Rev. Mr. Rumley opened the meeting with prayer, while Miss Isabel Mayfield, President of Georgetown Society, presided. Mr. Charles Willson sang a solo during the evening which was much enjoyed. At the close of the program a delicious lunch was served by Georgetown Young People.

SONGS THAT WILL LIVE FOR EVER

One of the most popular musical comedies of the day, revived time and time again, "The Maid of the Mountains," has been brought to the screen by B.I.P., and comes to the Gregory Theatre, Georgetown, Feb. 28th and March 1st.

At once a genuinely gorgeous and exquisitely funny production, this picture must be highly commended to all film-goers if only by reason of its musical background. Numbers, which we have all come to know and love, are here introduced in such a way that none of the picture's high spirited action is for a moment delayed, and are rendered to perfection by such talented artistes as Harry Welchman and Nancy Brown, in the starring roles.

The rollicking lilt of "Live for Today" sung with an accompaniment of the "clopping" of horses hoofs along the high Mountain pass; the introduction of perfect little cameos illustrative of "A Bachelor Gay" number rendered by Harry Welchman; the mirth provoking ditty "Dirty Work," in which Albert Burdon is chased by Gus McNaughton and Wallace Lupino through an entire Palace, the three of them ending up by falling into the moat, and finally that beautiful number "Love Will Find a Way," sung superbly by Nancy Brown as the "Maid" with all the bewitching charms of the true Gipsy, all go to make this all-British colour feast of romance an entertainment to be seen and seen again.

160 GUELPH INMATES MOVED TO PENETANG

Travelling in special barred coaches on a train used regularly by the government to transfer convicts, one hundred inmates of the psychiatric ward at the Ontario Reformatory pulled out of Guelph yesterday for Penetang, where they will be quartered in the new modern building erected by the provincial government.

Much needed accommodation will be made available for other inmates of the reformatory.

Segregation of the criminally insane in a more suitable building was recommended about three years ago by a coroner's jury investigating the murder of "Scobie Dan" Macdonald, who was slugged over the head with an iron bar by another insane inmate.

SCOUT NEWS

Two weeks ago the troop enjoyed a patrol banquet which closed the two-months' competition. The provisions were supplied by the Wolves and the Beavers, who were the two losing patrols. These two patrols must have arrived at a gentleman's agreement, because the whole menu consisted of chocolate cake and salmon sandwiches. If fish is really brain food as some people say it is, twelve citizens of our town should graduate from university at a very early age. The guests of the evening were Mr. C. Stacey, Hon. Scoutmaster of the troop, also Capt. Pederson and Lieutenant J. Hooke of the Salvation Army. Games were played and later the boys enjoyed a sing-song around the campfire. Music was supplied by the guests and Capt. Pederson, entertained the troop with many stories of his adventures in the north. The festivities came to a close about ten o'clock and everyone left for home after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Last week competition opened again, and most of the boys were present. The Scouter has offered a bonus of twenty-five points to the first boy who earns a second-class badge and this has started a heated struggle between the patrols. The Wolf Patrol was left without a leader, when Scout F. Armstrong resigned, as a member of the troop. Fred has been a Scout for a long time and the troop is very sorry that he finds it necessary to resign from the Brotherhood. Tenderfoot R. Hansen has been temporarily installed as Patrol Leader, until such times as a permanent leader is officially chosen.

On Saturday seven of the boys went on an all day hike to the mountain, where they practised second-class work in the form of fire-lighting, cooking and signalling. After eating a well cooked dinner over a one-match fire the scouts played several stalking games through the woods and the subterranean caverns, the largest of which would make a splendid burrow for a medium sized jack-rabbit. The only casualty of the day occurred when the troop leader was almost stricken with a mild attack of appoplexy. This was caused by two of the boys, whom he saw playing catch with a stick of dynamite which they had found in an old, unused building. However, this little plaything was confiscated before anything in the nature of a calamity took place, and the remainder of the day passed without any further adventures.

FORESTRY MINISTER'S TRIBUTE TO SCOUTING

Tribute to the effectiveness of Scout citizenship training in general, and to the value of Scout co-operation in various forestry department activities, was paid by Hon. Wm. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests of Ontario, at the annual meeting dinner of the provincial scout association. Particular mention was made of help in getting tree-planting publicity to farmers, and the annual work done by scouts on the reforestation project at Angus.

The late Cornwall Badge, the fourth awarded a Canadian Scout, was presented by Lieut.-Governor Herbert John Cox to Scout Middleton Macnamee before a large gathering at the Legislative Buildings, Victoria, B.C. The occasion was marked by the presence of Hon. R. H. Pooley, representing the Provincial Government, and Major David Leeming. The badge is awarded for exceptional character and fortitude shown during an extended period of suffering, and high standing in Scouting.

Before a distinguished gathering at a luncheon at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, given by Mr. E. E. Wood, the Honorary Silver Wolf was presented by His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough as Chief Scout for Canada to Mr. J. W. Mitchell, President of the Provincial Council of the Boy Scouts Association. The decoration was in recognition of twelve years of outstanding service. During Mr. Mitchell's presidency the Scout membership in Ontario has grown from 7,987 to 23,276.

The 26th birthday, February 22, of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, father of the Boy Scouts, and the fact that the Movement this year achieves its 26th birthday, attracts new attention to the phenomenal growth of Scouting within the life of its founder. Reports presented at the recent annual meeting in London show an enrolment of 3,116,366 Scouts and leaders in no less than 84 countries and parts of the British Empire.

Since the inauguration of the Movement in 1908 not less than ten million boys have profited by its training for good citizenship. To this number may be added probably half that number of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts of the resulting sister Movement,—in all some 15,000,000 young people influenced to realize their best in service, health and friendliness.

Not the least contribution has been that to youth world-understanding by this "Junior League of Nations." These world gatherings of Boy Scouts and one of Rover (older) Scouts have brought together many thousands of boys of all nations in completely friendly intercourse. The Scout Jamboree of 1929 called to England over 50,000 boys, many from enemy countries of the Great War, for two weeks of the friendliest fraternizing. A similar gathering this year will bring other thousands together to offer "adult nations" and their diplomats another example of thousands of boys of many countries living and playing together in complete mutual respect and cordial good-will for two jolly weeks.

Truly a wonderful living monument to a living leader; and one for whom many more years of inspired leadership will be toasted by a practically unbroken world chain of Scout and Guide banquets, celebrating his natal day, and that also of Lady Baden-Powell, World Chief Guide, on February 22nd.

NORVAL

The Improvement Society will hold a Social Evening in the Parish Hall, Norval, on Tuesday, Feb. 28th. Euchre and bridge on first floor, crokinole in basement. Playing starts at 8.30 sharp. Good prizes. Light refreshments. Admission 25c.

Old Time Concert in the Parish Hall on Thursday night.

Quite a lot of our citizens are sick with the cold. We hope to see them all around again before long.

MUFFINS FOR SPRING BREAKFASTS

By Betty Barclay

Make your Spring breakfast unusually delightful by serving piping hot muffins—with maple syrup, marmalade, or your favorite preserve or jelly. Incidentally, muffins are excellent for supper too.

Breakfast Muffins

2 cups special cake flour, sifted
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
¼ cup milk
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, melted

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg and milk and add to flour, beating until smooth. Add shortening. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Makes 10 muffins.

Queen Tea Muffins

1¼ cups special cake flour, sifted
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
4 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, well beaten
¼ cup milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter, add sugar, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Makes 18 small muffins.

Caramel Pudding with Marshmallow Whip

1 junket tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
4 tablespoons marshmallow toppings
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup boiling water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve junket tablet in cold water. Put sugar in a small saucepan and heat, stirring constantly, until melted and golden brown. Add boiling water and dissolve sugar in it. Add milk to caramel syrup and warm until lukewarm—NOT HOT. Remove from stove. Add dissolved junket tablet and vanilla and turn at once into individual dessert glasses. Let stand in a warm room until firm; then chill before serving. Mix the marshmallow topping with two tablespoons milk. When ready to serve the junket, top with the marshmallow mixture.

Some dishes made from left-over are surprisingly delicious. Odds and ends of both vegetables and meats may be turned into tempting new offerings that will actually surprise guests of the family itself.

A dash of sugar used as a seasoner and to blend the other ingredients will improve the flavor of both vegetable and meat dishes. Try the following for examples, and be convinced.

AGAIN SOMETHING NEW

French Deputies to Record Votes by Pressing Buttons.

The French Chamber of Deputies has decided to make a trial of the system of voting by electricity invented by M. Lyaglois. On the desk of each deputy—in the Chamber every deputy has a permanent seat if he owns—will be four electric buttons, one for 'aye,' one for 'no,' one for abstention, and one that will enable a deputy who has pressed the wrong button to rectify his mistake. The pressure of a button will immediately register the deputy's vote in an apparatus behind the Speaker's chair, and the result will be recorded by a totalizator. The cost of installing the apparatus will be about 926,000.

The present system of voting in the Chamber when a division is demanded is very unsatisfactory. Each deputy puts in an urn carried around by an official of the Chamber a voting card with his name on it. The card is white if he votes 'aye,' and blue if he votes 'no.' Voting by proxy is allowed. The counting of the votes takes about a quarter of an hour.

IS AN OYSTER A FISH?

Difference of Opinion in Legal Case in England.

Whether or not an oyster is a fish was a question raised before the Colchester Area Assessment Committee when the Essex County Valuation Committee sought to have the Colne Oyster Fishery assessed. The oyster fishery is a lease from the Colchester Corporation who from time immemorial have enjoyed the rights and privileges of the river. Counsel for the company, Gerald Beaham, said he would admit that an oyster was not only a fish but a super-fish.

Frederick Levy, who appeared for the Committee, said that from the scientific point of view it was not certain that an oyster was a fish, but legally it had been established so long ago as Richard II., that an oyster was a fish. If that was so a fish was something that swam in a fishery, and a fishery was something that could be assessed.

The Committee held that the fishery was subject to assessment, and they fixed a figure of $3,160 on the property. Mr. Beaham gave notice of appeal.

MODERN ART.

Artist and Editor See Absolutely Different Angles.

An amusing story as told by Sir Philip Gibbs concerns an artist who was sent abroad by the editor of a London illustrated paper.

His job was to make sketches of the country and the people. It was, however, his first experience, and he made a mess of it. The sketches he sent home being very poor, and at times quite unintelligible.

The editor took him to task on his return, and told him that if he could not make a recognizable sketch of anything it would have been far better to have indicated in writing what the picture represented.

"Take this one, for instance," he continued, picking up one of the artist's sketches. "Since you were apparently in such a hurry that you hadn't time to draw it more carefully, why didn't you write above it, 'This is a windmill'? Then our people would have known what it was intended for, instead of which they had to guess."

"But it isn't a windmill; it's a man on horseback," replied the artist.

ANCIENT OAK BURNED.

Was Tree, Six Centuries Old, Destroyed by Carelessness.

One of the splendid old oaks in Windsor Great Park, was destroyed by fire recently, the blaze being witnessed by the King and Queen, who were motoring through the park at the time. Their car was stopped a few minutes, while Their Majesties watched the progress of the blaze, and the King enquired the cause of the fire. He was told that it probably was due to picnickers setting fire to rubbish, and he expressed regret that such a fine old tree should perish in such a way. This particular oak was 600 years old, and stood near Queen Anne's Gate on the main Windsor-to-Ascot road. There are now only a few of these fine old trees remaining in the lower portion of the park.

WHIRLPOOL IN OCEAN.

Curious Phenomenon Spins Gateway From Its Course.

A whirlpool in the ocean, 150 miles east of Cape Cod, so strong that it repels a ship, was described by Captain William E. Parker of the Hydrographer, one of the four U. S. coast and geodetic survey vessels engaged in the first complete charting of George's Banks.

The whirlpool was reported by Captain Parker as spinning outward instead of towards its centre.

He said he had made several attempts to force the Hydrographer through it but the force of the water immediately threw the vessel off its course. He planned, he said, to investigate the phenomenon further upon his return to the Banks.

RULES ON POTATO STALKS.

It is not true that a potato plant has "gone crazy or somethin'" when it has bulbs growing along its stalks; for they are not tubers but seed pods. The bulbs usually grow about the size of a cherry. They will grow in clusters. Certain seasons will not see any and some people who grow potatoes will never have seen these as they are not common. If tubers are planted yes will not see such development; but it may happen when seed is planted.

Grounds for Divorce.

A shrill voice allied to a tendency to talk too much is a wife might well become grounds for a divorce, states a French Government expert on deafness.

Portuguese Tomatoes

2 cups cooked meat
6 large tomatoes
¼ teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper

Peel the tomatoes and simmer them gently in the gravy, adding the seasoning to them. When the tomatoes are tender but have not lost their shape, skim them out and put where they will keep hot. Heat the meat in the gravy and make rounds of toast. Serve the meat on the buttered toast with a tomato on top of each.

Carrot Tips

Cut cooked carrots in cubes, reheat in a medium white sauce seasoned with salt, pepper and a little sugar. Cut toasted bread into rounds and rings, using a doughnut cutter for the latter. Arrange a ring on each round, and fill with the creamed carrots. Garnish with parsley.

SUN LIFE HAD GOOD YEAR

In a year when business statements are, on the whole, far from cheering the published experience of life insurance makes heartening reading.

While other investments have too often proved disappointing, every policy held in our life insurance companies is still worth one hundred cents on the dollar, with substantial additions in accumulating dividends.

The steady flow of insurance funds into productive industry is one of the greatest mainstays of business today. But few realize the extent of this financial support in the case of individuals. Payments to policyholders and their dependants during the year, for instance, by the Sun Life of Canada, whose statement appears in another column, climbed to over $106,000,000. A portion of this represents money that the assured could obtain only on the value of their policies to meet the special exigencies of a distressing period.

These and other conditions during the past three or four years have subjected life insurance companies to a most exacting test. The war and the influenza epidemic, by abnormally increasing mortalities, produced a situation against which human foresight could scarcely provide. The financial catastrophe by which they were so closely followed created conditions that only the strongest institutions could withstand.

Yet, during the three years in question, the business of the Sun Life Company increased by nearly five hundred million dollars and its assets by forty-three million dollars. The number of its policyholders increased, during that period, by over two hundred thousand and now amounts to nearly a million. This resiliency under abnormal strain is both amazing and reassuring to the man in the street.

One explanation of the ability of an insurance company to meet all its obligations under such trying conditions is that its obligations are so scientifically estimated that it is able to provide for all expenditures out of ordinary revenue. This renders it unnecessary to dispose of assets during a period of depressed prices, and makes the fluctuation of security prices a matter of no special concern.

The report of the Sun Life refers to the fact that the total of its assurances in force—nearly three billion dollars—will be payable during the present generation. If to this huge sum be added the amount payable during the same period by other insurance companies the wholesome effect upon the economic and social situation in the coming years can scarcely be over-estimated.
