THE ROMANS had a phrase for it---

"CAVEAT EMPTOR," meaning "Let the buyer beware." This wasn't used as a bit of balm to ease the ancient conscience; nor, yet was it placarded in the booths and stalls of the market-place. It was a piece of every-day knowledge, born of dear-bought experi-

A shopkeeper knew little about the source of his merchandise. This tunic he bought from a trader; who said it came from Byzantium. So he sold it as the latest Byzantian style. The trader told him the dye was pure Tyrian-it wouldn't fade. So he sold it as Tyrian dyed. But the buyer knew the responsibility was his own. If he gussed wrongly, or his judgment was poor, it was his hard luck.

To-day, fortunately, there are safer guides than the blanket-warning to "let your eyes be your market."

These guides are the newspaper advertisements. In this newspaper, they are a catalogue of the best values in town-signed by responsible firms. If the goods are not all that is claimed for them, their sponsors would need to "heware." For no business can thrive on a one-time sale, or on dissatisfied customers.

A signed advertisement is, in a way, like a promissory note. The advertiser has made a statement. and affixed his signature as a sign of good faith.

So, read the advertisements before you start out on a buying-trip. Make this a daily habit, and see how much you save-in time, in temper, in money, in shoe Jeather.
