, there is much more room for improvement in some staple lines. Buying is largely on a hand-to-mouth basis. Collections for current business are satisfactory but are slow in old accounts.

in the corresponding period of the previous year. Supplies of cattle have been quite heavy and somewhat ber-denome for the present state of trade.
Choice steers are $2 as compared with $10 a year ago. Select bacon hogs are

COMPOSITION

highest marks for a class for the following composition:

MY CHOICE OF A PROFESSION

From early childhood I have harboured a very strong desire to become a teacher. During my public school career, this ambition never left me, though I was undecided as to what course I pursued. Before one year of my high school career had elapsed, I made my no doubt, is difficult, and requires hard studying to make a success of it; but the fact that I may become such a teacher, despite the hardship previously mentioned, is my goal, when you are striving for some much more interesting and pleasant work than you are doing now. The fact that your parents are working hard
