EXHIBITION OF WATERCOLORS

On October 23rd and 24th, Mrs. Agnes M. Bruyns exhibited some of her beautiful watercolors at her home on Charles St., Georgetown. We have had more than one exhibition in Georgetown, but mostly pictures of the north country, big cities, the rocky mountains and scenes from Europe which the average man and woman has never seen and probably never will see. Mrs. Bruyns' pictures, however, are all of rural Ontario in which the specialists at present. We could admire our own backyards, as it were, and we must admit we never knew there was so much beauty to be found here, before we had seen Mrs. Bruyns' pictures. There were woodland and farm scenes, country roads, farms and town houses, churches and barns, as they show their changing beauty in the four seasons of the year.

As Ontario folk, we have to appreciate Mrs. Bruyns' work and hope she goes on with her aim to depict rural Ontario as it is today. It will be something of value for the generations to come to have a faithful and artistic picture of the farms house, the family house or a scene of the old home town. What a wealth of history we could have today if George-town had had a Mrs. Bruyns', say 50 or 60 years ago.

At the same time, Miss Lucy Molsworth exhibited some of her handcraft pottery, several pieces of which were decorated with Ontario wild flower designs. They were very beautiful.

BALLINAFAD

Mrs. R. Ricketts of Guelph was a Sunday visitor at her mother's, Mrs. K. Shortill.

Snow had charge of the devotional exercises. It was planned to have a bazaar late in [illegible]ber. After the business part of the [illegible]ing Miss McEnery entertained [illegible] solo, and also had charge of the contest. Lunch was served by the committee at the close.

The Mission Circle held their autumn thank-offering meeting Wednesday evening in the church. Miss Muriel Crossman had charge of the devotional part. A very interesting address on some of the results of mission work in China was given by Miss Mary Gormley, B.A., a missionary on furlough from China. Members of the Georgetown Circle were present and a piano duet by Miss M. Overend and Miss B. Speight and a solo by Miss Speight were very much appreciated.
