BIRDS AND MEN

Sometimes I wonder, do the robins fall?
 Are they the best with patience as a trait?
 Are some of them too selfish or too frail?
 To serve the purpose of the Master's plan?

Have birds a self-made standard of success by which they measure triumph and defeat?
 Have they an artificial happiness?
 Or do they find joy in living all contented?

Have they a pride in wealth? A world that tracks their bodies and their faith destroys?
 Does any robin know a richer host than that his every fellow here set joys?

I've watched them hop my garden plot about.
 And perch through the summer leaves, haggard robins, worn and sick with ill, doubt.
 Or rub their discouraged or unclean bills.

I think sometimes to put it into words.
 As spring brings back its choir.
 Birds make a better job of being birds than we frail humans make of being men.

1937 MOTOR PERMITS TO BE AVAILABLE ON NOVEMBER 1

Registration Plates Commencing November 1, 1937

Toronto, October 28th, 1936.—Hon. T. M. McQueen, Minister of Highways, announced today that 1937 Motor Vehicle Permits and Operators' Licenses will be available throughout the Province on November 1st.

The Highways Department is making 1937 Permits available at this time so that purchasers of new 1937 cars and trucks will not be obliged to pay for 1936 registration, and so that the increasingly large number of automobile purchasers of used cars and trucks will not have to pay the usual transfer fee with only two months of the year remaining.

The advance sale of 1937 Permits has been designed to alleviate the usual last minute rush when 1936 Permits expire at the end of the year. Motorists who wish to avoid waiting in line will be able to do so by procuring their new permits in November.

The 1937 automobile registration plates commemorate Coronation Year both in colour and design. The figures are white on a red background with a white crown on each side at the top. The numbering arrangement will be changed from last year. There will be no letter prefixes. The series letter will come in the second, third or fourth position between the numbers and each plate will have only one series letter.

In announcing the advance sale of 1937 Permits, Mr. McQueen stated that the Department will be unable to consider requests for special arrangements of numbers or special series letters. This has occasioned considerable extra work in the past and the Minister hopes by its discontinuance, to save the expense this extra work involved and at the same time increase the efficiency of the service given to all motorists.

One hundred issuing offices throughout the Province will be ready to supply the new permits and registration plates on November 1st. As for series, those living in districts remote from issuing offices can procure their permits and licenses by mail, direct from the Department of Highways, Motor Vehicles Branch, Queen's Park, Toronto.

Home Cellar

The storage of root vegetables for home use during the winter months presents little difficulty. Beets, carrots, rutabagas, more commonly known as swede turnips, can be stored in any frost proof, moist, dark, but properly ventilated cellar. The most suitable temperature for storage is 33 degrees Fahrenheit. In all cases, the vegetables should be well cleaned, free from insect injury and other blemishes, and should be of medium size. Medium-sized vegetables, fully grown, have much better quality than the larger, over-grown products.

A good storage place can be cheaply constructed in the corner of a dwelling-house cellar, using either brick or concrete blocks. A row of battens fixed with sheathing on the outer and inner sides will prevent the extreme rise in temperature caused by the furnace. The door of the storage compartment should be made of corrugated iron, with the top and bottom sliding on rollers. A means of regulating the temperature is provided by a window on the outside wall of the cellar, which can be used as a vent.

If the cellar floor is concrete, a three-inch layer of sandy loam soil should be spread on the part enclosed in the vegetable storage compartment. This will enable the humidity of the soil to prevent the loss of water from withering. This soil is also useful for the storage of the bulbs and the celery plants which should be placed as closely as possible with the roots attached, and the celery placed at the foot of the row, but with a space of eight inches between the rows.

Instead of lumber, one inch thick by three inches wide, for ends, sides, and floors will save space and prevent rotting. The root crops and potatoes should be stored in these, and when the cabinet purchasers of used cars and trucks will not have to pay the usual transfer fee with only two months of the year remaining.

THE ELEPHANT SWITCHMAN

In India there is a very large lumber company that has distinctive log rails of different colors. The logs are brought in from three lines of the different colors and converge into the main line. At the point of convergence there is a switch which directs the log to the right or left line. The switch is operated at this switch as the switchman.

This work is so reliable that it requires no direction from man. Each log is directed by the switchman. The switchman is a small figure of a different color from the logs, but of the same size. One is white and the other is red. The switch has three positions, and these positions are designated by the color of the log. When the elephant sees the log coming down the main line, it will stop and wait for the log to pass. The elephant is so intelligent that it will wait for the log to pass before it will move. The elephant is so intelligent that it will wait for the log to pass before it will move. The elephant is so intelligent that it will wait for the log to pass before it will move.

THE FARM AND HALLOWEEN-ORIGIN AND LEGENDS

No farm; no Halloween festivities. That is the position, although little thought may be given to the festivities of Halloween and the farm. As the producer of the fruits of the earth, are inseparable. Certainly, the apple and the pumpkin, two farm products, are popularly associated with Halloween, but the farm is also the source of all the necessary essentials of the feast. Even the humble cabbage, apart from its culinary purposes, has a peculiar significance at Halloween, for do not some maidens rally forth in the darkness of the night to the cabbage patch to pick a stem, in order to divine the characteristics of their future husbands? If the stems be tall, or short, or crooked, so shall their future husbands be.

The pumpkin pie, a Jack-o'-lantern in the hands of a fortune teller, is the improved Canadian edition of the pumpkin pie in Europe, and to many a youth in the pumpkin is the symbol of Halloween. It is either for food or for decoration. The pumpkin is also a symbol of the autumn harvest, but after all the harvest is a time of the year when the farmer is busy with his work. THE BIG NOISE

I live on a busy city street where north meets south in endless beat. Pedestrians rush to and fro. Automobiles and heavy trucks rumble along. Hand-organs grind out fast tunes. Children play with squeaking toys. I never hear it—I mean the noise.

To effect the outside din, Pantheonian regiments within. There's the busy drum major. Agitated by a high soprano. Building vibrations "All About" Conversation on the telephone. Jazz from a Supermarket. The people die with a whimper. Electric bells, all household joys. I never hear it—I mean the noise.

But, guess what happened the other night. I'm all in yet from such a fright. A mouse ran out to take a deep sound asleep! —Florence Gould.

HOW TAXES ARE PAID

A package of cigarettes costs the Canadian consumer 30 cents. But according to The Financial Post, less than one-fourth of that 30 cents goes to the manufacturer, while nearly half of it is taken by the Dominion government for excise stamp duty on leaf and sales tax.

And this is merely one case of hidden taxes. Every shirt, every suit of clothes and practically all other articles of everyday use bought in Canada are taxed in similar fashion. For the purpose of filling the Federal treasury at Ottawa. If all Dominion taxes were levied in the same way as those imposed by a municipality, there would soon be an outcry that would force Parliament to turn its activities to devising means of saving rather than expending.

BUILT OF SCOTTISH STONE
MACLAREN CASTLE SOLD

MacLaren's castle on the face of Caladon mountains, which was built by Scottish masons of stone imported from the land of the heather, has been sold, executor of the Donald MacLaren estate said. The old castle, along with 300 acres of land, some of it heavily timbered, is now the property of W. J. Blow of Woodstock. The new historic structure was built by Alexander MacLaren, who obtained a crown title to the property several years after he came from Scotland 118 years ago. The new owner of that day thought the Canadian title of that day should be Canadian title and custom would be Canadian title. Add Scotland, and he proceeded with plans for a castle which he had seen in Perthshire. About the year 1845 he found that the expense of the massive building was too great for the income of his lands and the property was mortgaged.

Friends settled with the creditor, and MacLaren, later acquiring a few county, willed the property equally to his sons, Donald and Duncan, and his daughter, Misses Mary and Grace. His daughter, Misses Mary and Grace, died in 1923 and Duncan a year ago.

Many interesting relics of Indian days have been found on the moor about the castle, for years the moors of the castle, to the Caladon mountain district.
