Our New Post Office

We have received information from a reliable source that it is quite possible Georgetown's much delayed new post office will be erected in the near future. If not this fall, likely next year. In all probability it will be erected on the corner below the Gregory Theatre, the site purchased the government some years ago.

Mr. Putnam expressed his pleasure at being present to say a few words on this memorable occasion, when gone before, by the dedication of the ceautiful gates to their city of the dead. It was commendable that the women should have accomplished this work in their service to home and community. He assured his hearers that for those not acquainted with the work of the Institute, it was worth their while to know what the Institute means to the province. Baldwin had said that "the greatest example to England was the Women's Institute." At the world convention at Geneva it was unanimously agreed that "Ontario Women's work was the best example of all the world for earnest effective work."
