Minister Paid for Cow
It does not pay a motorist to bump a bovine on the highway. Frank Fitch was plainly in his action against Rick Thompson, claiming damages from the latter for the death of one of his cows. Thompson was motoring when he was confronted with a herd of cattle on the highway. He turned to the left side of the road to pass the trailing animals and one cow jumped in front of his car. The animal was badly injured and had to be destroyed. Thompson declared that it was impossible for him to avoid striking the animal, but Judge Justice, in division court Tuesday, held that the accident would not have happened had he been in perfect control of his car. Judgment was in favor of plaintiff for $7500 and costs.—Brampton Reporter.
