OLD YEAR (1935)

Tomorrow you are due of yesterday. Dust of the hours that died for love. Dust of the hours that knew the waltz. Of lips whose love shall always be the same. Tomorrow you are due of yesterday. Of dimly lighted paths that know of footprints, waltzing, tucked in, in dream. All that was mine, the while of your brief day. Take leave of Mr. Old Year, he is quickly As I stand, I farewell with wit. High in remembrance, and I stand. Goodbye, I cry to you a parting. Whom I shall meet again when Time will end.

WHAT IS A TAX?

The Citizens' Research Bureau in a recent bulletin discusses taxation. It shows to us of repeated question. What is a tax? It explains, saying, "A tax is a forced contribution towards the needs of a government. In early days the need of government had little or no relation to the needs of the citizen, and the contribution had little relation either to the ability of any particular citizen to pay for the service received from the government. It was in these days when the present tax complex of which the taxpayer exercises control was established. Many are still under the impression that taxation is a necessary evil. As a matter of fact, much exciting taxation and many existing taxes are necessary, and taxation in itself is no more an evil than the necessity of paying for any other service we use. A tax is, in fact, a contribution in kind, if not paid, force is exercised to secure payment. The force is exercised, however, by an authority over which the taxpayer exercises control in their capacity as electors. It is still a contribution to the needs of government. The needs of government are, of course, the needs of the citizen. The needs of the citizen are, of course, the needs of the government in order that these needs may be adequately met.

The chief draw back to this is that you have no fellow sufferer to get for an extra blanket.

Season's Greetings

A new year lies before us offering new hopes and new opportunities. That your new year will be filled with added happiness and prosperity is the sincere wish of the Herald.

SOUTH AFRICA LIKELY TO TAKE ON HOCKEY

With the advance made in refrigeration engineering, ice hockey is rapidly extending its boundaries irrespective of climate. The idea of hockey in South Africa is being seriously considered. SLASH IN HYDRO TAXES FORECAST

General reductions in hydro rates throughout the province within the year will probably result from the new cost of power, negotiated with the Hydro Commission and the Hydro Commission.

"Faint Heart"

By EVELYN GORDON

MILLY MATHICKS' neighbor drummed with soft impatience on his desk. Then he got up and for the tenth time looked at his watch. "No, she was coming yet. Past nine now." Ruth Devel during these twenty years as his secretary for the Mar- tinez Advertising Agency might have been told that this morning.

DRUMS IN AFRICA

Lawrence G. Green knows Africa. He is on a Cape newspaper. In "Great African Mysteries" he gives his views on the mystery of the drums which the natives of Africa in a few hours learn to play long before the white man.

NEW YEAR

A toast to the old year, a toast to the new. May its pleasures be many, its sorrows few. A hope for the future—a sign for the past. A smile for the present—the hours awaiting fast.

FIELD CROPS IN THE PROVINCES

Although the value of the principal field crops of Canada in 1935 is estimated at a 7 per cent decrease compared with 1934, increases in value are shown for British Columbia, Saskatchewan, and New Brunswick.

LOST $150 WHEN SHE WASHED WILLOW SLEEP

The washing of one small pillow cost a Coltingwood housewife exactly one hundred and fifty dollars. The lady in question tells how she placed $150 in three denominations, a hundred fifty and a five dollar bill, in a pillow case. She meant only to leave the money in this hiding place for a time permitted her to deposit the currency in the bank. Alas, she forgot all about it, and when "cash day" came along, pillow case money and all went into the washing machine with a quantity of other clothes.
