TRAD slowly hept. Go reverently and slow the year down upon its knees. And with bowed head and heart ached drive hard. To grasp the future gain in this year's race. For not one foot of this dark and fat drunk its surface of the blood of gallant men. Who for their faith, their hope—for Life and Liberty. Here made their sacrifice—her gave their lives. And gave right willingly—for you and me. From this vast altar—pile the souls of men. Bred by God in countless multitudes. On this grim cratered ridge they gave their all. And giving won The peace of Heaven and Immortality. Our hearts go out to them in boundless gratitude. If once the Gods, for His charity All men, all know, all sympathize—let us repeat their sacrifice—and God help us if we fail to pay our debt in fullest full and all obediently.—John O'Neill

IS THE HORSE VANISHING?
The horse is vanishing as a unit, but the industry is still in the infancy of its development. The horse is being replaced by the motor vehicle, and the industry is being replaced by the motor industry. The horse is being replaced by the motor vehicle, and the industry is being replaced by the motor industry. The horse is being replaced by the motor vehicle, and the industry is being replaced by the motor industry.

S. J. HUMBERFORD
Mr. Humberford brings to his new office experience gained during fifty years of service with both the major railway systems of Canada and an intimate knowledge of the transportation requirements of all sections of the Dominion. He has held in succession, important positions of responsibility in connection with the operation, maintenance, construction and administration of the Canadian railways. Railroading has been his life-work and, by reason of this fact, he knows and understands the duties and problems of all grades from apprentice to executive officer.

His lengthy period of service has given him residence in seven of the nine provinces of the Dominion, and in British Columbia in the Maritime Provinces, in Quebec and Ontario. In each of the three Prairie Provinces and in British Columbia, he has served in the State of Vermont, where the National System now operates the Central Vermont Railway.

His career is a story of endeavour and achievement. The youth who went cheerfully to work as an apprentice in the locomotive shop of the South Eastern Railway at Parramatta, Que., in 1886, has become, in 1936, the man at the head of the largest railway system in the Western Hemisphere. The intervening fifty years have shown that he has the will to achieve, with industry and study he won position after position of increased responsibility.

The first half of his railway career was spent with the Canadian Pacific Railway, then came his identification with the Canadian Northern, subsequently he served with the Intercolonial and National Transcontinental to form the nucleus of the Canadian National System. When the Grand Trunk Pacific became entangled in financial difficulties, it became the fourth entity of the Canadian National Railway, and Mr. Humberford took over the position of vice-president and general manager. What he accomplished in addition to his vice-presidency of the other sections of the National System. Thus he came to know the organization, business methods and operation of the great railway groups. When, in 1922, the Canadian trunk was added to the Canadian National Railway, he was chosen by Sir Henry Thornton as Vice-President in Charge of the Operating, Maintenance and Construction of the whole National System, and to him fell the task of co-ordinating the various properties into an operating entity. Ten years later, he became Acting President of the National Railway, and in 1934 was appointed to the rank of President, representing the Trustees, position which he has held until his present appointment.

Health and the School

Can a school do harm? Of course it can, and of course it does. The artificial confinement of children in a school, the long hours of waking hours, quiet compulsion of the law and the truant officer may be very bad, but it is not, by itself, necessary it is an evil. It is a necessary evil, that may some day, if we are open-minded and have a necessary, be good, without the evil.

PASTURE PLANTS OF EASTERN CANADA
Just as we may fail to see the trees for the forest, so we often speak of pasture without much thought of what goes to the making of them. Pasture may be grass, but this grass is almost sure to consist of various grasses, and usually also includes some clovers, and unless it is very exceptional, it will contain more than a few weeds. Clover inspection also reveals a small proportion, a half, or even more in poor or newly seeded stands, of bare ground, or silt, or sand, or other material, or plant debris.
