Memories

How often when the eventide
This closed the Book of Day,
I walk, in fancy, with the boy
Who sleeps so far away;
I clasp again his little hand
Contentedly in mine,
I know that in his love for me
There is a spark divine.

I see the bloom of moonlight glow
Within his steadfast eyes,
I watch the progress of his soul
The light of enterprise.
I know that soon the world will call
My boy to do his part,
I know that I shall always hold
A place within his heart.

Once more I hear the bugle call,
I see his face alight
With quick desire to take the field
In battle for the right.
"Somewhere in France" he sleeps, but oh!
My watch shall never cease
Until the dawn of that great Morn
Of Everlasting Peace.

—William Banks.

Peace! Peace!

PEACE! Peace! On November 11, 1918, the word travelled the length and breadth of the firing line of the Great World War with the speed of shell fire. Men laughed at it with worried contentment. They had heard that story too often in the years since an arrogant militarism had set out to make Germany the absolute master of Europe and the dictator of the world. Germany's plans were forever shattered, it flitting before the allies crossed the Rhine.

As the day wore on, officers, almost hysterical with joy, confirmed the news that Germany, defeated on land and sea, with her people at bay, should end, were not Mars and to tread once more the pleasant paths of Peace. To many the thought of home brought with it thoughts of the comrades who would not make the return journey; the gallant hearts of whom it could be said:

"In the glory of their manhood they fared forth on a Great Adventure; their hearts aflame with the desire to keep Freedom inviolate and unshaken. They feared not death, and meeting it they won the Victor's crown."

In the great hour of Peace the memories of their fallen comrades came to things who remained, like sweet and tender echoes of sacred and unspoken thoughts. The way was set that the only more the pleasant paths of Peace, to many the thought of home brought with it thoughts of the comrades who would not make the return journey; the gallant hearts of whom it could be said:

"In the glory of their manhood they fared forth on a Great Adventure; their hearts aflame with the desire to keep Freedom inviolate and unshaken. They feared not death, and meeting it they won the Victor's crown."

The War was over.

Looking backward we may trace the path we have followed along the Highway of Time to the present. Here we have marched gaily with a song of happiness; on our hearts, here we blundered wearily with sorrow at our side. In vain we try to see the road ahead. Put our feet in the past, we are not to see the road ahead. Put our feet in the past, we are not to see the road ahead. Put our feet in the past, we are not to see the road ahead.

Life is what we make it, but it leaves our feelings to blame it on somebody else.

Customer—I suppose you are your own boss?
Harber—No sir, I'd give anything to be single again.

Old Lady—"Can you cheer your little brother up and stop his crying?"
Small Boy—"Well, did you ever try cheer anybody up that's just had five bananas, two hot dogs, and seven ice cream cones?"

HINTON'S JEWELLERY, Georgetown

Halton County Educational Association

President E. Holtby presided at the annual meeting of the Halton Educational Association in Milton on October 29th. He questioned whether trustees realize the importance of their position and responsibility as holders of property and trustees of the lives of our future citizens. He emphasized the fact that the responsibility of life was far greater than the financial responsibility. We should see that all children get the best advantages in life, especially those who are not capable of making good use of the academic subjects, the speaker stated. This is not the fault of the boys and girls and everything possible should be done to help them to be useful citizens in the community. He stressed the importance of ratepayers appointing the best men in their communities to represent them on school boards, and when these men or women are elected give them full support and do not begrudge the money which they spend. A few extra dollars may mean considerable advantage to the pupils in the school.

Mr. C. Roy Penwick, Provincial Director of Music, stated that last year about 165 rooms had introduced the teaching of music for the first time. Nearly all of these were in rural Ontario. He showed that the teaching of music had a great influence on the life of our citizens. It not only had the value in helping many to make a life but it also trained the mind, gave poise to one's appearance, improved speech, develops the health and discipline of the body. He stated that our young people will get music in some way and by the teaching of it in the good music will be encouraged. The object of teaching music is not to develop artists but to develop a love of appreciation, of performance and of listening. He emphasized the value of literary teachers in rural districts and the development of musical festivals which were doing a great deal in developing the interest in music throughout the Province.

Provincials took place in the public speaking contest. Miss Irene Leslie of Acton was chosen by the judges to represent the county in the District contest.

Mr. Hartley gave a report of the O.E.A. convention in which she emphasized the work of the Association and the influence which it has had in the past on the educational system. She advocated the development of night classes and stated that many things can be secured in our rural schools if we only take advantage of the opportunities which the Department has made for them.

J. H. Denney, Public School Inspector, outlined the grants to schools and Mr. A. Campbell, Secretary of Halton Association in his report showed many of the inequalities which existed in one of the townships of Halton County pointing out that much could be done in equalizing our educational system by more co-operation among school boards.

Mr. E. Holtby was re-elected president for next year; vice-president, John Smith, 2nd vice-president, J. H. Hartley, and Mrs. M. Brown and M. A. Campbell were appointed joint secretaries.

It was decided that we hold another meeting in Milton on March 4th, 1937, to discuss resolutions which will come before the Provincial Association.

NORVAL

Norval Presbyterian W.M.S. held their thank-offering meeting in the church last Thursday. Miss Mary Anderson, missionary on furlough from Kobe, Japan, addressed the meeting. The Norval Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society has completed their annual work for funds. They report a very good year. The new officers are:

President—Mrs. Thomas McMillan.
Vice-president—Mrs. R. V. Wilson.
Secretary—Miss Prairie Maguire.
Treasurer—Mr. Murray Laird.

They wish to thank all those who responded to their appeal for this worthwhile work.

The annual social supper of Norval Presbyterian Church was an outstanding success. After a delightful dinner a varied program was presented in the church auditorium. The Knox Church Orchestra from Acton rendered many selections, a young Hampton piano-accompanist delighted the audience with his playing. Rev. Norman McMillan gave his interpretations of Dickens' characters, and Miss Ruth Winter, alias Weir Head, brought down the house with his comedy of old fashioned songs. Previous to the programme the Hon. Duncan Marshall addressed the audience.

MILTON

Halton County Fall Asizes opened here Monday afternoon. Mr. Justice Cleverly presiding. There being no criminal cases he was presented with civil cases. Bertram Basil Lamb, of Oshawa, was granted a divorce from his wife, Cora Irene Lamb of Oshawa, formerly of Campbellville. Walter Henry Clark, of Cheltenham, is named co-respondent. The case was undefended. In the only non-jury case tried, Dr. John McCreary, Toronto, sued the provincial highway department and the County of Halton for $1500 damages as a result of an automobile accident on the Road Highway, Trafalgar, on the night of January 3rd, 1936. Judgment was reserved.

Mrs. J. S. Steverag has returned to Milton after an enjoyable visit of three months to friends in Victoria, B.C.

J. W. Higgins, Walter (husb) Norval, George (husb) Norval and Harold Wilson spent the week end in Detroit. Shirley Elliott of Milton, was one of the entertainers at the Halton party and concert in the town hall hall, Milton, on Thursday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hill, Elm Hill and Mrs. Marion Schenk, of Glen Williams, and Mrs. Evelyn Pratt of Georgetown visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard White on Sunday—Cheltenham.

ACTON

The engagement is announced of Stella Laurine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Harold Webster, of Acton, to Robert E. Barr, of Port Credit. The marriage to take place quietly in November.

Nacagawaya Township received a cheque from the Provincial Government for income tax levied $1399.

Friends were indeed pleased to see George Peshit home from the Hospital in Guelph on Saturday and learn that no more be vital treatment is necessary for his injured hand. George, last four fingers of his right hand, but is very cheerful over the fact that the hand is now healing nicely, and that he has a thumb and stump of the hand left. He is grateful that he has learned to write with his left hand and is already planning for some vacation in which his loss will not be so serious a handicap.

Friends in Acton were indeed shocked to learn of the death on Friday of Mrs. Fred Maule of Milton, on Friday last she had suffered a stroke. Mrs. Maule was, before her death, Christina B. Cox, a daughter of Mr. and the late Stephen Cox, and was a native of Nacagawaya Township. Following her marriage to Mr. Fred Maule the couple resided in Acton for a number of years. They lived in the city until two years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Maule returned to Milton. Mrs. Fred.
