TOURING . . with an Easy Mind

. . . they keep in touch with home by TELEPHONE

At first the Hendersons couldn't bear the thought of being away from the family for any length of time. Then someone suggested leaving an "itinerary behind: "You can always depend on Long Distance to find you if anything crops up . . . and you can call home wherever you feel like it yourselves." . . . The telephone is ready everywhere to serve you. Speedy, dependable, inexpensive, it keeps you within reach wherever you go.

● Recent reductions, and low night rates after 7 p.m. and all day Sunday, now make Long Distance cost less than ever before.

ADVENTURE

Adventure calls to some beyond the clouds,
And wants a shining stretch of silver wings;
But to those bound below by circumstance,
The daily comes in guise of simple things.

Oh I may never sail the Seven Seas,
Nor taste the clean-cut tang of salty spray;
Yet cheerful change has held me by the hand
Whenever I've walked home another way.

I'll never see the sunny slopes of Spain,
Her groves all clothed in clouds of flowery foam;
But I have felt the kiss of Entrepotte
While growing new geraniums here at home.

What tho' I long to trace some slender stream
Of purling water to its fountain head?
Because my business is to cook and clean,
I test out tasty recipes instead.

To you I leave high hill-tops and far seas
For those Adventures that are meant for me;
I'll make a joyous journey of the years,
And find in love my ecstasy.

Oh, make me wisely merry, gaily glad,
With eyes to see fresh sweetness where I may;
Give me the cheerful heart to understand
And live a new Adventure every day.

—Gertrude Bowen Webster.

W. C. T. U.

Following the vacation period, the September meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Reeve, Arletta, St., on Friday afternoon, Sept. 11th, Mrs. A. R. Vanmatter presiding.

In the absence of Mrs. Deans, the devotional period was conducted by Miss Coventry, assisted by Mrs. Reeve.

At the close of the discussion of plans for the ensuing term of work, Mrs. Hector Bird contributed a much appreciated vocal selection.

The guest speaker, Mrs. H. L. Hutt, was then welcomed by the president as one to whom our union owes a great debt of gratitude for her ever-willing and efficient service in acting viz: the conduct of the Essay and Poster Contests of several years past.

In reply Mrs. Hutt announced that she had chosen, in place of giving the more formal address expected of a guest speaker, to comment upon the work of the department mentioned viz: the conduct of the Essay and Poster Contests held annually by the W.C.T.U. throughout the Dominion. Commending highly this effort to stimulate interest in scientific temperance knowledge, the speaker discussed frankly the results as she had observed them from year to year in this centre, combining constructive criticism with due praise to those responsible for the very evident improvement noticeable from year to year in the quality of the work entered in the competitions. She was glad to note the names of three Georgetown entrants in the list of provincial awards recently published.

The corresponding secretary was asked to send the congratulations of the organization to Misses Ruth Gifford, Anne Bowman and Margaret Hoare, whose work had received recognition in the provincial competition.

With many thanks to the guest speaker, soloist and our hostess, the meeting adjourned to meet next month at the home of Mrs. Arthur Speight.

HOW TO MEET DOGS

One often meets persons who are afraid of dogs. It is a needless fear and can be easily overcome by learning how to meet a dog whose approach seems to mean trouble.

Recently, I witnessed two incidents, one which showed how not to deal with such a dog; the other, how to treat him. One morning I heard my dog "Mike," a bolsterous Kerry Blue, making a terrible rumpus in the yard. When I rushed out to see what was the matter, I found that he was barking at the boy who delivers the morning paper. The situation was not dangerous because Mike is really a friendly dog and probably had run toward the boy wagging his stubby tail, and voicing a noisy welcome. But, the boy did just the wrong thing. He yelled with fright and began kicking, and striking out with his hands. Then Mike's playfulness changed to anger, and his manner became fearsome. I had to step in and stop him, and make him understand that the boy was a friend of mind and intended no harm.

Some time later on the same day, a strange woman appeared in my neighbor's garden. Mike who seems to regard himself as the guardian of that property as well as mine, went bounding through the hedge barking at a great rate, as if to order her off the premises. The woman was evidently wise to dogs. Instead of showing fright, or trying to drive Mike away, she stood perfectly still, and said to him in a quiet and kind voice, "Now, now, it's all right. Don't make such a fuss. I belong here. I'm Timmy's grandmother." (Timmy is my neighbor's little boy). Mike quit barking at once and soon was capering about the lady as if she were a long lost friend.

The truth is that few dogs are really vicious, especially those that are noisy barkers. The only dog to beware of is the one that comes growling and crouching low, and even in his case the danger is slight if one uses the right method.

To a person who is nervous, when a barking dog comes toward him, I would offer these suggestions.

Note if his head is up and his tail swagging. In that case, he is friendly.

Stand perfectly still. If you are afraid, don't show it. Whatever you do, don't turn and run away. Retreat invites disaster.

Do not strike out with the hand, or feet, or make any threatening motion. If you do, the dog will think that you really are an enemy.

Talk to him quietly, as if he were giving you a cordial welcome, and greeting you as an old-time acquaintance. Usually, as soon as a dog is sure that you intend no mischief, he will drop every show of hostility.

In case a dog comes at you creeping low and canarling, do not hastily take to your heels. Move slowly backwards, if it seems unsafe to stand still, talking meanwhile calmly and kindly. He may cease his attack, or he may be held at bay until help arrives. In extreme cases fling your arm up in front of your throat. That would be the point toward which he would leap. However, one may go through a whole life-time and never be attacked by a really ugly dog.

In case you are bitten by a dog, go at once to the nearest doctor, or drug store, and have the wound cauterized, to prevent infection.—William Henry Spence in "Our Dumb Animals."

Halton Juniors Achievements Outstanding at the C.N.E.

Halton Juniors were well and worthily represented in the various Junior competitions conducted on Farmers' Day at the C.N.E.

The Inter-club Calf competitions proved to be one of the highlights of the day's programme at the Coliseum, and a large crowd of enthusiasts followed the work of the youthful exhibitors as well as that of the judge.

The Halton Jersey group placed first, the members being Eccles McClure, Emerson Robinson and Fred Riddell. In the Holstein section which brought out entries from eight different counties with thirty-two boys competing, Halton placed second as a group. This group was composed of the following members: Donald Peer, Addison Woodley and Archie Gates. Addison Woodley also was awarded the prize as the Champion Showman in this section.

In the Shorthorn section, which brought out entries from four counties, with sixteen boys competing, Halton placed second as a group, with George Brecken standing first in the individual section. The other members of the group were John Snyder and Glen Campbell.

The Household Science and Live Stock Judging Competitions also brought out keen competition. In the former Florence Cartwright was the high competitor in the Open Clothing Competition, with Mary Jarvis placing 5th, Betty Rivaz 7th, and Hazel Booth 10th.

Halton was again to the fore in the Supper Club section, with Isabel Tovell securing the high award, while in the Team Demonstrations, the group representing Halton, which was made up of Betty Rivaz, Wilma Henderson and Florence Bullock, placed fourth in a strong competition.

In the Junior Farmers competitions Claude McLaughlin placed first in the Cream Grading, with Richard McLaughlin third, and Fred Shortill and Jack Lawson tied for sixth, and Howard King 13th. In the Grain and Roots section Max Taylor secured 5th award, while his brother Jack placed 5th in Fruit and Vegetables. In Heavy Horses, Wallace Swackhamer was 8th, and Howard Graff 12th. In Beef Cattle Max Taylor was 6th, and in Poultry Howard King was 6th and Jack Taylor 8th.

In view of the fact that, between seven and eight hundred young people were in competition, it will be readily realized that Halton Juniors achieved no small honours for themselves and their county.

Teacher—Junior, tell me the definition of the word "widow."

Junior—A widow is a woman that lived so long with her husband that she died.

HOME

Oh, it may be a little farm,
That lives among tall trees,
That owns a garden filled with thyme
And heather and heartease;
Or it may be a tenement,
Upon a city street,
But if it is indeed a home,
The soul of it is sweet!

It may be costly, built of brick,
It may be made of rough-hewn logs,
But if it makes us feel
A sense of comfort and of peace,
And loveliness and rest,
It does not matter how it looks,
For it is surely blest.

A home needs more, you see, than walls,
And stately rooms, well planned;
It needs the sense of song, the touch
Of a soft writtle hand.
It needs a prayer from smiling lips,
A prayer to One whose grace
Made home and all that home may mean,
Bloom in a stable place!

—Margaret E. Sangster.

MILTON

Mrs. Charles Bowring left on Tuesday evening for a trip to Vancouver, B.C., where she will visit her sister, for a few weeks.

Provincial Constable and Mrs. Geo. Cookman returned on Sunday from their trip to France, England and Scotland. While in France they attended the unveiling of the Vimy Ridge memorial by His Majesty King Edward VIII.

Neglecting to lock his son's car which he had parked in front of the dance hall at Christie, James Service, farmer near Milton, found it missing, Thursday night at the conclusion of a shower and dance for a bride-to-be. Provincial Constable A. J. Oliver of Milton, investigated. The car was found next day on the seventh line, Trafalgar Township.

John R. Mills, one of the oldest members of Milton L.O.L., No. 3358, has been made an honorary member of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Ontario West. Mr. Mills is now in his 74th year and has attended 53 Orange celebrations in the province since he joined the L.O.L.

THE LOCAL PAPER

"Up in Penetang the Board of Trade recently called a meeting to discuss the announcement by the town newspaper. The editor of the Penetang Herald, C. M. Hewson, had announced that due to lack of subscribers and advertising in the town he could publish no longer. Until this move by the editor, the townspeople and merchants of Penetang had failed to give the local paper any encouragement. Subscriptions fell off and the advertising grew less and less until the owner was publishing his newsy little sheet at a financial loss. So he chose to close his plant, sooner than go any deeper into the red. Immediately this happened the citizens snapped out of their apathy and realizing what a blow it would be to the prestige of the town, began a campaign to interview people and plan ways and means of continuing the publication. "The lack of a town paper affects the town badly, and we should do everything we can to get it started again," vehemently declared Mr. J. McTaggart, of the Board of Trade. The same situation occurred some years ago down in Palmerston, where Mr. Anderson, who for years had published "The Spectator" at a financial loss, pulled up stakes and moved to Guelph, leaving the railroad town without a local paper. Citizens and businessmen of the town who for years had refused to advertise or otherwise support the local paper, set forth to entice another editor to set up shop in Palmerston, and finally a party was found who agreed to publish a paper, "The Observer." And having had a taste of a newspaperless district for several months, the Palmerston merchants decided that perhaps advertising was the best after all, and today the Observer is one of the best patronized exchanges that comes into this office. What is more, the merchants declare that since they began to advertise through the columns of the paper, their business has shown a decided increase in volume, and they are taking care that Palmerston will never again be without a local newspaper."—Paisley Advocate.

The customer gazed pensively at the barber. Something about him seemed rather odd:

Customer (at last)—I say, isn't it unusual to see a barber with long hair and whiskers like yours?

Barber (nodding)—Yes, but it's good business. Every man who sees how they look on me asks for a hair cut and shave.
