but... does he?

Sure you "get along", Mr. Brown, and you could get along without a lot of other things, too. Your car, for instance, and that shiny tractor over there. And lots of others. But, your idea isn't just to "get along"; it's to live.

You invested money in those other things because they give you good return, either the money, comfort or enjoyment.

And so, Mr. Brown, since you know as well as anyone, you're making a bet? It will give you maximum return in money, comfort and enjoyment. Drop into our nearest office.
They'll tell you more about it!

NEVER THINK WE'RE DEAD FOR ALL Does the road wind up hill all the way?

Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?

From morn to night my friend, But this is the night for a resting place.

A road for when the slow dark hours begin.

May hot and darkness hide it, from the face?

You cannot mix that in,

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?

These will have gone before,

Then morn or night or all, when just in sight?

They will not keep you waiting at the door.

Small, soft, comfort, travel-size and weak?

Of course you shall find the sum will be best for—morn and all what see?

From bed—for all who come.

FIFTY YEARS OF MILITARY BANDS AND BANDMasters OF THE HALTON REGIMENT

THE PRE-WAR PERIOD OF
A. CASTELLI

By Lt. Colonel Jay Ballantine, D.D.O.

V.D.
Before taking the services of Mr.
Castelli, I find it necessary to make a few corrections, in order that this record may be accurate and indicative of the bandmasters of the Regiment.
I have omitted the services of Mr.
Rudolf, who was one of the most talented musicians in the band, and Mr. Ziegler, who took a deep interest in the band for many years after once he had left. Once a bandmaster, he was not to be excused. In fact, he was not an exception, but all the bandmasters of the band kept in touch with the bands of later years and was always ready with some interesting reminiscence of the earlier days. He was a man who was fully enough to be said to have independently begotten to state that W. H. Wilson had led the band for eleven years, and when he died, with the Regimental Band.

I neglected our professional studies too. We had a man in one of the bands who could whistle. He had one like the white swan, and whenever he burst into one of his resolute cadences, people would stop short and listen to his exquisite sound. Young men were all the time where he worked, and all the time church recognized his talent and engaged him to warble away the church tunes to the delight of the congregation.

He had been writing music for the band for nearly two years, after which he had written for the band.

On Tuesday morning, Feb. 10th, the Presbytery of Halton assembled at St. Paul's Union Church, Milton, to hear the address of Rev. Geo. G.
McPhee, M.A., D.D. and Rev. Dr. Mc-Leod of Toronto, who, after telling of their work in the field of ministry, gave an inspiring message on the subject.

Not all protestant bodies have joined in the effort, which is gradually spreading to the remoted parts of the Dominion. In January of this year, Mr. Alexander, a former member of the band, led a service of witness, to which people responded enthusiastically and which is spreading now in the Lenten period in all directions. Teams of workers have been working in the provinces in London, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and other centres. The movement has been great and very popular.
Mr. Castelli possessed all these qualities and his services to the Regiment, and to the Church and the people, are recalled with satisfaction by all who knew him. His name is now in the annals of the band, and he will be held in high esteem by those who will be here after him.

Mr. Castelli was a man of great talent, and he kept it together.

He was a member of the Halton Contingent that went to the Tercentenary Celebration at Quebec in 1935, while the troops marched past King George the Fifth, and the Duke of York.

The pre-war Regiment all knew him and appreciated his fellowship, and the sense of humour as well as his services as bandmaster.

He had those years had to go, for if the Regiment ever reached the state of efficiency it had in the year 1935, and the early administration of Col. Moore.

He had some interesting characters in his band, and there are a great number of players who played in his band during those years. Jim Charlie McKenzie is one of them, and as he is still with us, let us say a few words about him. Jim Charlie is a tall, thin lad, with a quiet, gentle manner. He is a good player, and has a great sense of humour. He is a good example to the young players in the band.
