Mr. Coo was born at Whitehead, Cambridge, England, on July 6th, 1850, and was 85 years of age. He was married to Elizabeth Marion Collins on May 22nd, 1878, who pre-deceased him on Dec. 11th, 1928. Mr. Coo came to Canada with his parents from England when very young and the family settled in Montreal, Canada, in 1860. He was a member of the Anglican Church and at one time sang in the choir in Montreal. He also served at Whitehead, Ontario, and came to Georgetown in 1891. After a few years he moved to Limestone where he resided for about 20 years. When he was forced to retire on a pension owing to blindness, after being blind for some months, he decided to go to the school for the blind at Westmount, Quebec, under Philip Layton, to learn Braille, which he accomplished in the first few weeks of five weeks. He also learned to write a wonderful letter on the typewriter and demonstrated it by writing to his wife during his three weeks stay, telling her he was ready to come home. He was a member of the St. George's Church and at the grave where the Masonic service was held. The remains were interred in Greenwood Cemetery, Georgetown. The pallbearers were John McDermott, Geo. P. Armstrong, Joe Watson, W. H. Long, and Arthur Norington of Dundas. A service at the Anglican Church was held on June 30th on Mill Street, between Main and Queen Sts., at 11:30 a.m. by Rev. Wm. Acton Club Out 10-2 Win Over Georgetown

LACK OF ENTHUSIASM AND POOR BASE RUNNING HELD LOCALS DOWN

Go To Milton Saturday

Acton Tanners lacked a 10-2 victory on the local paper boys here last Friday. It was a game that lacked the enthusiasm of the opener the previous week, and saw the Georgetown fans just sitting tight waiting for anything to happen. Unless the crowd got behind the team, the local club was in for a rough game. It may be the same old story this year as in previous years—and a lot of water has flowed under the bridge since an Acton-Georgetown tie-up has failed to put the crowd to their feet, and cheer the boys—right up to victory—but to cheer anyway.

Acton opened the game with three runs in the first inning when Mr. Mann on the Georgetown mound failed to get control of the baseball. With bases full, he pitched the ball to the plate. However, he pitched up in the second and third innings and the crowd got behind the boys—right up to victory—but to cheer anyway.

Acton came back strong in the first, but score two runs and their only runs of the game, while Acton managed to bring in five more before the end of the first.

Morton did the pitching for the Tanners, and while throwing a good ball for the first two innings, he was not so good later. After the first inning, he pitched a ball that was not so good, and the crowd got behind the boys—right up to victory—but to cheer anyway.

THIS AND THAT IN SPORT

In hockey it is said the third period was invented for those who don't play. It is a time when the game is over and the players are tired. It is a time when the crowd is still there and the players are still on the ice. It is a time when the game is over and the players are still on the ice.
