OBITUARY

ERNEST CHAPMAN
After a protracted illness, death came to Mr. Ernest Chapman, in his 71st year. He came to Canada 20 years ago, living for a time in Terra Cotta, later moving to Glen Williams where he worked in the woolen mills and Georgetown coating mill. In the spring of 1890 he moved to Muskoka, where he has lived ever since. Mr. Chapman was deeply interested in the religious life of the community, and was instrumental in having a small log church built on his own land and enriched by many gifts. The little log church had played its part and is now superseded by a larger one. In the quiet peacefulness of the church yard, with the shelter of the church he loved, his remains were laid to rest amidst many floral tributes. He rests in peace.
From earthly torments free,
In joys that never cease
The Father's face to see.
His pain and suffering o'er
Where darkness is not night,
He lives forever more
In God's eternal light.

BANK OF MONTREAL ISSUES STRONG ANNUAL STATEMENT

Gain of over $30,000,000 in Current Loans brings total to $204,769,812, increased from $174,141,011. Total assets are $229,833,950—liquid assets at $509,051,153 are equal to 79.58 per cent of all liabilities to the public.
The Bank of Montreal's annual statement, just issued, and appearing on page 2 of this issue, reveals an increase of over $30,000,000 in current loans as compared with last year's statement, indicating the expansion that has occurred in trade and manufacture throughout the Dominion. As a result of the greater amount of business handled there was also a moderate gain in net profits.
The statement, which is for the year to October 30th, is being published throughout the country in an easily understandable form, with explanations of its various features. The general statement shows total assets of $229,833,950, up from $205,081,500. Of this amount total liquid assets at $509,051,153 are equivalent to 79.58% of liabilities to the public. Included in liquid assets are government and other bonds and debentures, totalling $437,381,825.
Growth of Current Loans
The department in which the most notable increase has been made is that of current loans to manufacturers, farmers and merchants. As a result these loans now stand at $304,769,812, up from $174,141,011, a gain of over $30,000,000 for the year. These figures reflecting the steady improvement in business conditions in the Dominion. Deposits also showed a steady tendency towards higher levels, with the result that total deposits now amount to $777,299,105, as compared with $691,312,094, in 1936. A good general idea of the Bank's strong position can be gathered from the statement, which shows it now has total assets of $229,833,950, with which to make payment of liabilities to the public of $752,736,753, which leaves an excess of assets over liabilities to the public of $76,897,197.
Moderate Increase in Profits
As a result of the substantial increase in general business net profits show a moderate increase, over the previous year. After deducting government taxes of $942,957, the total profits amount to $2,447,338, which, with the undivided profits, these compare with $3,181,501 in the previous year. From the profits the usual dividends were paid, and an appropriation was made for bank premises of $400,000, leaving a balance to be carried forward of $128,328.

THOUSANDS OF MILES MILLIONS OF FLOWERS

Honey may be defined as a flower food because flowers are the only sources from which it can be obtained, and to collect one pound of it, millions of flowers must be visited and approximately 40,000 miles travelled. Honeybees gather the nectar from the flowers, drop by drop and each bee carries about one ten-thousandth of a pound on each trip to the hive. As the nectar is carried into the hive, it is stored in waxen combs and there most of the moisture is evaporated. In addition, certain chemical changes take place whereby the ordinary sugar of the nectar is transformed into two invert sugars—levulose and dextrose. It is because of these changes that honey is such a valuable food. Honey from different flowers varies in colour and flavor. This is a wise provision in that it provides a honey of suitable flavor to every taste. Habit plays a big part in personal likes and dislikes. For example, name the kind of honey a certain person prefers, and it gives a clue to the predominant type of honey produced in the district in which that person was brought up.
Honey is available in two forms, comb and extracted, the only difference being that extracted honey has been removed from the comb in which the bees stored it. All Canadian honey granulates sooner or later, but granulation does not detract from its quality. To enjoy honey best, it should be eaten in its natural state. Spread on hot biscuits or toast, it is delicious. As a sweetener for the breakfast cereal, it is unsurpassed. It may also be used to replace sugar in many recipes for cooking, canning, and preserving. Full information on this interesting subject is contained in Household Bulletin No. 2, which may be obtained free on application to the Publicity and Extension branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.
Don't put much confidence in inside information. It's usually nothing but silly hokey.

JOURNEY'S END
How shall I learn to leave earth's treasured things—
The quietude of afterglow, the far
Paint singing of an opal wave; white wings
Etched in frail rhythms on the sky;
A star
That keeps a silver vigil — evening's breath,
The crimson glory of a rose, and rain's
Battalions trampling down their chalices—
How shall I learn to leave familiar lanes?
Shall I go softly as the sunset slips
its golden fingers from these quiet trees,
As softly as this quivering shadow
drips
Across the lawn in purple rhapsodies.
As softly as a mellow-throated bird—
Slip like the stars at dawn, unseen, unheard?

KEEPING YOUNG
"Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul.
"Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair—these are the long, long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to the dust. Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of stars and the starlike things and thoughts, the undaunted challenge of events, the unflinching childlike appetite for what next, and the joy and the game of life.
"You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In the central places of your heart there is a wireless station; so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, courage, grandeur and power from the earth, from men, and from the Infinite, so long are you young."—Exchange.

A FISH STORY
A couple of men were going on a fishing trip. After they had started Tom said: "Did you remember the whiskey, Sandy?"
"Aye," said Sandy, "I've got the whiskey."
A little later, "You're sure you've got the beer, Sandy?"
"Aye, the beer is right here."
Still later, "The lunch, Sandy—did you bring the lunch?"
"Sure, mon, I've got the lunch."
And then, just as they neared their first stopping place:
"You've got the fishing tackle, all right, haven't you, Sandy?"
Sandy looked down at his feet under his feet and all over the boat.
"By George—L.A.'s one thing I forgot! Oh, well, we shall just have to make out the best way we can."

Making Progress
Visitor—"Well, Johnny, how are you getting on at school?"
Johnny (aged 7)—"Fine; I ain't doing as well as some of the other boys, though. I can stand on my head, but I have to put my feet against the wall."
"Is your poor husband gone?" asked the colored minister of an aged woman in his flock who had put on heavy mourning.
"Oh, no, sah, he ain't dead," she answered.
"Then why are you wearing black?"
"Case my old man, he's man second, you know, keeps naggin' an' botherin' me so much Ah's come into mournin' again for mah fust husband."
