Cussion of troop activities.

Over the week end the Beavers busied themselves in building a patrol hut, the whereaboute of which they are keeping a dark secret. However, if the hut is of no larger proportions than the one which they began last spring, the manner in which they hope to put eight members into such a confined space will be the mathematical wonder of the twentieth century. Should the weather: on Saturday prove agreeable the troop leader plans an all day hike for all the patrols. This will include many outdoor games and tests which the Scouts find so
