The SNAPSHOT GUILD CONCERNING BEAUTY

It has been said that in photography an artistic picture is a thing beautifully photographed, rather than a beautiful thing photographed.

Essentially true, but regardless of subject, it can't be done unless the photographer can perceive some beauty in the "thing." The "thing" may be just a piece of rope, a croaker barrel or an old sock, but it contains surroundings and portrayed under the effect of the right lighting. It may truly reveal beauty and make an artistic picture.

There is no rule of photography for discovering beauty nor any final criterion of what is artistic. Fundamentally, it's "every man for himself" in these respects, but there are certain sound conditions that must be obeyed if you wish to make a picture that will be generally acclaimed as an artistic, unless, of course, you prefer to join the fancy-free surrealist school of art and take your chance. Briefly, these admonitions are as follows:

1. Provide every picture with a single, dominant idea that will easily be comprehended by anyone to whom the picture is shown. The idea should be expressed by a principal object. Avoid divided interest. Exclude elements that distract attention from the principal one.
2. See that the setting is in harmony with the principal subject and surrounds it with an atmosphere that contributes to emphasizing the main idea, or at least does not detract from it.
3. Work for well-balanced composition in your view-finder before you let the picture through your lens. Generally the dominant subject should not be in the center. Experiment with the principal subject and surrounds it with an atmosphere that contributes to emphasizing the main idea, or at least does not detract from it.
4. Study the light and shadow areas. Observe their relation to the principal subject. Consider the strength and softness of the shadow contrasts. Note especially the highlights. It is the effect of shadows and highlights that often gives beauty to an ugly object.
5. Allow ample exposure to bring out desired details.

The artistic effect in the case of many subjects often may be improved by the use of a color filter over the lens, or by a pictorial diffusion disk. Again it may be improved by the use of a color filter over the lens, or by a pictorial diffusion disk. Again it may be improved by the use of a color filter over the lens, or by a pictorial diffusion disk.

How a rusty, old chain and anchor can reveal beauty or what do YOU think?

In various ways in the process of printing or enlarging, such as "dodging" to heighten or subdue the lighting of certain areas, by making portions of the negative, or by trimming the print. Also it may be improved by choosing a printing paper with a surface best suited to the subject.

In employing these devices it is again "every man for himself," but remember they will scarcely serve if there was no original beauty in the composition of the picture when it was framed in your viewfinder.

IN CAUSE OF "TERMS CASH"

Not so many years ago, says the Periga News-Record, all bills for sundry items were paid in terms. All bills of $10 and under cash; on the balance, nine months credit on approving terms. The length of the credit period, or the percentage off for cash varied somewhat, but the terms were similar on them all. Now every sale bill in this district at least, bears the line "Terms—Cash."

BUSINESS SUMMARY

The following is a brief summary of business activity in the district of Montreal from its branches in Ontario.

TESTED RECIPES

- Spring Fashions in Foods
As styles in clothing change with the approach of spring, so do the appetites which accompany warmer weather. What might be termed "spring dishes" are those which are so satisfying during the winter months, are replaced at this time of year by lighter, more nourishing, steamed puddings and similar desserts in favour of light, frothy dishes of milk and fruit, which can be made very appealing.
- Wash and dry lettuce leaves well. Combine other ingredients. Spread mixture on leaves. Roll up like jelly roll. Tie with string. Serve two or three rolls on each salad plate.

When Does a Mother Fail?

This is a question that is often asked these days; a question that comes close to home in many families. But, is it not true that a mother fails when she allows her children to answer her back and treat her like a drudge. When she is obliged to ask the father to discipline the children, or the servants when she encourages her daughter to dress beyond her means, while she turns and patches her own clothes, and goes around looking like a tramp. When she does the hard, and disagreeable work, and allows the able-bodied daughter to sit about the morning, or sit around reading novels. And lastly, when she waits on her son or daughter, instead of bringing them up to wait on themselves, and encouraging them to be self-reliant.
