The value of snow in protecting crops and providing a reserve of moisture for the spring and summer is recognised this year as never before The entire province enjoyed open weather until the first of March, so open in fact that it roused apprehension as to the effect on certain crops. Reports were received from a number of agricultural representatives noting that damage was being done to clover and to fall wheat. Then done to clover and so rail wheat, risen dome a heavy snowfall, providing the most desirable kind of blanket against sum, wind and frost Growth cannot be expected for several weeks and in the meantime it is desirable that roots be protected. While fruit tree buds may suffer to some extent from the low temperature, any loss of this nature is likely to be bal-anced by the killing of insects that are stirred into too early activity. Several species, among them the San lose Scale, have increased in numbers with the recent mild winters. No. ture's method of control is a near in

Are You Among Those Who Say - "I never read Advertisements"

O SAY "I never read advertisements" would be much like saying, "I never use soap," or "I never read newspapers," or "No one can teach me anything," or "I know everything."

Many good but not very wise persons seem to think that all advertisements are just the vainglorious braggings of those who publish them designed to part fools and their money. The truth is that most advertisements are incitements to their readers to do or be or buy or use something for their immediate or prospective advantage. Advertisers, to be successful and to live long, have to offer something of value or of desire—something really wanted or needed by the public. Advertisers, to live long, must not cheat the expectations or confidence of those who buy what they offer or propose.

Here are some questions to be answered by those who say "I never read advertisements"-

- 1. What alarm clock would you buy if you needed one?
- 2. What camera would you buy, for your own use, or to give to a son or daughter?
- 3. What motor car possesses your favor?
- 4. What face cream or shaving soap or cream, or tooth paste did you use to-day?
- 5. What laundry soap (or flakes) is in your kitchen right
- 6. Does the breakfast bacon which you like best have a brand
- 7. The watch'on your wrist-what name does it bear?
- 8. Your shoes—who made them?

be satisfactory.

- 9. Your life insurance policy—what company issued it?
- 10. The ginger ale which you serve to guests-what brand is it? 11. The tea which you buy regularly-what brand is it?
- 12. The soup and baked beans and the tomato catsup now on your pantry shelves—what brands are they?

You see, whether or not you consciously or habitually read advertisements, you buy, by preference, what advertisements have recommended to your confidence and what experience has proven to

The things which we don't buy, and which have a sickish life. are those which are not advertised, and which try to ride into public favor on the backs of well-advertised products.

> "It is to one's discredit to say, "I never read Advertisements."
